PROBLEM CRACK at 670 Hazel Court, Roselle, in a foundation is one of several which has forced the owner and contractors into legal fights. Roselle wants the foundation filled in or fenced to remove danger to neighborhood children.

by RICHARD BARTON

The court summons hsa been served on the owner of a reported hazardous unfinished foundation at 670 Hazel Court and remedial action is expected within the next week.

The fury of legal maneuvers continues on all sides while children continue to face possible harm from an unfinished house foundation at 670 Hazel Court, Roselle.

Contractors are suing contractors through insurance companies and private lawyers. The village of Roselle is seeking legal proceeding to force the removal of the hazard.

"The village will not destroy the foundation until the legal groundwork is straight," Robert Frantz, village president, said Tuesday.

THE VILLAGE was waiting for a summons to be served on the owner of the property, John Pelikan of Des Plaines, to force him to put up a fence or remove the hazard. After several reported attempts, DuPage County sheriff's deputies finally served the summons late last week.

Frantz said yesterday, following village legal opinion, that Pelikan has 15 days from being served to remedy the situation in accord with state laws. After that, he said, the village can get a court order and destroy and fill-in the foundation.

"Despite what is being said the village will wait until that court order can be obtained to avoid any legal suits in repercussion," he said.

Pelikan has no telephone in Des Plaines and couldn't be reached for comment Wednesday or yesterday. His attorney, Bernard Wiczer of Chicago, was also unavailable yesterday but was scheduled to return a Register call as soon as he was available.

A SUITABLE fence around the property would satisfy the village, Frantz said, if installed by Pelikan, who must still be liable for accidents.

Two contractors involved in law suits against Pelikan and his general contractor, Lucas Construction, are Barnes Excavating Inc. of Bloomingdale and D and B Construction of Palatine.

Curt Barnes said yesterday that the situation is in the hands of his insurance company. There is some work left to be done on the foundation but it won't be, he said, and no one has received payment on work already done and probably won't.

"It is just one of those unfortunate situations and has been blown out of proportion," he said. "The ground there is very poor, however, which is some of the problem."

Gerald DeBruyne, of D and B Construction Co. said yesterday his foundation was poured better than even United States government standards, which are the most strict.

"I have taken boring of the concrete and had them tested," he said. "They prove out I wasn't at fault and the concrete supplier, Vulcan Materials, isn't either."

"THE MAN RUNNING the backfiller should have known better too than to backfill against the foundation when he did (reportedly too soon) and with what he used (reportedly watery soil)," DeBruyne said.

The village has been keeping water pumped out of the foundation so no one will drown. One pump has already been reportedly burned out.

According to the village, the foundation was poured this spring when the ground was thawing. The foundation cracked when or after it was backfilled with dirt and problems have resulted ever since.

Mrs. William A. Cochrum, 662 Hazel Court, Roselle, lives right next to the foundation and has four children.

"When the hole was first dug last year, we neighbors took turns calling the village to get them to pump out the water which had filled up," she said.

"SOMEONE WILL have to stand the responsibility for that thing for the sake of the kids. I would be more concerned if my children wereyounger. They are 10 to 16 years old and help me keep pre-schoolers off the foundation."

The Cochrums are supplying electricity for the village pumps. She didn't know who would pay the bill but hoped the village would.

One other neighbor near the foundation gets flooded from the pumped-out water. Once he put the hose back into the foundation, the pump ran for a long time and burned out.

"If the village doesn't do like it promised, our husbands will take further action and apply the proper pressures," Mrs. William Miehlich, 653 Orchard Court, Roselle, said Wednesday.

Orchard Court is just north of Hazel Court and the neighborhood is also affected by the foundation hazard threat.

"Every time it rains, it fills up with water and becomes a breeding place for mosquitoes," Mrs. Miehlich said. "When the water is pumped out, it stands in the culverts or someone's yard and the same situation exists all over again."

Neighbors complained about the rodent and mosquito problems in the same breath as the danger to their children which was stressed the strongest.

"WE ARE WILLING to give everyone, the village and owner, a fair chance and some action seems to be in the making," Mrs. Miehlich, mother of three children, ages 1 to 7, said.

Mrs. William J. Snyders, 669 Orchard Court, Roselle, said she is anxiously awaiting the filling in of the site. She is a mother of four children, ages 1, 7, 9 and 10.

The kids have a natural fascination for it, she said. Her property backs up to the foundation property and she wants the village to cut the weeds on Pelikan's land.

The village has tried cutting the weeds but the land is too soft for a tractor, she said. The weeds are ruining everyone's lawn, she added.

Mrs. Eugene Swierczewski, 659 Hazel Court, would like to see a house built on the property to finish the neighborhood instead of the filled-in site becoming a dumping area.

"WE DON'T want a free playground or dump, we want a hazard removed and a nice home built there," Mrs. Swierczewski said. "I would be satisfied with a fence around it for now.

She has five children, ages 4 through 13 and wasn't surprised this week's deadline of July 29 wasn't met.

Killed by Train

Funeral services are being held today for Donald R. Reuter Jr., 22, of 360 Catalpa Street, Wood Dale, who was killed late Monday night.

Reuter was struck by a westbound Milwaukee Road freight train as he attempted to run across the tracks at Wood Dale Road, according to Wood Dale police.

Police said witnesses on the 68-car train allegedly saw Reuter duck under the downed crossing gate at 10:48 p.m. in an apparent attempt to cross before the train passed through the crossing.

Services are at Holy Ghost Catholic Church, 254 Wood Dale Road, Wood Dale, at 10 a.m. The wake was held in Geils Funeral Home, 180 S. York Road, Bensenville.

He will be buried in a family lot.

AN INQUEST into the death may be held in two weeks, according to John Geils, funeral home director.

Dr. Samuel K. Lewis, DuPage County coroner, said Thursday it was up to Geils to schedule the inquest. Lewis didn't know when it would be. He is also an Elmhurst physician.

Lewis did say he would like to have positive identification of any individual slated for an inquest as a matter of procedure.

Wood Dale police said identification was made on the scene by a wallet found near the tracks, a tattoo on Reuter's arm and fingerprints.

Reuter attended Lake Park High School, Medinah Road, Roselle, from September, 1962 to about January, 1963. He then transferred to Fenton High School for another semester, according to Fenton High School records.

He left school to join the Navy in the summer of 1962.

HIS FAMILY WAS unavailable for further information Wednesday and Thursday.

Reuter is survived by his parents Donald Sr. and Elaine. He had three brothers Robert, Thomas and Edward. His three sisters are Marie, Helen and Patricia. All live at the Wood Dale home.

Police said Reuter was let out of a friend's car at Irving Park Road near the Clark gas station and ran north.

The train blew its whistle and had its lights on, police said, and the gates were down.

Reuter's grandparents are Martin and Mary Reuter and Mrs. Helen Jayko.

Minor Rush to Beat New Taxes

Most area merchants enjoyed a minor boom in sales of liquor, cigarettes, pipe tobacco, beer and gasoline this week, but the rash of buying was short lived.

What caused it all were new state taxes on those products which became applicable at 12:01 a.m. this morning.

Liquor stores were reporting heavy sales with consumers buying liquor, beer and cigarettes to beat the new tax. Tax increases effective today include an increased tax on liquor from $1.50 to $2 per gallon, or from 30 to 40 cents per fifth. Beer taxes increased from 6 to 7 cents per gallon or about three-fifths of a cent per six pack.

AT FOREMOST Liquors, 767 W. Dundee in Wheeling most people were stocking up on liquor rather than beer. At 11 a.m. yesterday "there was a fairly good crowd" in the store, one salesman said.

"It's been very crowded so far," said a store manager at Heights Liquors Inc. at 3 S. Elmhurst in Prospect Heights. "Both beer and liquor have been selling well."

Michael Sica, manager of Armanetti Liquors in Rolling Meadows, said, "We're so busy we shouldn't be talking to you. It's been mainly the whiskeys and bourbons. The hard liquor is all going extremely well. They're buying it by the case."

The manager of Teddy's Northwest Liquors in Palatine said, "I'm very busy. I shouldn't even be giving you an interview. We've got cases and everything going out of here. I'm very busy. I'd like to talk but good-bye."

Foremost Liquors in Palatine reported a run on all hard liquors, beer and cigarettes.

FRED GRANQUIST of Mount Prospect Package Liquors noticed very little change in the amount of liquor business he was handling. He did note that his supply of cigarettes was entirely exhausted, however.

The Beef N' Barrel Liquor Shoppe of Elk Grove reported no run on hard liquors, beer or cigarettes.

Brentwood Liquors Inc., of Bensenville, also reported no fluctuation in business.

Cigarettes are now taxed at 12 cents a pack instead of nine, and other tobacco products are taxed for the first time at 20 per cent of their value.

TOBACCO sales increased in liquor, food and drug stores throughout the area yesterday. At the Village Pipe and Cigar Shop, 3 W. Davis in Arlington Heights, business was brisk. Cans of tobacco had already been marked with the tax price, but were selling for the original price all during the day yesterday.

Some thrifty Illinois residents even tried to hoard gasoline in an effort to beat the tax.

Tom Barber, owner and manager of the AAA Marathon Service at Palatine and Elmhurst roads in Prospect Heights reported that Wednesday was a record day for his gas sales. "I don't know if there is any connection with the tax or not," he told the Herald. Barber added that yesterday's business was fairly normal.

THE BUFALLO GROVE Enco Service Station at 1200 West Dundee had an average morning rush yesterday. "A couple of people with five gallon cans came in, but its hard to tell if they were just saving on the gas or buying for a construction firm, an attendant said.

Business was up ten per cent from normal at Jerry's Super Shell Service in Elk Grove Village. Jerry Kavanaugh said the day was the best day they've had all week.

He expected more people to be coming in last night to fill up before the higher tax rate on gasoline goes into effect today.

At Bob's Standard Service in Bensenville, Bob Copeland said that business hadn't increased, that it was a slow day. He didn't anticipate an increase in customers because of the higher prices going into effect today.

IT WAS A LITTLE busier yesterday at Bud and Gene's Texaco Service in Mount Prospect. "Everyone wants to fill up today, people are buying full tanks instead of two or three dollars," said Terry Brady.

He said there's not much anyone can do about the higher rates, but they are getting gasoline on the last day of lower rates.

Stan Marszlek at the Colfax Citgo Service in Palatine said there wasn't anything unusual in business yesterday.

He didn't know yet what the increased rates would be for gas at their station. "Business at this station is about the same as any other day," he said.

"PEOPLE ARE trying to save two cents today," said Richard Halles at Itasca Shell Service Center in Itasca. Halles said there had been more business than normal.

He expected the increase to continue for the day." People will definitely be driving less, the price of gas is ridiculous," he said. "Everyone is tired of paying that much," Halles said.

One tax that can't be avoided, however, is the new state income tax. Deductions for 2½ per cent of a family's income minus $1,000 deductions for each dependent will be taken from paychecks issued beginning today.

Library Seeking Story Readers

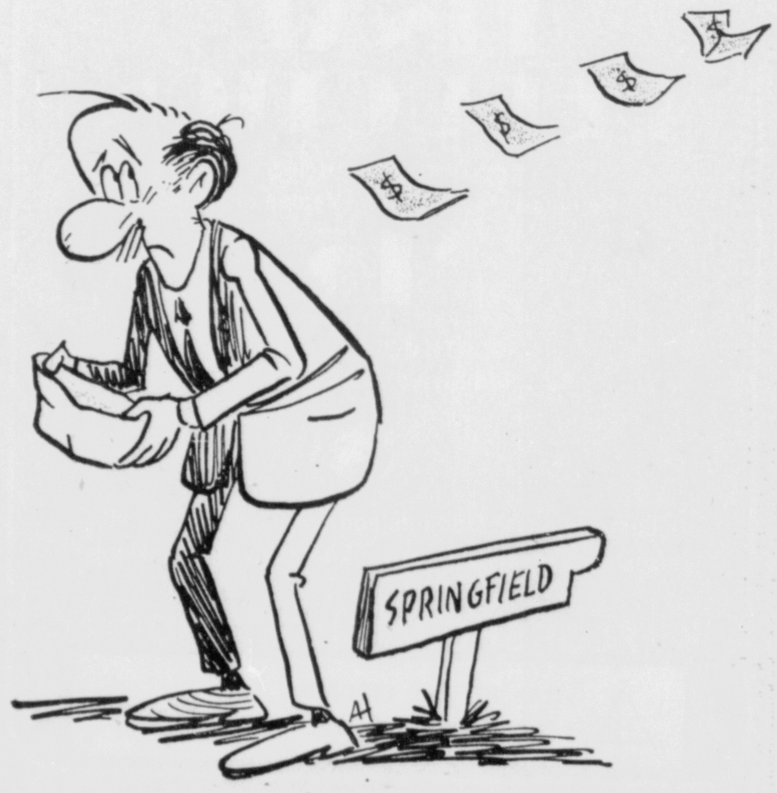

Volunteer readers are being sought by the Roselle Public Library for a story hour to be held every Wednesday morning in August. Mrs. Ronald Bogenschneider, who organized the program, said mothers and teenage volunteers are needed to conduct the weekly 30-minute sessions.

Preschoolers ages 4, 5, and 6 are invited to attend sessions to be held at 10 a.m. on Wednesdays. Children in first and second grades will attend at 11 a.m.

There is no charge for participation in the story hour. The program may be continued on Saturdays in the fall if it is successful during the month of August, Mrs. Bogenschneider said.

Further information on the story hours can be obtained by calling the library at 529-1641.

Redmond Hits Unpopular Bill

y JUDY MORRIS

Discussing what he called "the most unpopular bill since I've been in office," Rep. William Redmond, D-Bensenville, told reporters Wednesday, "I would have been happier to wait on the income tax bill until after the Constitutional Convention."

Redmond said he felt a state that claims to be on the brink of financial disaster should not be spending its money on expansion programs such as the recently enacted state FBI bill and salary increases for many department heads.

Redmond questioned the assertion by state officials that the state is broke. He said that as of June 30, the general fund of the state contained $97,000,000 rather than being depleted as had been predicted. He added the state has about $325 milllion in earmarked funds that could be legally used as general funds.

"ANY STATE THAT has $325 million available is not really on the brink of bankruptcy," Redmond said.

One example of unnecessary spending, according to Redmond, was the increase in the number of state employes. As of February, 1969, the state employed 102,821 workers. In April of this year, the state employed 109,815 persons, an increase of 7,000 employes in a three-month period.

The state representative said he would like to have seen "other offices follow the example of State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson Jr., who cut his department's budget by half a million dollars."

Redmond also maintained that DuPage County, because it has the highest socio-economic level in the state, will be supporting more than its share of the state's expenses.

"JUST AS THE State of Illinois does not receive back the same amount it gives the federal government in taxes, so the County of DuPage will not receive as much back as its people will pay under the new income tax," Redmond said.

He noted that Chicago does not maintain a personal property tax and therefore will get more than its proportionate share of state monies.

"Chicago hasn't made the effort that other communities have to bring in its own tax dollars," Redmond said. "You must insist that a city provide money locally before you hand them state funds," Redmond added.

Redmond conceded, "I am not immune to the problems of the central city," but said he would have "preferred to give the City of Chicago more power to raise its revenue" than to see the state income tax passed as it stood.

"If it weren't for the needs of Chicago, this tax never would have passed," Redmond asserted.

Water Extension Bid OKd

Meeting as the board of local improvements, the Wood Dale Village Council awarded its major water extension project to J. Marich & Sons, Inc., at a cost of $535,489.

The bid was awarded on the recommendation of Edwin Hancock Engineering Co., the engineering consultant which serves as village engineer to Wood Dale. The low bid by Marich was below Hancock's estimate of $603,847.

Known as special assessment 18, the long-sought project will provide a complete loop water system throughout the village.

IN OTHER ACTION Saturday the council mulled over an approved contract for installation of sidewalks in certain sectors of e village which was let last May.

According to Mark Coleman of Hancock Engineering Co., resident engineer, an estimated 45 per cent of the work has been completed. What has created a problem, Coleman advised the council, are the proposed water main extensions throughout the village, which will involve areas where installation of the sidewalks will occur.

When the council awarded the sidewalk contract last spring, the contractor was informed that "there would be very little broken up and that the costs would be incidental."

The key problem area, according to Coleman, is in the widening of Irving Park Road, including the water main installations.

RESIDENTS IN the affected or designated are as have the option of having the sidewalks installed on their own until June of 1970. If this has not been done, then the residents would be subject to a special assessment by the village which will reportedly increase installation costs, above those of a private contractor.

To resolve the problem, the council has elected to release the contractor from the initial contract subject to special conditions on the work which has been completed.

Property owners will be informed by letter explaining council action, including a request to delay sidewalk construction until May, 1970.

It was indicated at Saturday's council meeting that new bids will be requested next May.

Village Beat

Syd Jamieson

This past week ended nearly a quarter of a century of service in Wood Dale for Monarch Disposal Co., the scavenger firm which at one time had an exclusive franchise operation for both commercial and residential pickup in the community.

With awardcng of the unlimited weekly residential service to F. A. Burnier Hauling Co., Monarch for the first time will cease residential operations Aug. 1. Presumably, Monarch will continue to compete with Burnier on the commercial operations in the village which the council has elected to keep on a competitive basis.

Taking nothing away from Burnier, who was a relatively unknown five years ago when he was the low bidder on a new contract agreement under the former village administration, Monarch's departure from the scene ends an era of unheralded contractual relationship between a municipality and a scavenger firm.

AS AL STOB commented at the special council session July 26, "It makes my hetrt drop after we have worked hard for many years." But Stob was also quite frank when he told the council that throughout the 23 years of operation everything was not rosy.

But Stob holds no grudges and left the door open that Monarch would be receptive to submitting a bid at some future date if the council elected to propose a new contract.

Even Monarch president Joe Stob, who lives in Wood Dale, has maintained it would be better for the scavengers and the village to have one firm under contract for residential pickup and one for commercial.

But Joe Stob has also pointed out to the present council that he was losing money on the former $5.75 quarterly billing to his customers and said, "You can't get Cadillac service at Ford prices."

When asked by one resident why he continued to do business in Wood Dale, Stob replied, "I'm bullheaded, I'm stuck, I live here in Wood Dale, that's why."

BUT BURNIER HAD his gripes too, although he had won over many of Stob's former customers.

The council also found Burnier not so easy to understand even when posed with a direct "yes" or "no." This was evidenced in March when Burnier threatened to pull out of Wood Dale April 1 after he finally withdrew his bid on a new contract proposal.

Burnier claimed the bid notice was misleading and that his $5.10 bid was based on both residential and commercial service within the village.

When the threat of Burnier to pull out of Wood Dale was made known in a letter to his customers, the council was bombarded with phone calls at home and in the village hall by irate customers asking what the devil was going on.

The situation was so bad that village officials drafted their own reply, which was read in a stormy council session one Saturday afternoon that found residents screaming and yelling to be heard. The turnout was so large that many of the residents were standing outside the village hall and the council being demanded to recess the meeting and debate the issue in the larger confines of the local Fire Hall.

ONLY THE THREAT of adjourning the stormy session until quiet was restored, appeared to end the chaos which had developed.

It was further made known that the council had made plans to undertake "emergency operations" to pick up the slack in scavenger service which appeared imminent as a result of Burnier's action.

One of the firms contacted to assist the village in the anticipated emergency situation was Monarch.

At first, residents informed the council they did not want an increase in scavenger costs, but later many of them asked pointedly of the scavenger firms, "What price could you live with?"

Now that the decision has been made and the months of controversy apparently ended, the citizenry in the residential neighborhoods of Wood Dale will undoubtedly concede to the action of the council.

BUT, IN DOING so, who is going to police the ones who reportedly "double up" on refuse containers hoping to save a few bucks?

There is also a technicality which Village Atty. Samuel A. La Susa says he will look into. That is the ordinance setting a "maximum fee" to be charged the residents for the quarterly service.

According to one resident, he recalls that the "cap" set by the council was $5.75.

Don't tell me we will have to go through this once again!

College of DuPage Announces Courses

The College of DuPage has announced its course offerings in long term care administration for the coming academic year, as well as one course title change.

During the fall quarter the college will offer "Introduction to long term care," "Nursing home administrative practice," and "Long term care of the aged and chronically ill patient."

During the winter quarter the college will offer "Nursing home administrative practice" and "Long term care of the aged and chronically ill patient."

Chicago Man Out on Bond

A south side Chicago resident has been released from the DuPage County jail on $5,000 bond while two companions are being sought in connection with a burglary at Kroll Auto Service, 153 W. Lake St., Bloomingdale, last weekend.

While making a routine check on a license plate violation a Bloomingdale police officer noticed the trunk of a car belonging to Kenneth A. Mack, Chicago, was filled with welding equipment. When Mack could not produce any identification, he and two companions, Willie Gibson and Lovell Nelson, both of Chicago, were taken to the Roselle station for further questioning.

Bloomingdale police then received a call from Kroll's Auto Service, saying that $1,000 worth of shop equipment, including welders, grinders and a battery charger had been stolen from the shop.

Mack was then charged with burglary and was taken to DuPage County jail. Warrants are still out for the arrest of his two companions, who were earlier released when Mack was taken to Roselle for questioning.

Mack was also charged with using a false car registration and driving on a suspended driver's license.

Incidentally . . .

Still digging themselves out from their first annual picnic blast are members of Bloomingdale's Indian Lakes Homeowners Association. . . they did it at Mallard Lake Forest Preserve and, says Mrs. Arlene Meyers, they had a good time. More community get-togethers are planned. . .

Coming up: St. Paul United Church of Christ in Bloomingdale will stage its annual picnic Sunday, beginning at noon with a pot-luck dinner, chased with an inexpensive hot beef sandwich supper. A variety of social activities are planned. Where? Mallard Lake, of course. . .

ON THE CHURCH BEAT — Bensenville Bible Church is going to experiment a bit during August with 8:45 a.m. worship services. Sunday school: 10 a.m. It's an idea of the Rev. Harry J. Walterman to boost summertime attendance. They'll also be running a vacation Bible school next week from 7 to 8:50 p.m., for all ages. A buffet supper at 5:30 p.m. Aug. 10 tops it all off.

Back in Texas is the Rev. Charles Banks, who spent a two-week vacation from Sacred Heart Church, Falfurrias, Tex., with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Banks of Bloomingdale. . .

Chosen as Seventh District delegates and alternates to the Illinois Division of the American Cancer Society are Mrs. Bruno Beinoris and Mrs. W. Smotherman, both of Wood Dale, and Mrs. Leio Pasquini, of Itasca. . .

Story Correction

The word Heights was deleted from two mentions of the Glen Ellyn Heights sewage treatment plant in the story about county sewage facilities Monday.

The story should have said that the county is now considering an old proposal to extend a trunk line from an expanded Glen Ellyn Heights plant to Roselle and the plant will be abandoned for the Glen Ellyn plant. The Glen Ellyn plant would become part of the eight plant county-wide system.

Redmond Calls Income Tax Most Unpopular

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

Rep. W. A. Redmond, D-Bensenville, 37th District, an old hand in the ways of Illinois politics, with his colleague Rep. James Wright, D-Westmont, 38th District, lost no ground Wednesday with a luncheon and news conference for the DuPage County press. The Itasca Country Club was the spot.

The press was on hand in pretty good strength and the Bensenville veteran representative had a field day answering questions and telling it like it was at Springfield this last session, through Democratic eyes, of course. The two Democrats who voted against the income tax do not consider themselves politicos without honor among the newspaper publishers in DuPage County, who (you guessed it) are somewhat slanted toward Republican politics.

But despite the fact that their own man was at the helm and was the chief architect, the income tax has met with rebuff in this county. It appeared to us that the two Democratic legislators in some way sensed this.

REDMOND LEFT NO doubt about it at this conference that this legislation was a bipartisan operation benefiting Chicago's mayor and the Illinois governor politically. Downstate Democrats were overwhelmingly against it, he says.

Daley votes in the House, and the Senate put the income tax across. And in his judgment the rewards are considerable. It means bailing the Daley-led Chicago government out of a tight financial situation.

The Bensenville legislator says the income tax is the most unpopular piece of legislation passed at Springfield during his long tenure there.

His mail, he says, overwhelmingly against the new revenue law which starts reaching into pockets today, is 20 times more than he has received heretofore in DuPage County.

He raised some questions, also, of GOP administration responsibility and even credibility. As of February, Redmond says, the state payroll was listed as 102,821. Yet two months later in April the figures showed 109,115 on the Governor Ogilvie-approved roster. He remembers that the governor began by culling out Democrats from the state payrolls.

With a 7,000 increase with Republican payrollers in two months and the state "on the brink of bankruptcy," he wonders what has become of campaign revulsion to "patronage." He asks: What has happened to those ideals of efficiency and economy at the state level?

WHY IS IT, he asks, that such failings at Springfield get the full treatment under Democratic administrations and go unchallenged under Republican ones?

To carry his point even further, Redmond cites statistics to show that at the end of this fiscal year in June the state cash balance in the operating funds was $97 million and in 1968 fiscal year under a Democrat it was $96 million. Are conditions better or worse fiscally?

But his clincher is that the estimated $765 million income tax yield for the coming year looks now to be $200 million short of what will probably be collected. A total of $965 million will be closer to it. This raises questions of credibility.

"We're jumping from bankruptcy to huge surpluses in a single year, and the taxpayers must bear the burden," Redmond says.

What is his alternative to an income tax since he would not increase the sales tax? More money is needed. The state is growing. Inflation has increased costs.

THE BENSENVILLE Democrat was challenged on this point.

He says the Ogilvie budget is 45 per cent higher than the previous budget. Instead of practicing austerity in this period of tight money as campaign promises had led the voters to expect, Redmond says the Ogilvie administration is opening the gates to ever greater spending.

As few Democrats since the New Deal have frowned on leaving the public cash box wide open for the benefit of all, this spending objection is received with a shock by Ogilvie Republicans in DuPage County. They wonder if DuPage Democrats at last are in the throes of contrition.

In Illinois, Redmond answers, the issues in state government are becoming clear. They are centering more and more on officials elected to public office. Can they be trusted for what they say in an election campaign or must the voter gamble that they intend to take a different tack once in office?

Scouts Help Handicapped

Summer is neither long nor boring for Girl Scouts as they use skills serving the physical and mentally handicapped.

Mrs. Harry Gately, a professional staff member of the Girl Scouts of DuPage County Council, has been working with the Community Service for Visually Handicapped, the Community Welfare Association of Mentally Retarded and the United Cerebral Palsy of Greater Chicago to coordinate projects for Cadette and Senior scout participation.

For the first time Cadette and Senior Scouts are working together in the Visually Impaired Project. Following general training the Scouts are assigned a visually handicapped youngster with whom they spend approximately one afternoon a week.

SUSAN MUELLER, Addison; Monica Halladay and Sarah Rickett, Bensenville; Sue Lasse, Barbara Sliepka and Janet Stegmann, Itasca and Christine Endrus, Debbie Moretti, Laura Makinson, Dianne Mattick and Dianne Daniels, Wood Dale participated in the project.

Several of these girls served as guides for the annual convention of the American Association of Workers for the Blind held in Chicago.

Mrs. Alexis Young, Elmhurst, adviser to the Visually Impaired Project, is being assisted by adult volunteers performing as chauffeurs, chaperons and possible future planners. Mrs. Carl Kutzner and Mrs. M. A. Halladay, Bensenville, and Mrs. Conrad Stegmann, Itasca, are among the volunteers.

The Community Welfare Association again this summer is training senior Scouts to work with retarded children at Camp Greene Wood in Lisle Township. The Scouts are assigned a specific child to help learn camping skills.

Parochial School Crosswalks OKd

DuPage County parochial schools will be able to qualify for county school crosswalk protection program.

At the County board of supervisors' meeting, Jack Wall, Bloomingdale township supervisor, requested that the resolution, which originally pertained only to public schools, be amended to allow parochial schools to qualify.

"We're talking about lives, whether they go to one school or another," Wall said. "The county should serve all citizens."

The amended document does not require the county to install the signals at parochial schools or private schools unless the school authority agrees to the terms of the resolution.

THE PROGRAM was necessitated because the county's highway widening program is increasing traffic in front of school crossings.

The road committee's resolution regarding the crosswalk plan allows the county to pay for the installation of signals at the school crossings when warranted, if the school authority agrees to pay for the energy charge and all future maintenance. The program would correlate new construction projects with safety programs.

Wall initiated the discussion which ultimately resulted in the deletion of the world "district" in favor of "authority."

Mrs. LoPresti Is Recommended

The name of the woman who has been recommended for the office of Bloomingdale village clerk was misspelled in Monday's paper. Mrs. Fortune LoPresti of 134 S. Circle Ave., Bloomingdale, is being considered for the job by the village board.

BOUNCE THE BEAN BAG off his beanie is the name of the game. The Wood Dale Park District's summer recreation program isn't always the conventional games of tag or ring-around-the-rosie. Circus Day last week at Highland School brought out many children. Other special days are planned with summer ending with a parent-child picnic.

Housing Authority To Act

DuPage County's Housing Authority is sensitive to its responsibility to the elderly and to "those who are poor," Abra J. Shorey, member of the DuPage Housing Authority, said this week.

The housing authority has assumed an "exploratory posture, is reorganizing and reactivating, "Shorey told the Human Relations Advisory Committee of the Board of Supervisors of DuPage at the committee's regular meeting July 28.

The Human Relations Advisory Committee and the Leadership Council for Open Communities have been urging the Housing Authority to investigate housing programs and to take an active role in providing assisted housing for the low-income families who now reside in the county.

"THE HOUSING authority is aware it has a role perhaps only the housing authority can fill, but it needs guidance. The authority is receptive to suggestions, advice and information," Shorey said.

There are three areas in which the advisory committee and the leadership council can be of assistance to the authority, according to Shorey. motivating communities to be responsive to the housing needs of their residents and receptive to housing programs is the first, he said. The other areas are identifying areas of need, and providing technical knowledge, "expertise," needed to work with HUD's (Housing and Urban Development) complex housing programs, Shorey noted.

Acknowledging that "public education needs to continue," Philip Chinn, an advisory committee member from Wheaton, reported that committee members have appeared before 30 to 40 civic and church groups this past year with information on conditions of poverty in DuPage County. Some statistics on areas of need are now available and more specific information will be available in the next few months, he said.

Bernard Kleina, the west suburban representative of the leadership council, is working under a grant from the Illinois Housing Authority to provide Technical assistance to local housing authorities, Chinn said.

"THE ADVISORY committee along with Mr. Kleina will try to provide the 'expertise' the housing authority needs," said James Strenski (Wheaton), advisory committee chairman, "We are pleased to have a reactivation of the housing authority."

There has been pressure on the authority to initiate housing programs for the middle-income group, but Shorey said, "I think a company establishing in DuPage should pay its employes enough so that they can live here."

Kleina agreed that the jurisdiction of the authority covers only low-income housing. This is housing for families whose icome is not adequate for the private market. There are other programs, with not-for-profit or limited-profit corporations for example, that are available for middle or moderate-income families, he said.

Cites Peace Plans

"One hears less these days about the Nixon peace plan being merely more of the same old Lyndon Johnson program," said Rep. John N. Erlenborn, R-14th Dist.

"President Nixon," he continues, "inherited the Vietnamese war; and he also inherited the Johnson efforts toward peace, which were considerable."

Erlenborn traced the President's efforts toward a Vietnamese peace by saying: 1) the U.S. stayed at the conference table and did not resume bombing, despite the fact that Hanoi violated the demilitarized zone (DMZ) and refused to deal with the Saigon government; 2) President Thieu, at President Nixon's advice, offered to talk privately with the National Liberation Front (NLF); 3) President Nixon offered to accept a non military solution and proposed a peace plan; 4) the President announced a program for bringing 25,000 troops home; 5) Presidents Nixon and Thieu agreed to accept any political result of free South Vietnamese elections; and 6) President Thieu has offered a program for free elections.

Erlenborn concluded: "Hanoi has brought about a lull in ground fighting, a welcome sign, if it is a sign. It also has, however, made a shambles of the Paris peace talks.

"It has violated repeatedly its agreement about the DMZ and it has not ceased its attacks on civilians in the South."

Revenge Is Sweet— With Right Receiver

Wood Dale Patrolman James Trautz and Terry A. Colls, 24, 268 Station Drive, Wood Dale, were in the Gossage Grill, 1100 Irving Park Road, Itasca, at midnight Sunday.

An anonymous caller told the waitress, "Tell the cop to go out and look at his windshield."

The car's windshiled was broken by a thrown brick. Trautz was angered. Colls was madder because it was his car.

College Board OKs Water, Sewer Bid

The Board of College of DuPage, at a special July 16 meeting, approved a low bid of $140,633 for construction of water and sewer facilities for the college campus.

The village of Glen Ellyn has agreed to share in the water costs in the amount of $39,180 and has estimated a later rebate to the college of $37,487 through water hookup fees and special assessments for the lines. The initial out-of-pocket expense to the college for water will be $57,131,78.

Broken Glass For Paving?

ROLLA, Mo. (UPI)—No driver likes to roll his car over broken bottles in the street, but a discovery by a student at the University of Missouri at Rolla may have everyone driving on broken bottles.

The broken bottles won't be scattered haphazardly on the streets. Raymond Joplin, an undergraduate student of ceramic engineering, has found a way to make them part of the road.

Joplin crushed several hundred soda bottles and mixed the fragments with asphalt. He used the mixture to patch a hole in a campus parking lot.

Dr. Delbert Day, Joplin's instructor, said: "We've gone out of our way to drive over the patch as much as possible. It has stood up under traffic and bad weather. It wears as well as the limestone-asphalt combination and there's absolutely no harm to tires."

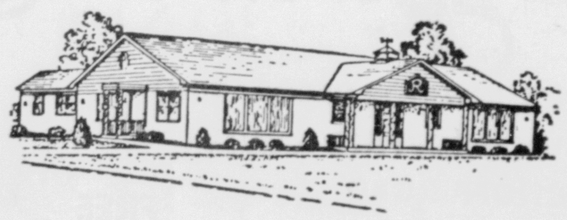

Limestone has been the traditional material to mix with asphalt, but Day says using broken bottles could be a double saving to cities.

It would save the city a considerable amount of money by allowing it to use glass refuse for street mixtures rather than shelling out money to dispose of the glass and buying limestone and gravel for streets, he said.

The next test for the new paving material will be a 600-foot long and 20-foot wide strip of pavement on the Rolla campus. The strip will be tested for durability, ski-resistance and wear on tires.

If the test and other such tests prove as successful as the patch in the parking lot, American motorists in many cities may be driving over broken bottles.

Hospitals Vary on Aid to Alcoholics

by MURRAY DUBIN

As a follow-up to his three-part series last week on the suburban alcoholic, Staff Writer Murray Dubin called area hospitals and questioned administrators as to their policies concerning the treatment of alcoholics.

How do hospitals in the Northwest suburbs feel about alcoholism? Do they admit alcoholics? What are their attitudes toward alcoholic treatment?

George Schulte, public relations director for Holy Family Hospital, told the Herald that alcoholics are admitted to the hospital under certain conditions. He added that the conditions were too complicated to describe.

HOLY Family administrator Sister M. Amata said, "We are not sure if the existing facilities are sufficient (for alcoholic treatment in the area), but we do share the opinion that general hospitals should care for the alcoholic."

At the present time, any alcoholic admitted to Holy Family is admitted to general services. The hospital's priority list does not include an alcoholism treatment center.

Forest Hospital's Public Relations Director Ivars Lietins said that the hospital had no alcoholic center as such, because they were basically a psychiatric hospital.

"Because of the facilities at Lutheran General Hospital, we do not see the need for an alcoholism center," he said.

Lietins added that the hospital wouldn't treat the physical end of alcoholism at all and would only treat the underlying symptoms.

Forest Hospital has no plans for an alcoholism center in the future.

Jack Ryon, public relations director for Northwest Community Hospital stated that the hospital wouldn't admit an alcoholic.

"IF HE HAD cirrhosis of the liver or was involved in an automobile accident, he would be admitted -- but not simply as an alcoholic.

"Our most immediate need is acute short-stay beds."

Miss Robin Leach, public relations director for St. Alexis Hospital, said that the hospital considers alcoholism a mental health problem.

Mrs. Catherine Malloy, director of the social services department, said, "The alcoholic would be admitted as a medical problem and the medical aspects would be treated.

"But we do not have the specialized staff to handle the complex problem. We would hope that the doctor who assigned him here would later refer him to a place like Lutheran General Hospital."

St. Alexis will open a new psychiatric unit in September and its admission policies towards alcoholics will be the same as it is now — treat the emergency medical aspects and hope the doctor refers him elsewhere.

LUTHERAN GENERAL Hospital is the only hospital in the area that has an alcoholism treatment center. There are only three such facilities in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Lutheran General Public Relations Director Harold Kurtz told the Herald that any general hospital could handle the acute, drying-out stage of the alcoholic. He added that this end of it is strictly a medical problem.

"The Chicago Council on Alcoholism estimates that there are 250,000 alcoholics in this area and our alcoholism center has only 75 beds.

"As long as we have had a treatment center (1960), we have had a waiting list. The waiting list is over 50 now."

Kurtz added that if a hospital couldn't provide beds, they could allow Alcoholics Anonymous to use the hospital facilities as a meeting place. "A lot of things could be done without building beds," he said.

The Left and the Right shook hands briefly at Elk Grove High School and then wtnt their separate ways towards proposing solutions for a society in turmoil.

A representative of the John Birch Society confronted a member of the Chicago Fifteen, a group strongly opposed to the Selective Service System.

The two strongly opposed representatives met in a symposium in the role of the military in contemporary society. The discussion was held at Elk Grove High School before a crowd of Harper Junior College students.

Representing the Birch Society was Phil R. Dowd, Elk Grove Village, local chapter leader for the society. John Pietra represented Chicago Fifteen and the Chicago Community Action Committee.

At the beginning of the discussion, it looked as if the two spokesmen might quietly agree on a few issues. Dowd seemingly disarmed some members of the audience with his preliminary statement which called the Vietnamese war a fruitless venture in which there was no limit to American deaths.

The Bircher quickly slid into the litany of his faction, however, by involving the spector of malevolent and omnipresent United Nations. Although Dowd disclaimed the present conflict in Vietnam, he attributed the stalemate there to an erroneous United States policy of trading with Communist countries.

Pietra, for his part, agreed that Vietnam is a debacle, but said the reason lies in the capitalist structure bent on perpetuating a war machine.

Pietra and other members of his group dramatically put actions to their opposition by crashing the Chicago Draft Board building and burning the records on May 25.

Once both sides agreed war is bad they got down to discussing the definitions of anarchy, democracy, socialism.

AT ONE POINT Pietra said he was perplexed by a system which called for the production of more war goods and which cannot produce enough to win a war.

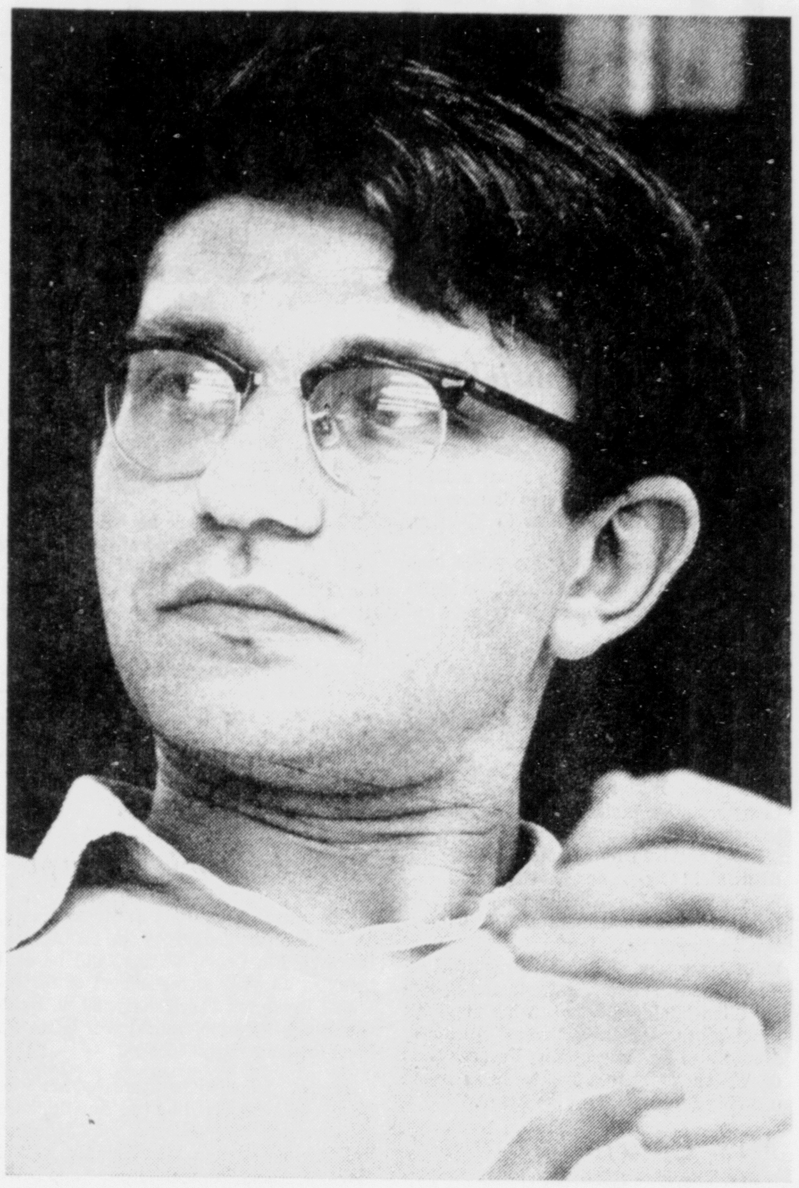

Dowd: "I don't know why either! And that's why there's something wrong with a system which allows this to continue." The two men, of course, agreed on the perplexities of their world, and not on solutions.

Throughout the symposium Harper students questioned the two, often bringing the discussion back to the realities of the college student.

One girl said, "People keep going back to the Second World War to give examples, how does that make any difference of what we are interested in today."

The students spoke of the weight of the draft and of the difficulties of earning a living in a competitive society.

Pietra and Dowd attempted last night to provide answers from both sides of the rapidly spinning coin.

"PROPERTY MUST BE subordinated to human values. The war and the draft must be made to mean less than human life," said John Pietra, a member of the Chicago Fifteen who invaded a Chicago draft board office to destroy records. Pietra, an "anarchist-socialist," debated with Phil Dowd at Harper.

Rover, May He Rest in Peace

by KATHIE BARNES

People who own pet cemeteries are often the butt of practical jokes, but they also get an opportunity to meet some "very beautiful people," according to Ben Barcroft, owner of the Forest Lawn Pet Cemetery in Mundelien.

Owner of the Pet Haven Cemetery, Itasca, established in 1951, Mrs. Florence Fields, said people who want to bury their pets "often have never had any children."

They give all their love and attention to their pets and treat them as their own children.

When a pet dies, Mrs. Fields says, "You have two choices, either to put it in a cemetery or to dump it in the garbage. Most people don't want to just dump a family pet."

BARCROFT SAYS many people are "a little sheepish" about wanting to put a dead pet into a cemetery, but they are willing to do about anything if they are real animal lovers.

Love for animals characterizes both cemeteries.

Barcroft says he owns 29 animals including dogs, cats, horses and, the most recent addition, a goat.

He has several of his own pets buried in Forest Lawn, which is in conjunction with Willow Lawn Cemetery, a memorial park for people, of which Barcroft is the owner and proprietor. It is located next door to Forest Lawn.

The same love for animals can be seen at Pet Haven where a black cat rubs up against visitors' legs, and one can hear dogs barking in the background.

Mrs. Fields owns several horses and her most recent addition to the pet family are four white ducks, one of which has a broken leg.

MRS. FIELDS admits she is one of the animal lovers who has no children of her own.

Both cemeteries bury pets in concrete human burial.

Forest Lawn provides a small vault which is painted gold and white. It weighs approximately 250 pounds and is lowered into the grave by a crane.

Grave sites at Forest Lawn cost $39 for a 2'x3' plot. Larger animals require two or three plots. This includes permanent care and maintenance.

Barcroft says one of the advantages of his conjunction with the human cemetery which is about ¼-mile away, is that both cemeteries will remain relatively secure in the event a new highway would come through. He said authorities are reluctant to go to the trouble of moving an entire cemetery to make way for a road, so the pet cemetery is out of danger.

PET HAVEN sells lots for anywhere from $59 to $259, "depending on the size of the animal."

Markers are available at both places for an additional fee.

The markers often contain epitaphs to pets from their owners and can cost anywhere from $50 up.

Some of the markers carry such phrases as "our baby," "faithful and devoted," "loved and loving" or "Peanuts — a lordly black cat with majesty and soul."

Some of the most unusual animals buried in the cemeteries include a pair of hamsters and two horses.

Barcroft says he is subject to continual harassment by his friends. "One day," he says, "a man called and asked if he could bury his jackass, Romeo. I thought it was one of my friends pulling a practical joke and make a smart remark. I regretted it later when I discovered the man was serious."

HE ALSO tells the story of the woman who called almost in hysterics, saying her 4-foot long pet boa constrictor had just died and she wanted to know how much it would cost to bury it.

When she was told the price, she said she would talk to her husband, who vehemently refused, saying the burial would cost too much.

Notwithstanding the unusual animals buried in both cemeteries, the most common burials are dogs, followed closely by cats and birds.

How does one start a pet cemetery?

"It just sort of happened," Barcroft says. He has worked with human cemeteries for years and has had several requests if family pets could be buried in the regular cemetery plot.

"OF COURSE, this is never done," Barcroft said, "But we began to think that a separate cemetery for pets might be a good idea."

At Forest Lawn, where over 180 burials have already taken place, the graves are all at ground level and are landscaped just as is the memorial park.

One lady purchased approximately 10 lots to plant shrubbery and flowers in the shape of a bow to surround her cat's grave.

Barcroft said, "We helped this lady because it adds so much to the park."

Forest Lawn has 10 acres set aside for the pet cemetery. Barcroft says he wants the atmosphere to be informal and rustic, looking as little like a cemetery as possible, "because people don't like cemeteries anyway."

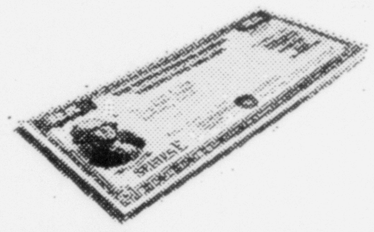

PET HAVEN is a little different. Established in 1951, and purchased by the Fields in 1958, the cemetery is behind the main house and situated in a large field between the barn and the house. Over 1,900 animals are buried there.

At the entrance to Pet Haven is a large monument which reads: "No human being has the capacity for fidelity and devotion as do the pets of our choice." Atop the monument is a small stone statute of St. Francis of Assisi, patron saint of animals.

Flowers mark the graves and the grass is freshly mowed in both cemeteries.

Love for animals and an understanding of those who also love animals is the key to the people who own pet cemeteries — "Why else would we do it?" Mrs. Fields asks.

Sewer Settlement Is Near

by GEOFFREY MEHL

Regarded as crucial for the development of 1,000 acres of land along Itasca's northern boundary, the $700,000 Prospect-Thorndale sanitary sewer project is nearing formal settlement.

Although a written agreement had not yet been prepared, conclusion to sometimes agonizing negotiations was announced earlier this week by Itasca village Pres Wilbert H. Nottke.

Nottke has given the agreement his blessings, and forecast Aug. 19 village board action on a plan under which the Central Manufacturing District would provide funds for the sewer line, and be reimbursed from sewer tap-on fees.

"This project is coming to final contract," Nottke told the Register on Wednesday, "and will be of great benefit to the greater Itasca area."

IN A MEMO to vacationing village Atty. Lawrence Traeger, the village president outlined what action had been taken in negotiations. "Please give the Prospect-Thorndale sewer project top priority in village of Itasca affairs," Nottke wrote.

Nottke directed Traeger to meet with Jack A. Rearick, attorney for CMD, "on the drawing of the new and I hope final contract."

The memo was dated July 29.

Settlement with CMD trustee James Donovan, which was announced Tuesday morning, marked the conclusion of 10 months of talks on the project, and in a "synopsis of the meeting," Nottke reviewed the recent history of the negotiations.

On July 6, Nottke wrote, "Itasca was presented an 11-page contract from CMD that was totally unacceptable and rejected."

THE FOLLOWING DAY, Itasca village board members "spent three hours going over the contract, adding changes and revisions."

Two days later, on July 9, "The village attorney (Traeger) wrote a five-page letter indicating the needed corrections in the contract. In addition (he) had a lengthy meeting (with) CMD representatives covering the points."

Then, on July 15, "CMD presented Itasca a revised contract with a totally different appraoch to the project and financing. Nottke wrote that on July 16, he contacted CMD officials, asked for another meeting, and "spoke to the new and unacceptable parts of the latest contract."

THAT APPARENTLY is reference to what the village believed to be interest charges, retention of title by CMD, and control of tap-ons; CMD leaders said the impression was unintentional.

On July 22, Nottke wrote in the memo, "Received a five-page letter from village attorney commenting on the latest contract, pointing out discrepancies and needed changes to make the contract acceptable."

The village president did not elaborate on the contents of the exchanges of letters.

Two days later, Nottke wrote, "The Itasca board of trustees met in an emergency special meeting to discuss the July 15 proposed contract for the Prospect-Thorndale Sewer, and to review the July 22 letter from the village attorney.

"THE CONSENSUS was that the contract as drawn could not be accepted. The 10 per cent interest rate and the non-contribution or share by CMD could not possibly be considered.

"It was felt that the previous months of negotiating were lost and that we were growing further apart. Trustee (Frank) Atkinson brought out the fact that Itasca has a million dollar expansion program under way on its treatment plant. Because the village is providing this expanded facility also for the benefit of CMD, 'there should be some give on their part.' "

On July 25, the Monday meeting was arranged with Donovan, and on Monday, verbal accord was reached.

Nottke, who had harsh words for CMD officials earlier, stressed the cooperation extended by the industrial developer.

"MR. DONOVAN'S attitude was that they want to be good neighbors or residents of Itasca; they have always wished to pay their fair share or contribution," Nottke wrote in the memo.

"On the latest contract, the intent was not to charge 10 per cent interest and the idea of no participation in the cost on their part was not correct. Mr. Donovan's attitude revived the CMD attitude of the past, and once again gave me the fine feeling of cooperation.

"We were in agreement in all phases of the project, and now we need merely rely on the attorneys to put the contract in proper words and form.

"ON AUG. 4," Nottke continued, "Village Atty. Traeger (after his vacation) will be requested to arrange a meeting with Jack Rearick to draw the final agreement for presentation and possible passage at the regular meeting of the Itasca board of trustees on Aug. 19."

An ordinance passed earlier, which would have established permission to levy for village cost of the project, may "in due time" be rescinded by the village board.

Nottke said that while the intent on the part of the present board was not to tax residents, the means is there for future boards.

NOTTKE TOLD the Register earlier this week he has seven other developers, in addition to CMD, interested in annexation and industrial and residential zoning.

All had apparently been awaiting a decision about the sewer line. Nearly 1,300 acres of unincorporated land would be eventually affected.

The sewer line would run from the Itasca sewer plant, east on Schiller, north on Prospect from Schiller, west on Thorndale from Prospect, and north on Ill. 53 from Thorndale.

Acreage involved in plans for future development extends all the way to the Cook-DuPage County line at Devon Ave. Under a boundary agreement with Elk Grove Village, Itasca will not extend into Cook County at least west of Salt Creek.

STACKS OF CABINETS at the Wood Dale police station are used to accommodate the ever-increasing amount of paperwork the department handles. This tiny office will be replaced with a separate radio room, information desk and a record room when the department moves into their new quarters early next year. Shown is John Sample of the police department as he is about to add more paperwork to the already abundant files.

Police Efforts Cramped

by PATRICK McLEAN

Cramped office space . . . paperwork stacked in huge piles . . . no containment facilities . . . these are some of the problems faced by the Wood Dale police department.

"We've simply run out of space," Police Chief Jack McGann told the Register. "Paperwork piles up because we have no place to put it. In our jack-of-all trades room we have cabinet on top of cabinet and it still does not alleviate the problem. Consequently the place always takes on a cluttered appearance."

"Our biggest problem," McGann continued, "is that we have no jail cells. If someone has to be arrested the only thing we can do is handcuff him to a chair until we can transport them to the county jail or the Roselle jail."

AT TIMES, arrested personnel take matters into their own hands, as they rush out the door and onto Irving Park Road while still handcuffed to a chair. "I once had to chase a guy three or four blocks before I finally caught up with him," McGann said, "and other policemen have had to do the same thing."

Another problem faced by McGann and his staff is that police operations are hampered when arrested personnel have to be transported to the county or Roselle jails. "Instead of providing police protection to the citizens of Wood Dale, we have to run an informal transporting service whenever we arrest someone," McGann added.

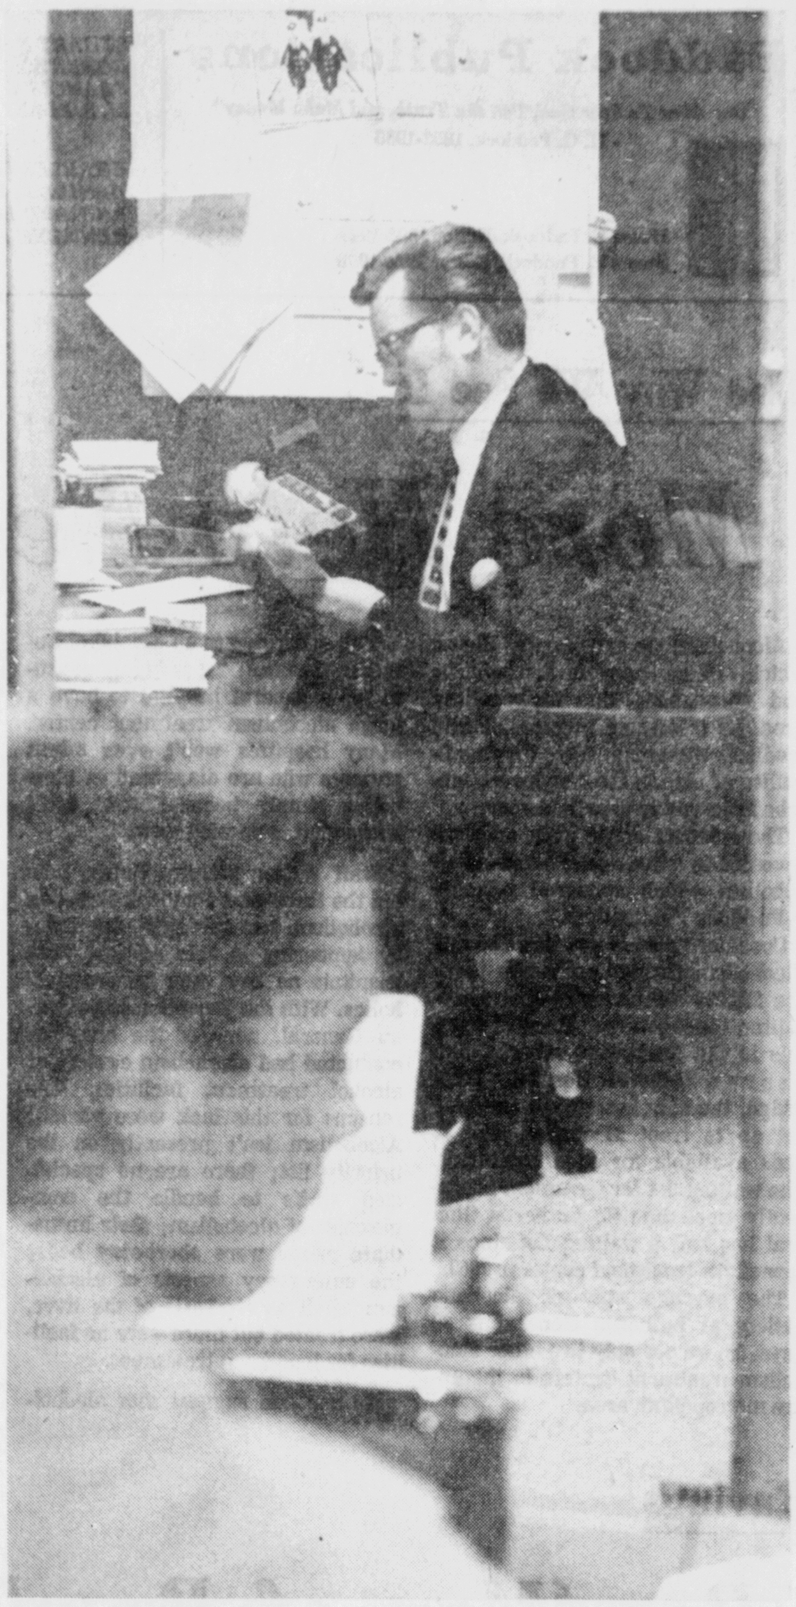

There is some consolation for Wood Dale police in that the new village hall to be at Wood Dale and Center streets, could be completed as early as January.

Plans for the hall include the utilization of the entire basement for the police department, a total of approximately 4,000 square feet. The present building, which the police share with the Wood Dale Library, contains about 400 square feet of working space for the department.

THE NEW FACILITY will contain an information desk, a radio room, a locker room, an interrogation room, a juvenile detention room, a record room, two cells, an office for the police chief and space for a pistol range.

This compares with the present information desk, a jack-of-all trades room and a cramped chief's office.

"It will be a welcome change," McGann concludes, "and will come none too soon."

AMIDST CRAMPED AND cluttered surroundings, Wood Dale Police Chief Jack McGann surveys the morning paperwork. McGann's office is used for everything from booking, identification and interrogation to storing records. "At least in the new village hall I'll have an office with a window in it," relates Chief McGann.

Springborn: Police for All

Lawrence Springborn, DuPage County sheriff, has disputed a charge made last month by Roselle Village. Pres. Robert Frantz who said at times there was only one county patrol car on duty.

"Just to set the record straight, Mr. Frantz, unincorporated DuPage County is never at any time subjected to police protection from only one squad," Springborn said in a letter to Frantz.

"If you were accurately quoted, (in a newspaper article), then I believe you are seriously misinformed."

Frantz said Thursday he was quoted correctly and acted on what he considered reliable information.

"I haven't received any information to make me change my mind but I don't want to get into a dispute by Springborn," Frantz said.

SPRINGBORN SAID his department has a total of 22 marked squads and 20 unmarked cars with no fewer than seven of them on the road at one time.

"I will be the first to admit even this could be improved and I believe it will be in time," Springborn said.

"The sheriff's force, as your police chief can inform you, is ready, able and willing at all times to protect the lives and rights of all DuPage residents, not just those in the unincorporated areas."

Frantz made the original statement to emphasize how Roselle police could better protect the Central Highlands area slated for forced annexation into the village.

Roselle police, like other municipal departments, answer emergency calls outside their limits when needed but refer non-emergency or the arrest follow-ups to DuPage County deputies.

CENTRAL HIGHLANDS, commonly known as "Central Island" in the annexation dispute, will probably be annexed this month through passage of an ordinance.

Frantz said an ordinance will come up this month for approval of the village board. There will be no annexation fees involved for residents since this is a unilateral action, he added.

The fire district has been notified as required by law, he said, and now residents are generally resigned to the annexation.

"Their main concern now seems to be what they will be required to pay and do," he said.

"THAT WILL BE the minimum, like sidewalks will be put in to service the new junior high school first, but I can't foresee any sidewalk installation in Central Highlands for at least one year."

He added the area will have the same public improvements as the rest of the village someday, but other areas in town had greater priority for installation.

The annexation is for the good of the entire village and those in Central Highlands as well, he said, and public services will increase property values.

Recital Planned

A ballet and baton recital is scheduled for this afgernoon at Parkside School, Howard and Maple streets, Roselle, as part of that community's park district programs, which end today. Students of summer classes will perform in the school gym beginning at 3:30 p.m.

MAKE PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS PART OF YOUR DAILY LIFE

Erlenborn Fights Obscenity

A bill to curtail the flow of obscene and sexually provocative advertising through the mails was introduced by Rep. John N. Erlenborn (R-14th Dist.).

Peddlers of this type of advertising will have to get permission of a prospective costumer to mail him advertising in a form letter containing no lurid language and no pictures.

"Having gotten permission," Erlenborn says "the seller may send as much advertising as he pleases. Without permission, he risks a penitentiary sentence if he puts the offensive material into the mail.

"I BELIEVE THIS bill is constitutional, and by putting the burden of getting permission on the smut peddlers, I believe it will be effective — it will reduce the flow of obscene mail to a trickle."

Erlenborn feels "Our present law on the mailing of sex-oriented advertising isn't getting the job done."

People offended by "filthy, degrading, crude advertisements may notify the postmaster that they will not accept any more mail from that particular advertiser. In the meantime, however, they may find themselves on other mailing lists," he explained.

The Way We See It

More Help Needed

Alcoholism is an acute illness which affects many in the suburbs and throughout the metropolitan area. Its treatment requires skillful medical attention. Yet the availability of help in the Northwest suburbs is definitely unsatisfactory.

These facets of the problem were revealed in a three-part series on alcoholism which appeared recently in Paddock Publications.

Consider these facts: The Chicago Alcoholism Council estimates there are 250,000 alcoholics in the metropolitan Chicago area. Many of them live in the Northwest suburbs. Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, the only hospital in our area set up to treat alcoholics, has 75 beds available for such treatment. The waiting list for treatment is presently more than 50; Lutheran General has had a waiting list since it opened the treatment center in 1960.

The average stay of alcoholic patient at Lutheran General is 30 days. There are only two other alcoholism treatment centers in the entire metropolitan area.

Yet, according to an official of Lutheran General: "It is highly unusual for a general hospital to have a large alcoholism treatment center. Many hospitals won't even admit patients who are diagnosed as alcoholics simply because they don't know what to do with them."

Staff Writer Murray Dubin, who did the three-part Paddock series on alcoholism, has surveyed, for a story appearing in this edition, area hospitals as how they handle alcoholics. With the exception of Lutheran General, none of the hospitals contacted had alcoholism centers or alcohol treatment facilities. The reasons for this lack were varied: Alcoholism isn't presently on the priority list; there are no specialized staffs to handle the complexities of alcoholism; their immediate needs were short-stay beds; the emergency aspects of alcoholism, such as cirrhosis of the liver, were treated but there were no facilities for long-term treatment.

No one can suggest that alcoholism should take priority in general hospitals over treatment of such illnesses as cancer and heart disease. Or that area hospitals have the funds or the space to set up complete alcoholic treatment centers such as the one at Lutheran General.

But, as one official at Lutheran General pointed out, there are some things other area hospitals can do to help like handling the acute, drying-out stages of alcoholism, which is a medical problem. Or, if unable to provide beds for this initial phase of treatment, they might open hospital meeting rooms to such groups as Alcoholics Anonymous and for regional alcoholic information centers which the Chicago Council on alcoholism would like to set up all through the Northwest suburbs.

Until such services can be provided at local hospitals, many of the area's acutely ill alcoholics will continue to wait in a line that doesn't get any shorter for their particular priority.

Roe 'Man of People?'

by RICK FRIEDMAN

I attended a political campaign headquarters opening last Saturday, my first one in this area. For someone not too many months removed from the East, it was nothing like what I've been used to.

In the East, at least the New York part of it I knew, when a political candidate wanted to open a campaign headquarters he found the cheapest abandoned store he could in the busiest commercial area; he put a group of young, enthusiastic campaign workers into it, along with some beat-up tables and chairs and two or three telephones, plus some precinct maps; he got the young, enthusiastic campaign workers to paint the walls red, white and blue and tack up hand-lettered signs and funny things on the bulletin boards — and the political candidate was open for electioneering.

THIS WAS ESPECIALLY true when the candidate was bucking his particular party for an office. In John Lindsay's first campaign for mayor of New York, for instance, Bob Price, his manager, made the storefront headquarters a symbol of the successful Lindsay campaign, so much so that it attracted national publicity.

With this frame of past reference, I wasn't prepared for the suburban-type campaign headquarters opening party Yale Roe threw Saturday. As it turned out I wasn't prepared for the whole afternoon.

I quickly learned there are few old abandoned stores candidates can rent here in the Northwest suburbs.

Roe's headquarters were in the Clayton House Motel, Wheeling, hard by Palwaukee Airport. I entered a lobby, went down a hallway — I felt like I was at a convention — examining "Yale Roe for Congress" signs on the walls, came out a door and there was the headquarters opening — a poolside party!

Rick Friedman

TRY TO IMAGINE A poolside party on New York's Lower East Side. They'd have to hold it in one of the old Turkish baths the immigrants made famous a couple of generations ago.

Campaign headquarters openings Eastern-style usually had plenty of beer, coffee and pretzels. At Roe's opening there were pretzels, soda and a well-stacked girl in a fishnet bathing suit.

The girl in the fishnet bathing suit, it turned out, was there for publicity picture posing. Along with another girl in a bathing suit, she was asked to pose pretending to throw Yale Roe into the swimming pool.

I had been following Roe's campaign closely and found myself philosophically in agreement with him on much of what he had to say on such issues as disarmament and getting our troops out of Vietnam. Now, here he was in the flesh, pretending to be tossed into a swimming pool by two girls!

ANOTHER POSED PICTURE, which was set up a few minutes later, had the girl in the fishnet and two guys in bathing suits standing in the pool and holding up a "Yale Roe for Congress" sign. I turned to Ed Murnane, one of our city editors who had accompanied me to the opening, and said, "Will the caption read, 'Is Yale Roe all wet?' "

Roe, a 40-year-old broadcasting executive from Winnetka who is one of numerous candidates running in the Republian primary for the 13th Congressional nomination, came over to where we were standing. He suggested we do a story on how he's such a maverick Republican who is rallying a people's crusade around his independent banner. He claimed he was beginning to generate a Gene McCarthy-type campaign.

"Oh?" I asked, gazing around the pool at what were mainly older people, a few of them wearing bathing suits and lolling in poolside chairs. "Are you getting the former McCarthy kids into your campaign?"

"No."

"ARE YOU GETTING the older former McCarthy workers into your campaign?"

"No. But my campaign is beginning to get the same feeling he generated. I'm mounting a people's campaign."

"How do you propose to get enough people on your side to mount it?"

"Through publicity. If the newspapers would do stories on me, giving my views, I can get to enough people on my side to win the Republican primary."

"We've given your views in our newspapers almost day-after-day."

"You have? I don't subscribe to your newspapers. Can you send me a subscription and bill me for it?"

I said we would and Yale Roe asked me how I thought his campaign was going. I looked around at the girl in the fishnet and the two guys who at that point were standing chest-deep in the water waving the "Yale Roe for Congress" sign over their heads.

"You have a long way to go," I said.

CPUSA–50 And Still Waiting

by RANDOLPH PENDLETON

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fifty years after its founding, the Communist Party, USA, is still waiting confidently for a working class revolt that will end in the conversion of America to Soviet-style socialism.

Ironically, the party is directing its efforts toward the same blue collar workers among whom George C. Wallace sought support in his Third Party race for president in 1968.

Polls indicated that Wallace made some inroads among union members early in his campaign but that much of this support collapsed under intense pressure from national labor leaders who stressed the low wages in his home state of Alabama.

The Communist party blames the Wallace sentiment on a racist tendency which it said has to be eliminated from the Labor Movement.

But the party said in the program adopted at its convention here this spring that it is encouraged by other signs it sees in the labor movement.

The platform cited these signs—frequent rejection by the rank-and-file of contracts negotiated by union leaders, movements to gain greater autonomy for union locals, opposition to the Vietnam War by union members and challenges to union discrimination by "black caucuses."

The document, adopted by some 275 delegates who assembled for the party's 19th convention at the Towers Hotel in Brooklyn Heights April 30-May 3 discounted the argument that blue collar workers are becoming so affluent they are moving to the suburbs instead of plotting revolutions.

"Since 1965 real wages have stagnated or gone down," the program said. "Taxes and prices continue to rise . . . and since every indication is that the cost of attempted world domination will continue to rise, it may be assumed that the squeeze will continue to be tightened."

The delegates to the convention, as far as they could be observed going to and from the hotel ballroom, appeared to run the gamut from sedate elderly men and women to youths wearing beards and blue jeans.

The proceedings inside the ballroom were closed to newsmen—even those from Tass, the Russian News Agency. Periodic progress reports on the convention were given to newsmen by General Secretary Gus Hall, who reported unanimity or near unanimity among the delegates in approving the Russian intervention in Czechoslovakia and condemning Red China for "provocations" against the Soviets.

Nonetheless, the party admits in the program it adopted that the left is divided on some issues.

The party has done some agonizing over the New Left and the refusal of many young activists to embrace the working class.

The Political Beat

Survival Right

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

Illinois' governor is looking to the future probably with no little expectations after his revolutionary revenue-raising income tax has crashed the Supreme Court barrier and today begins to accumulate that estimated $765 million state revenue.

This comes as something of a boon to state and local progress as it helps replenish empty coffers for social services around the state. Although the amounts are comparatively small, nevertheless the principle of tax-sharing has been established for all counties and municipalities. And if a judgment is permissible in the light of an expanding urbanization in Illinois, this tax-sharing is bound to grow.

Charles Hufnagel

COUNTY AND local officials everywhere tell us problems of health, transportation, sewage disposal, drainage have become regional in a mass urban population. They must have priorities but are beyond the ability of any local governmental unit to solve no matter how great the tax structure.

There is no way of knowing by what legal reasoning the justices arrived at their decision upholding constitutionality, since the written ruling is yet to come. They were still operating under the old revenue-raising restrictions said to be written into the present century-old state Constitution.

This gives pause to ask what are the premises for a decision of this kind. Learned lawyers had for years said it couldn't be done, and political conservatives had even placed barriers in the way of changing the Constitution and amending the revenue article. This was to preserve the status quo in the face of change.

Yet the people whom they relied on the most to keep the gates locked in the face of social and economic change are the people who unlocked those gates — the Illinois Supreme Court justices.

THE TRUTH IS that the world is undergoing a far reaching scientific and technological revolution greater in its impact than any revolution Karl Marx ever envisioned. It affects the whole society — social, economic, political — and is moving forward with ever increasing momentum.

Thus the disposition of wealth, the distribution of taxes, the relations and equality of opportunity of citizens and their obligations have to be reviewed and most likely revised.

So the accusation that judicial decisions are social and economic decisions as well as political is probably correct. Ever since the New Deal court decisions have been challenged because justices are said to have read into the Constitution more than is there.

But actually what these jurists were saying is that any organic Constitution must be interpreted to accommodate change. The alternative is a matter of history. Chief Justice Taney in the Dred Scott decision refused to interpret the nation's organic law to accommodate change and in doing so precipitated the Civil War.

SPENGLER IN A notable passage says that great historic decisions are often made when the choice is to do what is necessary or, do nothing. To do what is necessary solves the problem. To do nothing aggravates it.

Governor Ogilvie, in his opinion, did what was necessary by pushing through an income tax to make Illinois fiscally solvent and capable of meeting new demands.

The Illinois Supreme Court concurred in this new adventure in revenue-raising to meet great and new social needs and in doing so rescued state government from chaos.

The fundamental premise in every organic law must be the right of survival of legally constituted government.

How gullible are you?

You probably won't admit it to yourself, but if you're like a lot of people you can be fooled and led to believe you're getting something for nothing.

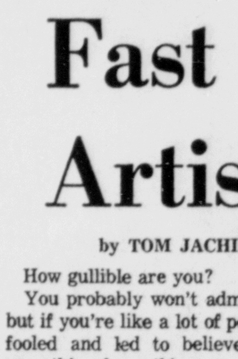

It happens every week on Maxwell Street in Chicago as well as in Elk Grove Village.

CON MEN USE A different approach out here and probably make more money.

Here's how the scheme was reported to police last week in Elk Grove Village:

A solicitor would call on the telephone and report to businessmen that their buildings had no fire code violations. Without saying he was a fire inspector the solicitor intimates that he is one or at least knows what he's talking about.

He tells you not to worry about future fire code violations. Then he makes his pitch. Maybe you'd be interested in purchasing some space in our firefighters' magazine.

It doesn't cost much, and it's for a good cause. Besides, the money goes for widows and orphans of firemen.

A pitch like this is old, and it's a wonder it hasn't improved. It's so trite that it hurts. More important, it works.

ANGELO BERTINI of Elk Grove Village told police he received a similar call and almost got hit for $40.

But Bertini was no fall guy. When a messenger came around the next day to collect for the magazine advertisement he thought about what had transpired.

He didn't like what he thought and gave a call to the fire chief to find out if he ever heard of the magazine.

Chief Allen Hulett said he never did. Hulett smelled a rat someplace and notified police of what was in the making.

THE MESSENGER was hustled off to the police station where he was charged with fraud under a local ordinance and released on $25 bond.

He got off easy, at least for the time being. The case won't come to court until Aug. 14.

The messenger's meeting with Bertini took place early in the day and was one of the first on his route which took him to several Northwest suburbs in addition to other places.

If he had kept on going that day he may have collected $675. Not bad for a day's work.

HERE'S THANKS TO Bertini, Elk Grove Village's hero of the week, for calling the bluff of the magazine's messenger and saving a lot of suburban businessmen some money last Friday.

If more people were as questioning as Bertini there would be no opportunity for schemes like this one.

One other sidelight, just to show what kind of people are in this business.

The magazine's publisher was charged with bribery of Patrolman Ray Rose after he allegedly offered a $100 bill to the officer if the charge against the messenger would be dropped.

HE IS NOW scheduled to appear in Niles Court Aug. 12. He's out on $2,500 bond.

A Dramatic Two Days

Dramatic and exciting down to the final-hour, the third annual Paddock Olympics ended Wednesday.

In a down - to - the - line battle, River Trails ended the two-day competition with 132 points, topping the other nine park district teams entered in the Olympics.

The River Trails team squeezed out Elk Grove with 128 points and Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights, both with 127 points.

The Olympics proved a close battle, and tension mounted in the second day when the Palatine team came from behind and pulled to a half-point lead before being stopped because there were no more teams for them in tournament play.

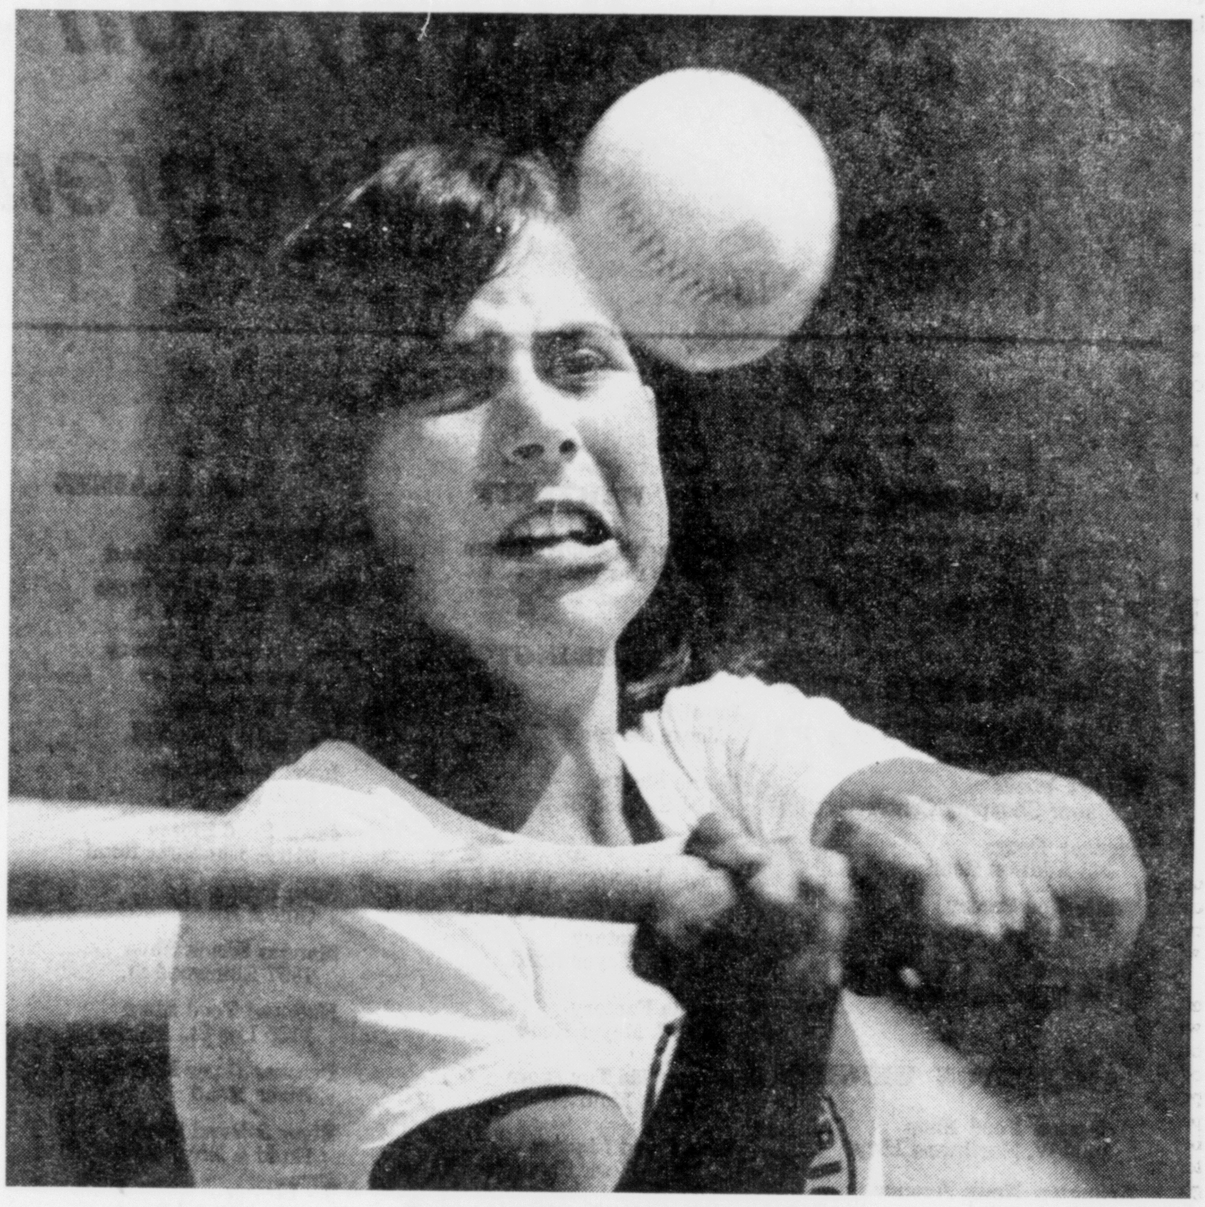

But, win or lose, the Olympics provided a heyday for the more than 1,000 competing youngsters, who jumped, threw, kicked and ran their ways through two days of competition, seemingly enjoying every minute of it.

It Was a Great Day for Pleasure Cruising

by MONICA WILCH

It's a rare and beautiful day at Montrose Harbor as I hail the "first mate" of the Hinky-Dink VI.

"Climb aboard!" he calls out, and with all sorts of feminine and journalistic trappings dangling precariously — purse, sandals, notebook, camera — I scramble oh so gracefully onto the deck. Not exactly the picture of a seasoned sailor!

But the "ship's captain" doesn't mind that this newest passenger looks totally useless. He has everything under control for the "voyage" and, besides, he specializes in treating friends to such aquatic entertainment, labor-free. His name is Fred Hinkle.

As I was welcomed onto this beautiful, 36-foot sedan cruiser, owned by the Hinkle family of 600 S. Albert St., Mount Prospect, I joined hundreds of suburbanites in what has become a major summer preoccupation in the U.S. — pleasure boating.

WHILE SOME PEOPLE use their boats as vehicles for water-skiing, fishing and other activities, the Hinkles enjoy the pure sport of boating. They spend every weekend on the Hinky-Dink, weather permitting, taking short cruises south to the Chicago River and through the locks and north along the shores of Evanston and Wilmette.

Occasionally the family sets off on longer trips, favorite excursion points being Starved Rock, Ill.; Kenosha, Wis.; and Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

On these voyages the Hinkles' twin sons, Ralph and Raymond, 21, crew for their father, while Anita Hinkle is "chief steward" in the galley, which boasts storage space for enough food to feed the six-member family four days.

THE COMPACT KITCHENETTE tucked away in a corner of the cabin consists of a gold marine refrigerator, a two-burner alcohol stove, sink and cupboard space. There Mrs. Hinkle whips up hearty meals of lasagne, hamburgers and hot dogs, pancakes, bacon and eggs.

Tidying up the olive-carpeted cabin, which sleeps six, is a job for the Hinkle girls, Elizabeth, 13, and Donna, 10. A formica-topped table and blue and olive-cushioned bench seats on the right make up into a double bed. Another double bed and a bunk are disguised in daytime as seats in the bow of the boat and along the left side of the cabin.

A portable head — a toilet like those in planes, which is pumped out periodically by a specially-equipped service boat in the harbor — plus a hot-water shower, completes the facilities "below."

UP ON THE DECK, two high white vinyl-cushioned seats, for skipper and navigator, face an instrument panel equipped with a ship-to-shore marine radio and telephone with several emergency channels and two regular ones.

With this telephone, passengers on the Hinky-Dink can contact other boats, the coast guard and private parties on shore. The yacht's standard equipment also includes a depth-finder, a compass and a 120-gallon fuel tank in the maple and oak hull.

As the Hinky-Dink clipped along at a maximum speed of about 30 knots, I sat in the mahogany-paneled, teak-decked stern and talked with Mrs. Hinkle about the sport of boating. The Hinkles have been at it for eight years, gradually moving up in the boat world from their first small outboard to this impressive two-engine craft, which they just bought this summer. Their last boat, which they had for four years, was a 31-footer.

IN THOSE EARLY YEARS they went boating on the Chain of Lakes, Fox Lake, and down the Fox River. When it "got too congested there," Mrs. Hinkle explained, they decided to "try Lake Michigan, with a larger boat."

By this time we were approaching Navy Pier, and all aboard the Hinky-Dink scrambled for cameras to photograph a large foreign vessel docked there. Our academic stimulation for the day was trying to determine the nationality of the ship from its name and flag!

Another favorite sightseeing excursion, according to Mrs. Hinkle, is the annual Venetian Nights parade at Monroe Harbor. But other than that, they "stick strictly to taking kids and friends out, having a good time cruising on the lake, and swimming." She said they like to take people out "to see the sights and go through the locks," which was an experience to write home about for this reporter!

AFTER WATCHING VESSELS go through the locks at the "Soo" on several occasions, I got a charge out of being on the water myself as it first recedes to meet the river, and then rises to the level of the lake.

As the boat rocked and rolled in the rough, merging waters around the locks, Mrs. Hinkle commented that "a lot of people get seasick — woozy from the motion." But she is always equipped with pills to meet this contingency.

Besides rescuing light-headed passengers with turbulent stomachs, the Hinkles also have rendered rescue services in more serious situations. They recalled one occasion last year when a sailboat capsized in a storm and the Hinky-Dink was first on the scene, pulling all the occupants out of the water.

RALPH HINKLE EXPLAINED that there are three emergency agencies on the water: the fire department, which is equipped with boats and helicopters; the police, with combined units for patrolling the harbors; and the Coast Guard, also using both boats and helicopters.

Operating a yacht safely is nothing to be taken lightly, as Fred Hinkle will tell you. It requires a great deal of knowledge not only about the craft itself but also about the water — depth and currents, and the weather — wind velocity and direction, indications of approaching storms, etc.

A skilled and cautious skipper, Hinkle has recently completed the first degree in the Chicago Power Squadron, an independent boating organization which offers courses in boating. The attainment of this degree, which is signified by a special pennant flown at the bow of the boat, enables Hinkle to teach others boating skills, besides qualifying him as an able skipper.

AND THIS REPORTER can certainly testify to his abilities in handling the Hinky-Dink in an emergency!

Almost as though it had been "planted" there to make a story for me, a monstrous log lay submerged in the lake until approximately 4 p.m. Sunday, when the Hinky-Dink collided with it in a frightening spasm of churning water, grinding wood and careening deck.

The log lodged in the propeller, bending it and requiring us to proceed toward the harbor at a greatly reduced speed.

But no one on the Hinky-Dink even so much as got wet during this unfortunate episode, thanks to a capable crew!

Perhaps the greatest joy of a boat was pointed out by Ralph: "You can sleep so well out there!"

BUT DURING MY AFTERNOON in the world of boating, what I noticed most was the comradery among boaters.

And Ralph agreed — "People out here always help each other, and they all wave." He added, "People driving boats are also more courteous than car drivers."

The Hinkles' only gripe, really, is the weather. And this summer has been especially disappointing for boaters. But I can't complain; the sun shone bright for my day on the water, and it was great!

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

More People Saying 'I Do'

by GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Americans once again are saying "I do" in near record numbers. They're also setting near records for "I don't," meaning the end of their marriage.

The increase in divorces, however, seems no threat to the family institution. It is thriving better than ever, with a record high of 50 million families today, almost five million more than were recorded in the 1960 census.

In the 1960's, the number of families has grown at a faster rate than the total U.S. population. "These facts give the lie to those gloomy souls who predict the imminent collapse of family life in the United States," reports the nonprofit Population Reference Bureau of Washington, D.C.

IN A LOOK at "The U.S. Family; a Thriving Institution," the bureau reports that in 1968, for the first time since the post-war boom year in 1946, marriages rose above two million. In turn, divorces exceeded 500,000, for the first time since 1946.

The bureau says that "provisional data indicate that about 1.2 million Americans were divorced in 1968." The figure went over one million in 1946.

Hardly good news, it adds, but not an indication of a crisis in the U.S. family "as an institution."

"A MORE REASONABLE explanation is that American couples have become increasingly disinclined to suffer marriages that are unhappy," says the bureau.

"Furthermore, large numbers of those who divorce eventually marry again and the proportion who do so each year is growing . . . the decision to dissolve a specific marriage that has not worked in order to try marriage again hardly constitutes a rejection of the family institution as such."

Why the current boom in marriages? Its source lies chiefly in the previous boom of the years immediately after World War II—the babies of those post-war years are the newlyweds today, says the bureau.

"THEN THERE'S just a general trend of more marrying instead of singling one's way through life."

For instance, in 1960, the proportion of women aged 45 to 59 who had never married was seven per cent of the feminine population. By 1967, it had dropped to five per cent.

"The percentage of nevermarried American women in the 45-59 age group has probably never been as low as it is today," says the bureau.

St. Laurent the Trend-setter

Lower Hemlines Are Official

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Question: When Yves St. Laurent, prodigy of the late Christian Dior, lowers hemlines to midcalf, does anyone pay attention?

Answer: Yes. Rapt attention.

For fall and winter designers on both sides of the Atlantic have been tip-toeing through the sewing rooms on hemlengths—showing mini, midi, maxi.

But when the master makes a strong statement, as he did in his showing early in the week, the new, longer length is official!

Although St. Laurent had some mini lengths in his collection, you probably can start counting the mini out by fall, 1970.

ST. LAURENT is an undisputed trendsetter. It was he who started the whole pants suit movement for chic females many seasons ago.

Some fashion observers thought it ridiculous. Imagine suggesting the pants suit go respectable, being acceptable apparel for luncheon or dinner at places where appetizers cost $2 and up.

These first thoughts were wrong and pants suits became socially acceptable.

The hemline plunge St. Laurent introduced in his Paris showing is the biggest since Dior's big drop in 1947. The latter gave fashion the "new look."

Longer skirt lengths fit with an economic theory that links fashion and business conditions, by the way. The theory, documented in a survey by a maker of corsets:

When business is bad, the skirt lengths drop and waistlines tend to tighten. When business is good, skirts are short and waistlines loose.

AN ANALYSIS of the relationship of the two, all the way back to 1900, proves it all along the line. Consider the panic of 1907 and 1908. Women's skirts had trains!

Contemporary market conditions indicate that if the theory is to continue to hold water, skirt lengths, indeed, must come down. Since November, it's been bearish—especially so since May.

Among girl watchers, the predicted demise of the mini is considered disgraceful. A veteran girl watcher said if the new lengths really take over, he's going to get as upset as Carrie Nation was when she attacked saloons with a hatchet.

Another male, cheering the dropped hemlines, hopes they go even lower eventually.

"I'm hoping they bring back the hobble skirt," he said. "Keeps women in their place."

Teachers Learn Computers Help

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Teachers in Appalachia are learning the new math through a computer-assisted study course in their own areas.

The teachers, most of them homemakers and mothers, are unable to leave home to attend in-service courses at summer institutes or advanced university courses.

So the Pennsylvania State University and the Appalachia Educational Laboratory, Charleston, W.Va., are bringing the course to the teachers.

The Computer Assisted Instruction Laboratory at Penn State arranged for each teacher to be assigned a computer terminal in the program center at Dryden, Va. Each student can advance at his or her own rate of speed.

The program first was tested two years ago in Williamsport, Pa. Additional programs are planned for other sites later in the year.

Don't Paint Deck

A wood deck is not its most attractive self during the first season, while the weathering process is just beginning. But staining or painting means future upkeep and decks should exist for enjoyment, not work.

Fences, decks and other garden structures weather more evenly if "finished" with clear water repellent.

Mrs. Naomi Stahl

A Believer in Teacher Power

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

A degree in education does not automatically make a good teacher.

Mrs. Edward Stahl, first grade teacher at Dryden School in Arlington Heights, belives a teacher has the power to "turn kids on" or to "turn them off."

"Education should be exciting . . . a lifetime adventure," proposes this admittedly non-traditional teacher.

At Ball State University in Muncie, Ind., where she received a B.A. in education, Naomi Stahl, first planned to become a social worker. But she decided against it.

"I thought I would become too personally, involved in the problems of others, so switched to teaching."

Mrs. Stahl smiled as she spoke. Experience has taught her that a teacher becomes "very involved," she confessed.

A YOUTHFUL appearing "over-40," who relates to "under-30" problems and attitudes, this progressive educator lets children know she cares how they feel about school.

"Children are eager to learn, and suburban children are equipped with much knowledge when they enter school. A teacher's most important job is to insure that these children will 'like' school," declared the attractive brunette, who has two children of her own.

Julie, 11, at South Junior High, and Tim, 8, at Park Elementary, think it's great their mom is a teacher. And Mrs. Stahl feels she benefits doubly from her dual role as mother and teacher. "Having a daughter and a son has helped me to be a good teacher, and experience with other children and their parents keeps me on guard as a mother," she acknowledged.

AN IMPORTANT part of teaching is recognizing that children are unusually perceptive, claims Naomi. "Kids know when you are sincere . . . and when you are bluffing."

Her advice is to be honest with children, both in the classroom and at home. And this lively pedagogue insists that children do "look up" to teachers and that it "does make a difference what a teacher says and does."

Though Mrs. Stahl believes teachers are the most valuable segment of society and wants her profession to advance in status and to receive higher salaries, she says she would not join a teachers' union. "I would never go out on strike," she vowed, "as I would not want my children to think I wouldn't teach them — even for one day — because I wanted more money."

HOWEVER, NAOMI sympathizes strongly with her fellow teachers and their financial problems. "My salary is supplementary," she said, "and it must be especially difficult for some of our men teachers to raise families on their salaries."

As citizen, parent and taxpayer, as well as teacher, Mrs. Stahl ponders the questions of taxes, teachers wages and federal aid to education.

"I realize we pay the taxes, but I feel that federal aid has been helpful."

While applauding advances in education offered in this area, Mrs. Stahl wishes for even more change and progress. She wants the present classroom of 30 whittled to 20. Starting at first grade level, she advocates a change of teachers at least twice weekly, hopefully more often.

KIDS NEED a mother image to a certain degree, but will benefit (as will the teachers) from the change."

She explained that she is a better science teacher, whereas another teacher may be more proficient in literature and another in spelling or reading.

"Teachers should work together" is her credo.

The first grade pupil in Naomi Stahl's classroom encounters flexible but consistent discipline. First graders are self-oriented and must develop self-discipline and learn to operate within a group, she explained. "But," Naomi admitted, "the hardest thing for me to say to a child is 'Be quiet!' "

Dark-eyed Naomi, who laughed at but agreed to the suggestion she is a "swinging" teacher, feels although her classroom may not be the quietest in the school, it is a rewarding one. Mrs. Stahl's students are allowed to converse without disturbing classmates, never lose recess privileges, are not required to write repetitive sentences and rarely are punished as a group.

"MY STRONGEST discipline is a 10 minute talk after school," says the teacher who wants her pupils to learn to accept freedom with responsibility.

Energetic and talented, Naomi likes to be "where the action is" and confesses she and husband Edward ("who is just wonderful!") have many young friends. Mrs. Stahl has played violin in the Harper College Orchestra and recently attended her first rehearsal in the DuPage Symphony Orchestra. An assistant Girl Scout leader, she enjoys a lively interest in the "generation gap." She doesn't mind "protest" if the protestors know why they are protesting and stay within the law.

"It is morally wrong to violate the rights of others," says this teacher who believes in freedom of expression within the boundaries of self-discipline.

"NO ONE IS perfect. With proper attitudes and recognition of the important human element, we can develop tolerance for the weaknesses and shortcomings of others."

Using this criteria, Naomi Stahl attempts to treat each student as an individual with different background, personality, age and capabilities. She loves her job!

"If I got paid twice as much working in an office, I still wouldn't work in an office. I love teaching too much.."

AN EDUCATOR who successfully combines teaching and homemaking, Mrs. Naomi Stahl of Arlington Heights finds relaxation in playing the violin.

Seven Attendants for Wheeling Bride

Seven bridal attendants and a ring bearer preceded Sharon L. Koeppen down the aisle of St. John Evangelical Lutheran Church, Northbrook, on June 21. At five o'clock in the afternoon she became the bride of Herbert Grandt Jr., son of former Wheeling residents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Grandt of Mellen, Wis.

Daughter of the Andrew Koeppens, 327 W. Dundee Road, Wheeling, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white organza with a Victorian neckline embroidered with alencon lace which was encrusted with crystals and seed pearls. The lace also edged the hemline of the empire gown. A petal headpiece of lace and crystals held her bouffant veil, and she carried white orchids in her bouquet.

Yellow and lime green was the color scheme for the bride's attendants. The maid of honor, her sister, Jane Koeppen, and flower girl Laurie Koeppen, 4, of Mundelein, a cousin of the bride, wore lime green shantung empire gowns trimmed with venise lace. The maid of honor carried a cascade of yellow daisies, and the flower girl carried a basket filled with yellow daisies.

FOUR BRIDESMAIDS and a junior bridesmaid came down the aisle gowned identically to the maid of honor but in a buttercup yellow shantung. All carried white daisies.

The bridesmaids included Vicki Kanellis, Mount Prospect; Sue Koeppen, Wheeling, cousin of the bride; Jane Hansman, Buffalo Grove; and Mrs. Lois Tincu, Arlington Heights, the groom's sister. Cherly Padberg, 8, of Palatine, a cousin of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid.

The groom has been attending Western Michigan University and chose a friend, Tom Griffith of Middleville, Mich., as best man. John Way of Escanaba, Mich.; Leonard Maczko, Prospect Heights; Gerald Koeppen, brother of the bride; and Robert Tincu, Arlington Heights, seated the wedding guests.

THE RING BEARER was Larry Koelper of Wheeling, 7-year-old cousin of the bride, and David Koelper, Arlington Heights, another cousin, was the junior groomsman.

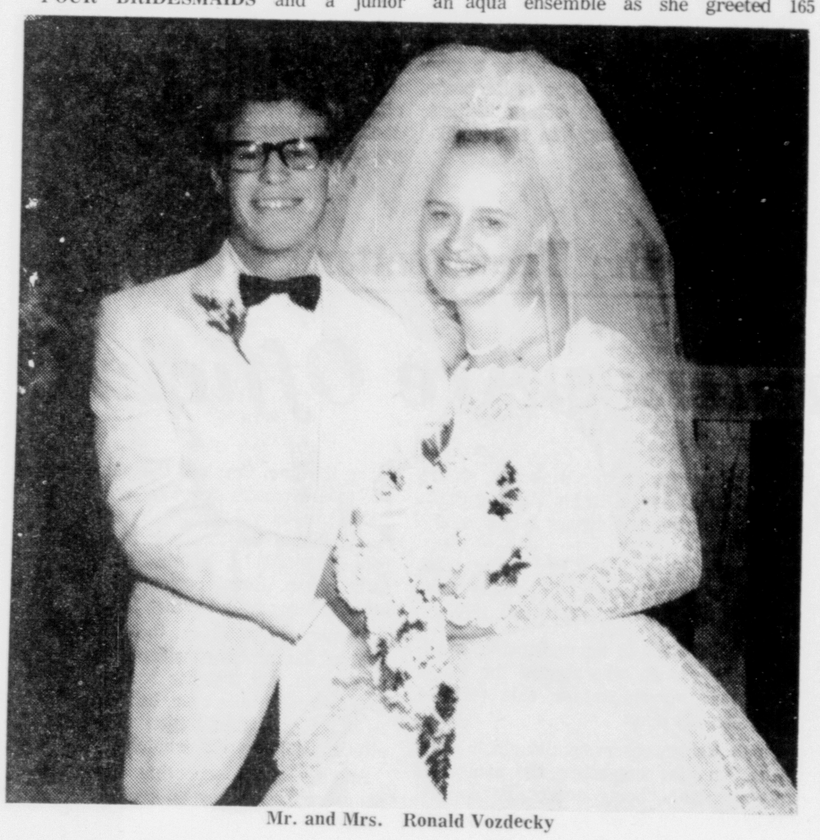

For the wedding and the reception which followed at Arlington Heights Knights of Columbus Hall, the bride's mother wore an aqua ensemble as she greeted 165 guests. Mrs. Grandt chose green chiffon, and both mothers had white orchids in a corsage.

The newlyweds both attended Wheeling High School, and they will be living in Kalamazoo while the groom continues his studies at Western Michigan. The bride is a secretary for Allstate Insurance Co., Northbrook, but will transfer to the Kalamazoo office in September.

The couple honeymooned at the Wisconsin Dells and have been living in Wheeling temporarily until leaving for Michigan this month.

Rainbow Setting Accents Davis-Vozdecky Nuptials

Shades of a summer rainbow surrounded Le Anna Davis of Arlington Heights as she stood at the altar of St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church, Algonquin, for her June 21 wedding. Her attendants were gowned in pink, yellow and blue for the double ring ceremony which made her the wife of Ronald P. Vozdecky, son of the Emery W. Vozdeckys of Dundee.

Even the bride's and groom's mother were attired in colors matching the bridal attendants' gowns, Mrs. Morris L. Davis, 734 N. Chestnut, in a blue dress with a beaded collar and Mrs. Vozdecky in yellow with beaded trim. Mrs. Davis had a corsage of pink roses, and Mrs. Vozdecky chose yellow roses to match her dress.

GIVEN IN marrige by her father, Morris Davis, the bride wore a white lace gown which billowed in tiers from the waist to the floor over a hoopskirt. A pearl crown secured her shoulder-length veil. Her bouquet was composed of white carnations and stephanotis, and she carried her mother's first communion rosary during the service.

Wearing a pink chiffon gown overlaid in lace was Maureen L. Davis, sister of the bride, from Tempe, Ariz., whose bouquet of white carnations had pink centers. Susan Knaack of Des Plaines, cousin of the bride, wore blue and Kathy Thompson, Los Angeles, wore yellow, both girls' dresses identically styled to the maid of honor's. The two bridesmaids carried white carnations with centers to match their gowns.

Sandi Knaack, 7, of Des Plaines, another cousin of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a pink dress to match the maid of honor's and carrying a basket of rose petals.

Scott Crockatt, Hoffman Estates, was best man, and groomsmen were David Thompson, Los Angeles, and Dean Schultz, Arlington Heights, a cousin of the groom.

SEATING THE wedding guests were Roy Hammer, Hoffman Estates, and Larry Dulin, Elgin.

One hundred fifty guests greeted the newlyweds at a reception in the Colonial Room of Elk Grove Village Holiday Inn. The couple then spent a three-day honeymoon at Lake Geneva and are living in Arlington Heights.

They met while attending Elgin Community College, and both are working locally. The bride, a graduate of Arlington High School and Elgin College, is a secretary at Motorola, Inc., Schaumburg, and the groom is a representative for Household Finance Co. in Arlington Heights.

He has served in the U.S. Army and spent a tour of duty in Vietnam.

GROOMING

Carolyn Ann Ray Is Bride

In a candlelight ceremony June 21, Carolyn Ann Ray, daughter of the Eldon O. Rays of 1431 W. Lincoln, Mount Prospect, became the bride of Gilbert Frank Craig Jr. of Independence, Mo. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Craig of Carmel Valley, Calif.

The bride chose a wedding gown of silk organza over taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice, bell-shaped sleeves and skirt, and a chapel-length train attached at the waist. Appliqued rosebuds adorned the dress and train.

A waist-length veil was held by a crown of roses, and she wore a pearl necklace, a gift from the groom. The bridal bouquet was composed of white roses, baby's breath and blue stephanotis.

MATRON OF HONOR for her sister was Mrs. Rogner Liljequist of Mount Prospect. She wore sky blue chiffon over taffeta styled with an empire waist in the front and a loose, floor-length train in the back. Double bows of matching blue held her veil, and she carried a cascade of spring flowers in blue and white.

The bride's other attendants were her cousin, Mrs. Steve Sproul of Ruskin Heights, Mo., and Sally Craig, sister of the groom. They were attired the same as the matron of honor.

Mrs. Ray witnessed her daughter's wedding in a yellow silk A-line dress and a corsage of lime green cymbidiums. The groom's mother wore a wheat-colored silk and wool costume trimmed with lace applique. Her corsage was also of green cymbidiums.

THE GROOM CHOSE one of his Kappa Alpha fraternity brothers, Dwight E. Chalker of Narragansett, R.I., as best man, while ushers were David Ray, brother of the bride, and Steve Fasick and Craig Hiscott of Granite City, fraternity brothers. Groomsmen were J. W. Thatcher Jr., Chicago, and Scott Craig Jr., Chicago Heights, cousins of the groom.

Following a buffet reception in the Citation Room of Arlington Park Towers, the newlyweds left on a week-long honeymoon to New Orleans. They are residing at 709 Burning Tree Circle, Independence, Mo.

The bride was graduated this year from William Woods College in Fulton, Mo. Her husband is a graduate of Westminster College in Fulton and is employed by Alton Box Board Co., Blue Springs, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Craig Jr.

Donna Gingher Weds Michael Dew

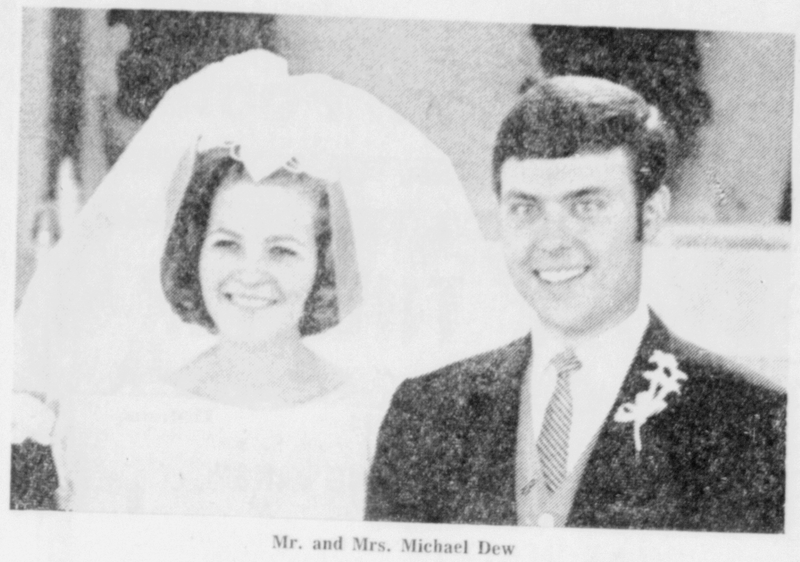

A honeymoon at the Wagon Wheel Lodge in Rockton topped wedding festivities for Elmhurst College students Donna Gingher and Michael Dew, who were united in 3 p.m. services in St. Peter Catholic Church, Itasca, on June. 21. Father Jerome Kelly officiated at the double ring ceremony. The groom is the son of the Robert Dews, 424 S. May St., Bensenville.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gingher, 448 S. Cherry, Itasca, was attended by matron of honor Mrs. James Riforgiato, a friend from Wood Dale; bridesmaids Barbara Lake and Penni Phillips, both of Chicago, and Sharon Murphy, sister of the groom from Park Forest; and Noreen Gingher, the bride's sister, as junior bridesmaid.

THE BRIDE'S EMPIRE gown of white nylon organza was appliqued with a lace motif which was studded with tiny pearls and sequins. The elbow-length sleeves and hemline were edged with a band of the lace. The bridal veil was held by a bow-type headpiece studded with pearls and aurora borealis.

Bridal attendants carried colonial bouquets of yellow roses to compliment their floor-length yellow chiffon gowns trimmed in apricot and green flowered braid.

The mother of the bride wore a floor-length chartreuse chiffon gown with a beaded bodice, and the groom's mother was gowned in a light blue sleeveless dress trimmed with silver braid and pearls.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dew

GEORGE COLTON, ITASCA, was best man. Ushers were Ken Hansen, Schaumburg; Ken Draganski, Palatine; and Bill Gingher, brother of the bride.

The reception for 200 guests was held at Salt Creek Golf Club.

The bride is a graduate of Lake Park High School, then attended Drake University for three years before her final year at Elmhurst College. She will be student teaching in Bensenville in September.

Michael was graduated from Fenton High School and attends Elmhurst College. The couple will make their home in Bensenville, where the groom is employed as manager of The Stag Shop.

Area Teachers Wed June 21

Two area school teachers took their matrimonial vows during an afternoon candlelight ceremony in St. Theresa Church, Palatine, on June 21.

Mary Lou Anderson, daughter of the junior Emil Andersons, 704 W. Thomas St., Arlington Heights, is a fourth grade teacher at Mark Twain School in Wheeling. Her groom, Robert B. Frost, son of the Leo Frosts, 142 S. Hale, Palatine, formerly taught physical education at Joyce Kilmer School, Wheeling, and will fill a position in the fall with Schaumburg's District 54.

Wearing a scoop-necked empire gown with long sleeves and flared cuffs, the bride was led to the altar by her father. Appliques of venise lace were scattered over the bodice, skirt and cuffs. A double cathedral veil edged in venise lace was held by a large hairbow. Her bouquet was an arrangement of lilies and ivy.

AS MAID OF HONOR, Marlene Frost, the groom's sister, wore a sleeveless empire dress of mint green linen. A softly flowing skirt and cowl collar of ivory taffeta were delicately ribbed in green. She carried a basket of yellow roses, white daisies and ivy.

Bridesmaids Barbara Schaefer, Prospect Heights, and Shirley Anderson, the bride's sister; and a flower girl, 7-year old Cheryll Frost of Palatine, the groom's niece, wore the same style dress and carried the same type flowers as the maid of honor.

Ronald Frost, the groom's twin brother, was best man, with John Arida, Barrington, and Steve Matukaitis, a cousin from Mount Carmel, Pa., serving as ushers.

GREETING 180 GUESTS at a buffet dinner dance at the Arlington Heights VFW Hall, the bride's mother was attired in a jonquil yellow linen coat and dress ensemble. Accenting the dress was her corsage of yellow roses, white daisies and ivy. A French linen walking suit of light apple green was the choice of the groom's mother. Pink roses, daisies and ivy made up her corsage.

The couple honeymooned on a trip through the Smoky Mountains and visited the bride's grandparents in Fort Lauderdale before returning to Palatine to live.

The bride is a graduate of Arlington High School and Western Illinois University where she was affiliated with Sigma Kappa Sorority. The groom attended Palatine High School and Northeast Missouri State Teachers College.

Charles Hoffman Takes Bride

A Victorian style wedding gown was worn by Linda Pichler of Franklin Park for her marriage June 21 to Charles Hoffman of Mount Prospect. The double ring ceremony took place in Resurrection Lutheran Church in the bride's home town.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pichler, she wore an antique ivory peau de soie gown trimmed with swiss embroidery at the high neckline and edging the full-length puffed sleeves. The sleeves were of silk organza. The gown had a full skirt and was topped with chancel-length veil held by a peau de soie bow. The bride carried pastel summer flowers with baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoffman

THE GROOM IS THE SON of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoffman, 218 N. Pine St., Mount Prospect. His brother, Paul Hoffman, was best man, and the matron of honor was Cindy Westbrock of Franklin Park.

Cindy wore a floor-length gown of blue dotted swiss and carried a basket of pastel flowers. Em-Marie Pichler, sister of the bride, was flower girl in a floor-length blue dotted swiss with a white organza redingote. She also carried a basket of pastel flowers.

Wedding music was provided by Nancy Stroehrman who sang "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by two guitars. Carol Barranco and Beverly Kraft, friends of the bride, presented flowers to all of the women attending the ceremony.

BROTHERS OF THE bridal pair, Neal Hoffman and Michael Pichler, seated the wedding guests. A reception followed at a Franklin Park hall.

For the evening nuptials, the bride's mother carried two red roses as accent for her spring green boucle dress, and the groom's mother carried a single pink carnation to match her pink linen dress.

The couple are making their home in DeKalb while the groom completes his senior year at Northern Illinois University. He expects to graduate next January. Charles is a graduate of Prospect High School.

His bride was graduated from NIU this past June.

Float Publicizes September Play

A group of inventive Music On Stage and Des Plaines Theatre Guild boosters took advantage of the Independence Day weekend parade in downtown Des Plaines to call attention to their musical, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," which opens Sept. 12.

Not shown in the photo, but very much a part of the parade entry were Mert and Ruth Staley of Palatine, Ted Weiss of Elk Grove Village (who plays Pseudolus in the musical comedy, the role made famous by Zero Mostel in both the New York and movie versions of "Forum"), Mary Chiddister and Mike Woulds of Schaumburg, and Roy Quid of Arlington Heights, stage manager for the joint Music On Stage — Des Plaines Theatre Guild production which will play four weekends at Guild Playhouse in Des Plaines, Sept. 12 through Oct. 4.

Cultural Expansion in Suburbs

Opera Lovers Need Not Wander Afar

by RACHEL HEUMAN

There's theater in the suburbs. Art in the suburbs. Concert in the suburbs. And there's also opera in the suburbs.

True, so far it exists to a rather limited degree, but local interest is attuned. Mrs. Dorothy Everhart of the Arlington Heights Concert Association attested that the concert association "would be highly interested once an adequate stage were available."

There are other opera enthusiasts, however, who have refused to allow the absence of performance area to prevent them from pursuing the excitement and drama of some of the world's greatest musical stories.

Among these groups is the Northwest Lyric Opera Guild. As its name implies, the basic reason for the group's existence is the support of the Chicago Lyric Opera. The support comes from the selling of subscriptions and from the nominal Guild fee which is required for membership in the northwest chapter.

FAR BEYOND their initial reason for existence, however, is what the group accomplishes in furthering the interest of opera throughout the locale.

Through operalogues and more intensive study groups, the membership of Northwest Lyric Opera Guild strives to develop public appreciation for the opera, and to increase public awareness of how readily available opera is.

Operalogues are sketches of operas — selections chosen so that they yield a familiarization with an opera. Northwest Lyric Opera Guild schedules a particular operalogue before that opera opens in Chicago.

Conducting the operalogues are club members with anywhere from no music background to some professional singing experience. An enthusiasm for the subject is a primary requisite for a club member who considers presenting an operalogue. Then what naturally follows is a curiousity to delve into resources concerning the author — his person and his purpose — the opera's story line, characterization, anecdotes about stars who are known for their roles in the opera, and other interesting details which might make the listener's experience more meaningful.

RECORDINGS OF major arias or live performances of these is one of the features of the educational-while-entertaining operalogues. However, one need not have professional singing background, as does club member Mrs. Robert Nelson of Inverness, or be a choir director, as is Mrs. Richard Impey of Arlington Heights, to present a successful operalogue.

"Your own enthusiasms get involved while you work on it," promised Mrs. David Sutton, president of the group.

This is not to say that professionals have not made their appearances before the Northwest Lyric Opera Guild. Among guest performers were Robert Gay and the Northwest Opera Workshop from Northwestern University. Other guests have included music teachers and professional singers.

Operalogues, however, are not the sole source of Northwest Lyric Oper activity. The group has been instrumental in encouraging the Palatine public library to develop its music department. During opera week last year the library set up special displays and now has a collection of librettos.

APPROACHING surrounding libraries to encourage the development of a music department, and specifically an opera collection, is the job of the club's educational chairman.

Also under this chairmanship comes the club's efforts in the local schools and choirs. The programs are light and airy ones such as selections from "Carmen," aimed at giving the youngsters the tools with which to enjoy opera.

According to Mrs. Sutton, the students have enjoyed these programs immensely, wanting to know when the group would return. Similar receptions were enjoyed when the group took their program to local church choirs.

Social activities also have their place for club members, one of the most outstanding being the husbands-invited evening when members combine dinner with the performance of a one-act opera. On the program for this April is "Don Pasquale."

EXISTING FOR similar purposes is the Arlington Heights Women's Club's music study group. The purpose of the group, according to its chairman, Mrs. William Fricke, is the advancement of culture, though not exclusively opera.

Nonetheless, Mrs. Fricke's extensive singing background (leading roles in such favorites as "Aida") makes her a natural for an opera study program.

In fact, last year the club performed "Aida" with major roles taken by Mrs. Fricke, her husband, Bill, also a former operatic performer, and Mike McMann, a voice student of Mrs. Fricke. When additional roles need to be filled, Mrs. Fricke teaches them to women from the club, and speaks highly of her "proteges' " performances.

In September preparations will begin for the season's programs — Menotti's "Telephone," a one-act comedy in English, and a Christmas concert, both in December, and a formal concert of patriotic, religious, show and operatic selections in April.

THE WOMEN participating in the programs will meet twice a week in the mornings and as program time nears, possibly three times. For opera presentations, the women buy the complete opera scores. They study the background of the opera, the musician's aims, his characterizations and the dramatics of the presentation.

Eventually, Mrs. Fricke revealed, the group hopes to take such programs to schools and nursing homes.

The proceeds from such presentations are donated to any of the club's causes, such as the Park Ridge School for Girls, or towards a music scholarship.

Beyond the proceeds their activities earn, however, is the satisfaction the women get from doing something they enjoy.

Mrs. Richard Blair, Arlington Heights, with no singing background prior to this, described her work in the chorus as "interesting and challenging — and fun." Though she had no idea "women's chorus" referred to an opera chorus when she signed up at a women's club meeting, Mrs. Blair has enjoyed the work and reveals that learning Italian, though not a simple task, is easier when the language is writen to music.

AND THEN THERE is the pride in winning the music award from the 7th District, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. The award was presented to the Arlington Heights chapter in April.

Whether it be the explorations of a group of club women solely for their own fulfillment and enjoyment, or the efforts of an organized group to support opera on an organized scale, opera exists in the suburbs for the asking.

HELPIN GCHICAGOLAND residents get free chest X-rays last month were volunteers from Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club. Taking registrations at the TB mobile unit at State and Madison Streets were Mrs. John Hutchison, Mrs. Robert Fletcher, Mrs. John S. Hughes and Mrs. William Hardt. This is just one of the Juniors' many service projects during the year.

POISON IVY has hogged the spotlight but chrysanthemums, daisies, feverfew, philodendrons, nettles and buttercups can be equally irritating, according to Dr. Albert H. Slepyan, University of Illinois dermatologist. He calls these plants "bad actors" — botanical irritants which provoke skin and eye reactions in sensitized people. The irritating chemicals may be anywhere in the plant, from leaf to tuber, and the poison capacity depends upon the weather, the season, the terrain and the stage of development. Worst of all, once a person develops a sensitivity to one plant, he's likely to become sensitive to other irritant plants as well.

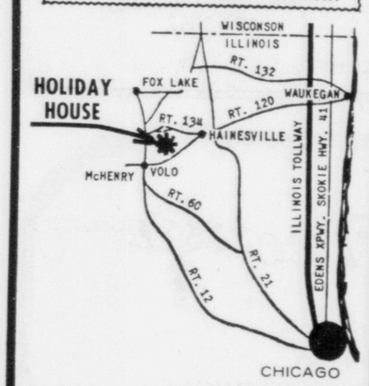

Start soon to take your garden indoors with cuttings of your favorites. Whole house plants that have been summering outdoors may become gangly, besides being potential carriers of nematodes and other outdoor soil pests. Rootings for the beginner are almost guaranteed with the many new planting aids on the market. Use presoaked pressed peat disks or vermiculite as your growing medium in a six-inch flower pot that later can be enclosed in a two-quart plastic freezer bag. Take cuttings from roses and spring-flowering shrubs when the new stems are no longer succulent but have not yet become hard. Boxwood cutting can be taken at any season, but some evergreens — holly, yew, arborvitae and juniper — root in late fall or early winter, after growth has slowed.

MAKE A SLANT cut through the stem two to six inches from the tip. Strip leaves from the lower half of each cutting, and on one side, scrape off a thin sliver of the outer bark. Then dip the base of the stem in rooting powder, shake off excess and insert to half its length in the rooting medium. Water lightly, expose to daylight, but not direct sun, and enclose in plastic bag. From then on — no water, no care until the cuttings "take" (from two weeks to two months). Plants which root easily are ivy, coleus, impatiens, fuchsia, geranium, philodendron, diffenbachia. Real green thumbers may welcome a challenge in boxwood, azalea, rose, or rhododendron.

The Lake Geneva Garden Club is preening for its flower show pageant Aug. 8 and 9 at Horticultural Hall in Lake Geneva. This year's conservation theme will contrast the beauty of our natural resources against the ugliness of blight, litter and pollution, according to Mrs. John C. Gilmore of Inverness, publicity co-chairman. A fashion show will climax the first evening, Mrs. Charles Pope of Barrington being among the models.

Did you know all mosquitoes don't bite? Males live off plant juices, and only the females are blood-suckers. Skinny people get more mosquito bites than do fat people, as the slender generally have a higher metabolism that mosquitoes favor. In other words, stay cool, dry and fat to repel mosquitoes.

Making Romantic Plans

Judith Stegmeier

Mrs. William O. Stegmeier of Wood Dale announces the engagement of her daughter, Judith Karen, to Philip W. Westin, son of the Carl Westins of Mankato, Kan.

Miss Stegmeier attended Fenton High School and was graduated from North Central College, Naperville. She is a junior high school science teacher in the Elmhurst public schools.

Her fiance received his master's degree in chemical engineering from the University of Kansas and is employed in that line by Atlantic Richfield Oil Co.

Paulette Bates

The engagement of Paulette Linda Bates to Richard G. Hunter, son of the Gilford Hunters of Wheaton, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Bates of 401 E. Rockwell St., Arlington Heights.

The couple met while attending Western Illinois University, where Mr. Hunter will be graduated in December. Miss Bates is an Arlington High School graduate.

The wedding is set for December.

Family Can Save Money By Smart Clothes Buying

Clothes make a good-sized dent in the family budget. According to model budgets put out this year by the U.S. Department of Labor, clothing accounts for about 20 per cent of total expenses.

However, advises the Family Financial Counseling Service of Avco Delta Corp., clothing probably is the easiest item in your budget on which you can save money. By planning and buying, you can save considerably on both clothing and linens and towels, too, especially during store white sales.

One word of caution, be sure it is regular merchandise that is on sale and not specially purchased items of lesser quality. And a cardinal rule of all sales should be whether you need the item. You should plan the bulk of your clothes shopping during January and July-August when the big sales take place.

OTHER SALES opportunities are clearance and anniversary sales, also end-of-season sales. You may not get the best selection, says the Avco Delta Counseling Service, but you will find tremendous buys.

If you will follow the ads in the newspapers, you can keep up with non-sale prices so you can readily spot a real bargin when you see one.

There are other ways to save money on clothes. Routine care given regularly will keep clothes looking their best longer. Hanging and folding clothes properly will preserve them.

The best way to save money on clothes is by sewing them yourself. Investing in a good sewing machine will pay for itself many times over.

The GOP's Elly Peterson

Best Woman Pro in Politics

by MARGUERITE DAVIS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Her name is Elly Peterson, and most Republicans will tell you she is the best woman pro in politcsm

As assistant chairman of the GOP National Committee, she serves as liaison with the White House and government agencies on patronage, a brand new assignment for that position. But she is accustomed to marking new paths.

GOP National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton, who chose her for the post, said it was an easy selection. As he said in introducing her at a recent committee meeting, everyone he consulted recommended Mrs. Peterson as the most efficient, the most knowledgeable and the most likeable.

"Now that I have had the privilege of working with Elly, I find that even her most ardent booster underestimated her," he said. "She is great."

OTHER GOP spokesmen have commended her method of operation.

"She thinks like a man," one said.

Asked by UPI in an interview if this were true, Mrs. Peterson, a twinkle in her eye, replied:

"I think like a man thinks men think."

Mrs. Peterson sat at a cluttered desk. There were two telephones colored what has been described unkindly as "tenement beige," a dictaphone, a couple of unopened boxes, and untidy piles of paper from one end of the desk to the other.

She wore a bright blue dress that brought out the color of her eyes, and an elephant pin of rhinestones. Her gray hair was casually disarranged, as befits any woman in her mid-50s at the end of a busy day.

In answering UPI's questions, her replies were incisive, her opinions firm.

"The feminine point of view just won't work," she said. "I've advised women to do the work men don't want to do—to work harder at it and do a better job."

MRS. PETERSON HAS been doing just that since she joined the Young Republicans in Oak Park, Ill., in 1936, a year before her marriage to Col. William M. Peterson — "One of the happiest marriages ever." She was less charmed by the YR's with whom she worked in the ill-fated presidential campaign of Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas.

"We passed out political literature not really knowing what we were doing," she said. "Young people are so much smarter now than we were, know more about world affairs. I don't recall I had the eagerness they have."

The Petersons moved to Michigan in 1939, and during World War II served in Europe. She worked for the American Red Cross, he was in military service. She took up politics in earnest when they returned to Michigan.

HER WORK IN organizing GOP women is credited with being a vital factor in Goerge Romney's gubernatorial campaign victory in 1962, which ended 14 years of state Democratic rule.

Mrs. Peterson also:

—Was the first woman to be elected a State Chairman in her party (that was in 1965).

—Was the first woman in the National GOP chain of command to be designated as the person through whom all patronage requests are to be routed.

—Conceived the idea of Action Now, a program intended to reclaim the ghettos of Detroit.

She seems proudest of the latter. She believes it to be at least one answer to President Nixon's inaugural statement:

"Our greatest need now is to reach beyond government, to enlist the legions of the concerned and committed."

THE SUCCESS OF the AN program in Detroit let to similar projects at Hartford, Conn., and Dallas, and Mrs. Peterson hopes for six more by August. The plan is based on what she considers "the overwhelming domestic problem of this generation, the crisis of our cites."

Action centers must be screened by the national committee, must be located in the heart of the neighborhood to be served, and must be staffed by residents of the area.

"A major goal will be to enlist the help of experts and develop well trained workers," Mrs. Peterson said. "This is not an area for amateurs or dilettantes; success depends on professionalism."

Detroit's Action Center was launched with no political label, but the program was so successful that was changed. It now is counted as a GOP asset.

''WE ELIMINATED political connections because the Republican Party didn't have a good image in the inner city," she said. "But we found out people don't care what your politics are as long as you help them with their problems."

The Detroit program last year included a summer camp for ghetto children and it will again in 1970. A site could not be lined up this year and the gap was filled by establishing little league baseball teams.

"We found people to work two evenings a week with 40 teams, and we could have used more," Mrs. Peterson said.

The GOP committee's No. 2 official traditionally has handled party women's activities, a responsibility retained by Mrs. Peterson. That means she inherits problems such as that raised recently by four irate GOP congresswomen.

REPS. FLORENCE P. Dwyer, N. J., Margaret M. Heckler, Mass., Charlotte T. Reid, Ill., and Catherine May, Wash., complained to President Nixon that not enough women were in top jobs i nhis administration. They stormed into this office by invitation, and emerged beaming.

They professed surprise to learn how many women held top administration positions. Mrs. Peterson, however, will have the continuing responsibility for working with the lady lawmakers on the problem.

She has put together a list of several hundred competent women who are available for federal appointment. But she also noted that most of the administration's glamor jobs were filled before she took her present position.

Mrs. Peterson's hold over patronage extends beyond the ladies. Every proposed federal marshal federal judge—is supposed to be referred to Mrs. Peterson.

"WE ARE TOTALLY free to make recommendations for jobs," she said. "We work closely with elected officials, to tie the party to those who are named by popular vote. We're trying to create a channel, so government people won't be inundated by telephone calls."

Some Republicans in Congress have been restive over the administration's proposal to take the Post Office Department out of politics. They grumbled this is the GOP's first crack at such patronage in eight years and it should not throw away a chance to appoint afithful supporters to

"If that's what the President wants, that's what he'll get," she said. "And you have only to go out in the boondocks to know that the support is there. The average person backs President Nixon.

For all her plusses, Mrs. Peterson has had disappointments.

She held the post of Assistant Chairman of the GOP National Committee in 1964 but resigned to run against incumbent Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich. That was the year Barry Goldwater was the GOP presidential candidate and Hart defeated her by 900,000 votes.

"IT WAS NOT A GOOD year for Republicans," commented one of her admirers.

Mrs. Peterson mtintains a furnished apartment near the GOP committee headquarters, spending most of her working days here when she isn't traveling. Weekends generally are spent with her husband and their black labrador retriever in the farm home at Charlotte, Mich., a suburb of Lansing.

Did she share her time off with children and grandchildren?

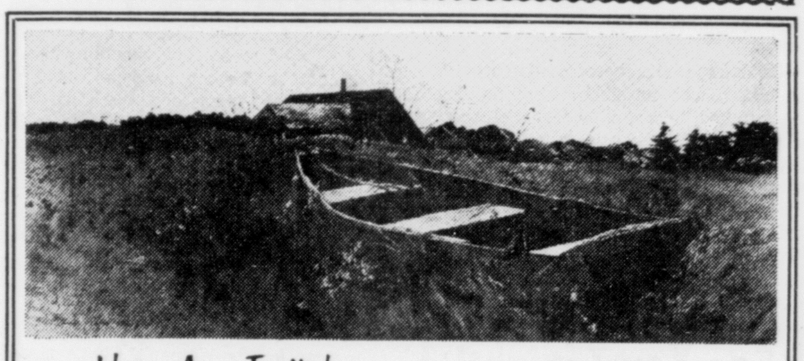

Mrs. Peterson smiled.

"We have no children. If we did, I couldn't be doing this."

Kickin' It Around

A LITTLE BIT ABOUT A lot of things:

Rave notices continue to pour in on Greg Luzinski, the youngster from Prospect Heights who patrols first base for one of the Philadelphia Phillies' Class A farm clubs.

Luzinski, who's hitting .320 with 27 homers and 66 runs-batted-in in 84 games for Raleigh-Durham of the Carolina League, was named to the all-star team for his play in the first half.

A high blood pressure condition forces Luzinski to go to Philadelphia once a month to see a specialist, but the condition isn't serious.

"It really doesn't bother me at all," says Greg, who played his high school ball at Notre Dame in Niles. "And I haven't missed any games because of the trips. I fly up in the morning and back in the afternoon."

* * * *

While Luzinski is ripping up the division with his big bat, Jerry Donahue is making himself known as one of the finest relief pitchers in the Carolina League.

Donahue, pitching for Rocky Mount (Detroit), stands 7-0 with six saves. The St. Viator product has worked in 75 innings over 36 games, striking out 67 and compiling a 2.17 earned run average.

* * * *

Paul Splittorff, a third Paddock area product turning in some snappy minor league performances, now shows an 8-6 record in the tough Class AAA American Association.

The big lefty from Arlington Heights has a 3.83 earned run average for 115 innings (tops in the league) of work.

Bo Osborne, who was Paul's coach at Corning last summer in the Class A New York-Penn League, says, "He progressed as fast as any player I've ever seen. You tell him something once and he remembers it."

Splittorff is enjoying life in the high minors.

"We fly on trips so travel is no problem," he says, "but I know it's a backward life from everybody else. You're going to work when everybody else is going home (because of the predominantly night schedule in the American Association).

"But I like it. You play baseball. That's your job. That's the only thing you have to do. You get to concentrate on it, and you're always talking baseball in the clubhouse. You can pick up a lot just from that."

Splittorff, who's in the Kansas City organization, is now a proud father. He and his wife met at Morningside College in Sioux City, and their first child was born in Omaha June 18.

* * * *

While Luzinski, Donahue, and Splittorff continue their charge to possible major league status, the one Paddock area product in the big show, New York Yankee left hander Fritz Peterson, is hopeful he has shaken off a frustrating slump.

Peterson, who prepped at Arlington High School, enjoyed the fastest start of his pro career with the Yankees but then went into a horrendous skid, a skid that reminded him of his soph year with New York.

But he has been sharper in recent outings, while finally bagging that 10th win, and now appears ready to stage another strong second-half. He's always been strong over the final months of a season.

Although Peterson has confidence in his ability now, he still remembers when he lost eight straight in his sophomore year with the Yankees.

"I was so convinced I would be sent out then," he admits today, "that I had my locker cleaned out and my bags all packed for a trip to Syracuse. I figured I could tell them I was all packed when they said go.

"Ralph (Manager Houk) never knew I had the bags packed and the locker cleaned out. All the stuff was hidden so no one would know how crazy I was. I am finally over all that now and lose more of my eccentricities each week."

As Peterson tells it today, he lost a lot of his superstitions during that 8-14 second year with the Yankees.

"I had all sort of queer ideas and good-luck gimmicks, but the kind of year I had destroyed all those things. No matter what I tried, nothing worked, so I gave up all superstitions."

Fritz has always been a young man with many hang-ups, with a tendency to have wild dreams . . . especially the night before he pitches.

It was only recently that he dreamed he was driving in the Indianapolis 500 ("I finished second").

Peterson will return to White Sox Park with the Yankees for a four-game set on Aug. 14-15-16-17 and should get the starting nod in at least one of those contests.

Baseball is still in the spotlight but the College All-Star game tonight heralds the official start of another football campaign.

The first football magazines are on the stands, and Ohio State (who else?) is everybody's favorite to win the national championship.

Some of the early favorites in the annual Heisman Trophy battle for college football's top performer are backs Steve Owens of Oklahoma, Mike Phipps of Purdue, Rex Kern of Ohio State, Harry Gonso of Indiana, and Jim Plunkett of Stanford.

Greg Luzinski

"Regulars Kenny Luxton and Bruce Hubbard (6-6, 205) will handle the wide assignments," the magazine reports. "Hubbard, with good hands to complement his ideal size, led with 33 catches for 551 yards. . ."

The magazine also mentions Brad Somers (Arlington High) and Jon Hittman (Wheeling) as leading candidates for starting spots on a Northwestern team that is picked for ninth in the Big Ten.

At Illinois, Steve Allen, another Arlington product, is labeled "a major addition to the defensive backfield."

We talked with Steve at the state track and field meet, and he was encouraged with his play in the spring drills (he was switched from quarterback to the defensive secondary). Steve has really filled out in his two years in college, now carries 190 pounds on his 6-3 frame.

It'll be interesting to see Allen and Hubbard tangle on Saturday, Oct. 11, when Northwestern plays at Illinois.

It just seems like yesterday when Allen was filling the air lanes with footballs as the Arlington quarterback and Hubbard was pulling them down as the Arlington end.

And on Oct. 11th Allen will be trying his best in the defensive backfield for Illinois to keep Hubbard from catching anything except the bus back to Evanston.

* * * *

University of Minnesota observers are high on the performance of Forest View grad Hank Tasche.

"Linebackers will again be the strongest starting point," says Street & Smith magazine. "Regulars Rich Crawford, impressive as a sophomore, is back, along with lettermen Henry Tasche, Scott Mullen and Dave Nixon . . ."

* * * *

The report is that George Bork, who set so many passing records at Arlington High and Northern Illinois University before spending some time in the Canadian League, will be doing his pitching this season for the Rockford Rams of the Central States League. Bork quarterbacked the Chicago Owls of the Continental League last fall.

Ten Years Ago . . .

Park Ridge and Berwyn were in the showdown meeting in the Cook County American Legion finals at Arlington's Recreation Park . . . The winner was set to advance to the state meet in Murphysboro . . . Park Ridge had earned a County berth by knocking off Palatine after both clubs had compiled 12-2 marks in league action . . . Official results in the professional women's golf tournament at Mount Prospect Country Club showed Betsy Rawls shading Mickey Wright by one stroke.

In Third Paddock Olympics

River Trails Captures Title

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

For the first time in its three-year history, the Paddock Olympics had a different winner.

In 1967 Palatine won the Olympics Trophy easily. In 1968 again it was Palatine. And late in the 1969 Olympics it appeared that Palatine was headed for its third straight.

But River Trails rallied in the team sports late in the second day of competition and with a second place finish in the girls 10-11 year old softball competition, River Trails had it all wrapped up.

River Trails won the meet with 132 points but barely edged out Elk Grove which had 128 and Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights which had 127 each. Palatine was not all that far behind with 125½.

Rounding out the scoring was Roselle with 100, Rolling Meadows 96, Schaumburg 42½, Salt Creek 30½, Hoffman Estates 27 and Hanover Park 24.

The first day of competition, which got started Tuesday morning, saw River Trails and Mount Prospect battling it out for first place with Rolling Meadows close behind.

But later in the first day, Rolling Meadows began to slip and Palatine began to surge as River Trails and Mount Prospect continued their battle for first place.

The biggest jump early in Wednesday's action was made by Arlington Heights. Arlington came from nowhere and made a strong bid for the trophy but just fell short of the amount of points needed.

Clutch wins over Mount Prospect in the team sports enabled River Trails to take a lead over Mount Prospect and jump over Palatine in the final standings.

Elk Grove was in third or fourth place for most of the two days and it's performance in the team events upped its total to 128 for second place.

The Paddock Olympics for 1969 was the biggest and best in its history. No less than 1,300 youngsters competed from a total of 11 park districts. In 1968 the total was 1,000 youngsters and eight park districts and in 1967 it was 125 youngsters and four park districts. Based on the enthusiasm shown in this year's Olympics, 1970 should even have a bigger and better year than ever.

Each youngster who competed in the Olympics was given a Paddock Olympics Patch. Each youngster who placed in the top five was given a ribbon.

Rockford Shades Cards; Tourney Play Saturday

by PAUL LOGAN

It's tourney time for the Wheaton Cardinals and Coach Joe White. And both team and coach are anxious to get into the Stan Musial Tournament at Rockford to, possibly, gain some revenge from last Saturday's league clash.

The Cards hosted Rockford last Saturday at the Fenton High School diamond and went 13 innings before their guests pushed across three runs to nip them, 6-4.

Heading into last weekend's contest, the Cards only needed to defeat Rockford to capture outright first place in the Northern Division of the Illinois State Baseball League.

"IT WAS A tough one to lose," said White. And that's true in more ways than one. For a starter, the trophy hangs in the balance depending on whether Rockford gains a forfeit. And for another, the Rockford crew might get a break and end up in a playoff with the Cards later in the season.

However, for the present time the Rockford boys must worry about their opening round game with Naperville. Wheaton, which went into the tourney as the first place team, has a bye and will meet the winner of the Rockford-Naperville game at 4:30 on Saturday. The site of the contest is Rockford's Blackhawk Field.

Six of the Northern Division teams will be playing at the double elimination tourney at Rockford and the reamining eight will duel at Waukegan. The winners of the two tourney sites will then battle for first in a best two out of three to determine who will represent the Northern Division against the Springfield winner for the Illinois State Championship.

The Cards raced out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Daryl Logan walked, Dean Gorman singled him to second and then Pat Doyle was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Tim Rand followed with a clutch single scoring two and, after Rick DeBruin reached on a base on balls, Roger Heaton singled home Rand.

"IT LOOKED LIKE we were going to break it open right there," White recalled. "It was a tough game to lose."

Rockford rebounded in the second hammering back-to-back doubles off Terry Pfund to make the score 3-1.

Then, in the fifth, the visitors deadlocked the score tallying twice. They smacked four hits but failed to score until after two were out. They also knocked Pfund out of the game.

Jim Engler relieved Terry and blanked Rockford the rest of the way until the faithful 13th. Then Rockford led off with a single, the runner went to second on a fielder's choice, and was doubled home. A single and a triple followed and Marty Romme came on to put out the fire.

BUT THE CARDS came back with a rally in the bottom of the 13th. "We really tried to pull it out," White said. And that they did.

After one was out, Dave Dailey singled and Logan followed with another single. Then a Card unloaded a line drive that seemed headed for home run territory but was pulled in at the last minute to prevent the score from being tied.

Dean Gorman then laced a single to score Daley but the final batter fanned to end the game.

Wheaton is now 9-3 in league action and Rockford is now 5-2. Should the forfeit come their way their record would jump to 6-2.

Addison Baseball, Softball Highlights

Play continued last week in the Addison Park and Recreation baseball and softball leagues, with St. Joseph leading the beginner league, the Yankees holding on to a slim margin in first place in the Cadet League, and St. Paul also topping the girls softball league in a close race.

All games scheduled for Monday, July 21 were cancelled due to the Apollo 11 mission.

CADET LEAGUE

The Yankees and Chip Larsen shut out the Dodgers, 4-0. Larry Wood doubled to lead off the first inning and later scored on a base hit by Billy Welsh. Joe Clodfetter allowed just four hits for the Dodgers but took the loss. Larsen's shutout came on a fine two-hitter.

The Cubs were unable to climb out of the cellar as they dropped a 7-3 decision to the Indians. The game's only extra base hit came in the third inning, when Tom Class tripled for the Indians.

The Giants and White Sox fought to a 1-1 tie. Fine pitching on both sides held the game's hit total to seven. Bruce Eisenbraun was relieved by Rich Murray for the Giants, while the Sox used Jim Duda on the hill. Duda also doubled for his team's only run, and Dave Galvin rapped a two-bagger for the Giants' lone tally.

GIRLS SOFTBALL

St. Paul put on another robust hitting show, belting St. Phillips, 30-2. Janice Rittmueller tripled in the fifth inning for the game's only extra-base hit. Mary Hinkel of St. Phillips turned in a fine catch in the field.

Old Mill got past Lake Park in a slugfest, 21-16. Old Mill grabbed the lead in the first inning and held on all the way. Lake Park staged a big nine-run rally in the sixth to narrow the gap and make an interesting game of it.

Indian Trail ripped St. Joseph, 16-2, playing a fine game both offensively and defensively. Mary Malpepe paced the winners with a triple and two singles.

St. Paul continued to roll on, trouncing Old Mill, 21-5. Janice Rittmueller, Sue Scott, and Elaine Kueking collected doubles for St. Paul. Jean Weir also clubbed a two-bagger for Old Mill. St. Paul played an excellent defensive game, highlighted by a tremendous catch by Debbie Heidi. Jean Weir also made a fine fielding play for Old Mill.

St. Joseph took an early lead but just couldn't stop St. Philip's rallying with the final score being St. Philips 26, St. Joseph 15. Extra base hits by Denise Barrett and Carol Pinns led St. Philips and a double by Sue Daul highlighted the hitting display by St. Joseph.

Indian Trail romped over Lake Park, 35-8, in the highest total ever scored by one team. The old mark was 33. Cathy Clinton hit a triple and a double and everyone on the team had at least one hit.

Golf Tourney by Mail

With the help of Uncle Sam and a unique method of computing scores, golfers will be competing for State and National titles in a tournament developed by the American Golf Association. The major difference between this event and stereotyped tournaments is that the golfers will be playing against par rather than each other.

Rules of the tournament call for qualifying and competitive rounds to be played on the golfers home course which will eliminate financial worries, travel, and time away from work.

Attested score cards submitted by mail will be computed through a special scoring system developed by the AGA for use in tournaments of this type. No handicaps are used, and all rounds are to be played under the existing rules of golf. Officials of the association point out that this is a basic test of golfing skills and not a sweepstakes event.

Qualifying rounds will consist of thirty-six holes to be played between August 22-31. Entrants who qualify will be shooting for State and National titles in four divisions: Championship 140 (or under)-152, AAA 153-168, AA 169-184, A 185 and over. Trophies and awards will be presented to State and National winners as well as runner up in each division. No prizes will exceed the two hundred dollar limit allowed for amateur golfers.

The tournament is open to all amateur male golfers 15 years of age or over. The entry fee for all events is ten dollars which includes a one year membership in the AGA.

Entry blanks and further information may be obtained from the Tournament Director of the American Golf Association, 206 South Green Street, Morganton, North Carolina 28655.

Buffalo Grove League Champs Crowned, All-Stars Named

The Sox and the Astros have clinched the Major League and Minor League titles in Buffalo Grove's Baseball Program.

The Astros, representing the North Division of the Minor League, defeated the Angels of the South Division in the first two games of a three-game playoff, 11-6 and 8-5.

In the first contest the Astros offensive attack caught fire after the Angels had jumped off to a 4-1 lead. A five-run third inning put the Astros ahead to stay as Wayne Geimer and Tim Prokoff held the Angel batters at bay.

In the second contest the Astros jumped off to a five-run first inning and added three more in the fifth while the Angels played catch-up ball. The Angels loaded the bases in each of the final three innings but failed to deliver the clutch blows and settled for a second place league finish. Astros manager Dick Rice's boys completed a near-perfect season suffering only one setback.

The Sox eliminated all competition by winning their sixteenth game against one loss, a 3-1 win over the Cubs. Ron Czarny hurled a no-hit game with the lone run scoring after three second inning walks, the only base on balls he issued.

The Sox offense produced a run in the first inning on hits by Doug Richter, Jerry Mason and Ron Czarny and another run in the second inning on hits by Russ Pekovitch, Greg Muryn and Jack Mason. The final run scored on Tom Stonerook's double and a single by Czarny.

The Phillies clinched second place in the Major League circuit with wins over the Indians 11-8 and the Cubs 5-3 while the Indians eliminated the Tigers from contention with a 3-2 extra inning pitchers duel.

Buffalo Grove's Major League all-stars were named for post-season competition in Deerfield and Wheeling. Players named and their respective teams are:

Ron Keplinger and Jim McGowan of the Dodgers; Tom Siko, Cubs; Ron Martin, Indians; Sam Zavatsky, Ricky Malinski, Carl Pfister and John DeLeo of the Phillies; Tom Stonerook, Ron Czarny, Jerry Mason and Doug Richter of the Sox; Tony Spinnelle and Tom McDonald, Tigers; and Jim Hudgins and Ricky Sargent of the Yankees.

The Major League all-stars will compete in the 9th Annual Invitational Tournament, August 2-9, sponsored by the Deerfield Boys Baseball Association. The double elimination tournament will feature teams from the communities of Northbrook, Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Deerfield, Buffalo Grove, Evanston, Waukegan, and Round Lake. Buffalo Grove takes on the host Deerfield team in their first game Saturday afternoon, August 2nd at 2 o'clock, at Jewett Park in Deerfield.

Following the Deerfield tournament, Buffalo Grove will challenge Wheeling in its annual inter-village rivalry in a three game set concluded as part of the Labor Day festivities.

Buffalo Grove's Major League baseball players will select their most valuable player for 1969 in a special balloting being conducted this week. The selection will be made from a list of seven players nominated by their managers.

The players nominated are: Jim Hudgins (Yankees), Ron Keplinger (Dodgers), Ron Martin (Indians), Glenn Niezgoda (Tigers), Carl Pfister (Phillies); Tom Siko (Cubs), and Tom Stonerook (Sox)

The Annual "Gregg Merritt Memorial Award" is sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees and is based upon the player's over-all contribution as a player, a leader, and most important, sportsmanship. The award was originated in 1964 by the Jaycees in memorial to Gregg Merritt, son of a Jaycee charter member, and active in the formative years of the Buffalo Grove Baseball program.

Results of the ballotding will be announced in a special presentation at the Annual Baseball Banquet in October.

Bank Team Pulls Away

Still holding down first place in the alternate race is Fotman with a 49. Seven golfers are right on his tail, however, for the leadership.

Team standings for the week of July 22:

Wheeling Bank pulled away from the pack in the Rob Roy Tuesday Night Twilight League by handling second place Galie Drywall, 6½-½, last week.

At the same time Foss Engineering rapped Barton Stull Realtors, 5-2, to pull into a tie for second with the Drywall crew at 54½ points, six and a half behind the banker team.

In other action, C.P. Floor & Tile stopped Drake Lites, 5-2, Al's Landscaping nipped Howard Metal, 5-2, L-Nor Cleaners nipped Practical Tool, 4½-2½, Joy-Di handled Galie Plastering, 5-2, and Team No. 11 romped over Webber Paint, 5½-1½.

Stroben on Foss Engineering and Balling of Barton Stull Realtors recorded the best gross totals of the night — 37s. Then Storben also calimed the low net mark with a 31.

ON THE BEAM. Don Wickersham, Palatine Legion's swift centerfielder, tracks down a long fly ball. Wickersham drove in the winning run in Palatine's 4-3 12-inning victory over Park Ridge Tuesday which qualified Post 690 for the Cook County Tournament. Wickersham, a lefthanded swinger, bats in the third position of the batting order and will be counted on for timely hits.

Better Be in First Place . . . Paddock Golf Deadline Here

If your team hasn't taken over first place in your twilight golf league by tonight, you're out of luck.

But for 20 teams, Saturday will be a happy day for then they will be officially in the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament.

Although the top teams might fall from the top next week, they still will have earned the right to represent their respective leagues in the tourney to be played on Sunday, Aug. 17, at Palatine Hills Golf Course.

THERE WILL BE awards a plenty for those participating in this 20th annual tourney. For the winning team there will be a brand new traveling trophy. Naturally a plaque will be presented after the year's reign is concluded. Last year's champion — Busse Flowers of the Old Orchard Scratch League — easily clinched the title when the tourney was played at Indian Lakes Country Club.

Then for the low individual net total — a dozen of the balls the pros win with. The boys will be trying to the all-time tourney records for low net — a 73-9-64 turned in by Clarke Robinson in 1960 at White Pines Country Club.

The low gross total has been intact even longer. Len Arnold fired an excellent 71 14 years ago at Arlington Country Club.

Awards for the top two teams will be engraved silver ash trays this year instead of individual medals. In this way the winners will be able to put their awards on display instead of throwing their medals in their desk drawers.

AGAIN THE FEATURES that were added last year will again be offered this year. For anyone sinking a hole-in-one on any hole on the course, $100 will be awarded. In the 19 years that the tourney has been played, such a feat has eluded some of the area's best amateurs. However, the odds are more in favor of the entrants each year.

There will also be prizes for the longest drive and the closest to the pin. Again the communication center will be in business to keep all entrants up to date on what teams are making their moves. At the center the golfers can enjoy a snack as well as just sit around and trade golf yarns.

All entrants will receive patches for their effort.

Entry forms, which have been mailed to all the interested leagues, should be returned to Paddock offices as soon as the Saturday first-place team has been determined.

THOSE LEAGUES that are planning on attending this 20th anniversary outing are:

Nordic Hills — Bensenville Tioga VFW League.

Thunderbird — Arlington Twilight League.

Bartlett Hills — Roselle Monday League.

Buffalo Grove — Friday Men's League.

Palatine Hills — Arlington Church, Chemplex, Pure Oil Monday and Pure Oil Tuesday Leagues.

Rob Roy — St. James Holy Name, Tuesday Night and St. Alphonsus leagues.

Mount Prospect — Monday Twilight, Tuesday Twilight, Northwest Suburban YMCA, and the Friday Twilight Leagues.

Can Little League Kids Bring Back Semi-Pro Ball?

Copyright, 1969, Paddock Publications

With Illustrations by ART HENRIKSON

In this final of a three-part series on semi-pro baseball as a piece of smalltown Americana (the first two parts ran Monday and Wednesday), Mike Klein details the reasons for its death in the Northwest suburbs.

Although semi-pro baseball was still popular, it was beginning to die out as early as the late '30's. By 1950, the crowds were small compared with the 2,000 or 3,000 who attended the games in the early days of the Arlington Heights Redwings. And the gate receipts were correspondingly small.

This resulted in a cutback of the program and by the 1950's the team was playing only one game a week again. It wasn't really semi-pro anymore either, as the players were often playing only for their own enjoyment with no financial reimbursement.

Perhaps the single greatest killer of semi-pro baseball, according to George Schaeffer, a local semi-pro standout, was the invention of television. When faced with the choice of going to a semi-pro game and sitting in the heat or watching a major league game in the comfort of the home, the fans began to stay home in increasing numbers.

PERCY HERTEL, a resident of Arlington Heights for 50 Years and who played with the Arlington Heights teams of the early 20's, has also witnessed the decline of semi-pro baseball.

The former infielder says, "I believe it's all because of the automobile. Before the automobile, there wasn't anyplace to go except the ballgame. That's the one reason I see. The people went to the ballgame because it was something to do.

"Nowadays, everybody drives everyplace. They can drive to see the Cubs at Wrigley Field. The people who went all the way to Wrigley Field in the old days were the real fans."

Another reason for the decline of semi-pro baseball was the lack of a strong rivalry. In the early days of Arlington Heights baseball, there was a strong rivalry with Palatine. That rivalry simply died.

Fred Hasselmann, a scout with the Chicago White Sox for 10 years, New York Yankees for eight years and Boston Braves for seven years, has still a different thought on the death of semi-pro baseball.

"It was the wartime. And when the kids came back they wanted to go to school. They knew they needed their education. That's why you had 26-and 27-year old guys on the college ballclubs for a few years after the wars (World War II and the Korean War).

"Semi-pro has never been real heavy in Chicago. The strongest league was the Connie Mack. It was mostly old-timers and you'd forget about them because they were too old to sign. You used to scout the college kids then but now you scout the high school kids because the college kids go right in the army."

There was also a lack of identification with the players. The whole town knew the members of the team when Arlington Heights was smaller but as the town grew, this wasn't possible.

Semi-pro baseball in Arlington Heights breathed it's last breath with Black's Boosters. They appeared shortly after the dissolution of the Redwings but could last only until 1959.

The Boosters, which used mainly younger players, folded due to a lack of both fan interest and a sponsor.

AND SO IT was done. The cycle had been completed. The birth and death was finished.

Will it rise again?

Bud Blumenthal, present player-coach of the Skokie Indians, seems to think so. He sees an upswing in semi-pro baseball due to the number of kids in the Little Leagues and the sudden "resurgence to keeping yourself in good physical condition. I think there will be a return to organized sports," he said.

And while he concedes that "baseball is not really a great spectator sport unless you really know the game," he believes there will be more hitting in future years and thus more fan interest.

But 86-year old Hertel has a somewhat different idea. To him, the solution to the problem is a difficult, if not impossible, one.

"By golly, I haven't got any remedy," he said.

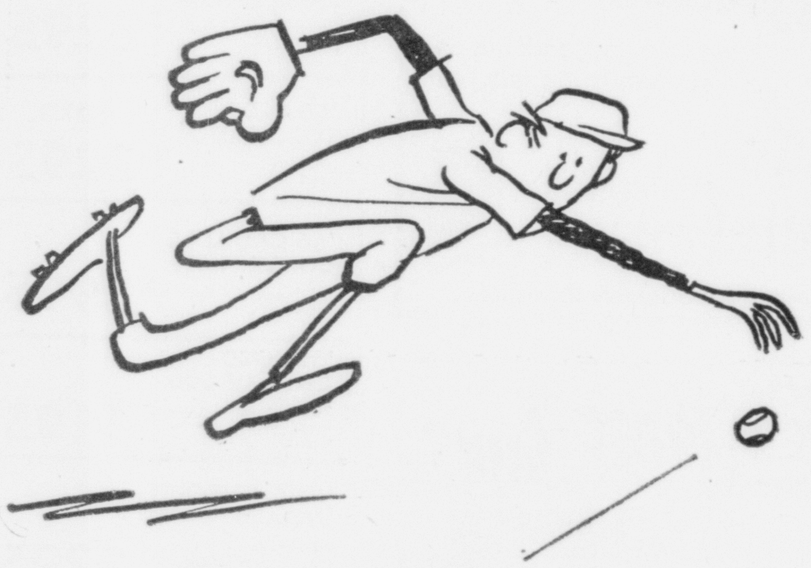

"To get people to come to a ballgame, of course you've got to have a good attraction. It would be a tremendous undertaking to bring back baseball in this town or any other town. Another thing is you'd have to get the other towns interested or you'd have nobody to play. All the conditions are against it. If would be a tremendous job to bring back local baseball.

"IF YOU ASKED a merchant to buy a uniform for a local team, he would probably hesitate. I don't know how much those things cost but I just doubt if he'd support it. There isn't any community backing anymore. Even though the town is bigger and the facilities are better, the people just don't seem to care."

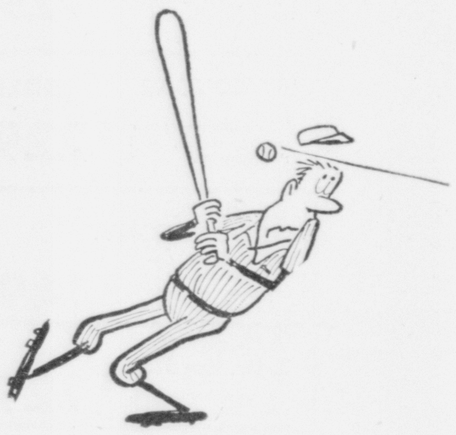

Even though the North Shore area — and most of Illinois — is full of boys' baseball organizations, there is a great lack of organized baseball for the older, non-professional players.

"That's what I don't understand," Hertel said. "There's all those kids who played in high school and aren't playing anymore. They must have just quit playing."

So semi-pro baseball appears dead. Indeed, it looks to be breathing it's last breath in many areas of the state. But perhaps its not really all over. Ask Blumenthal, the 50-year-old who two years ago hit an incredible .585 in the Central States League.

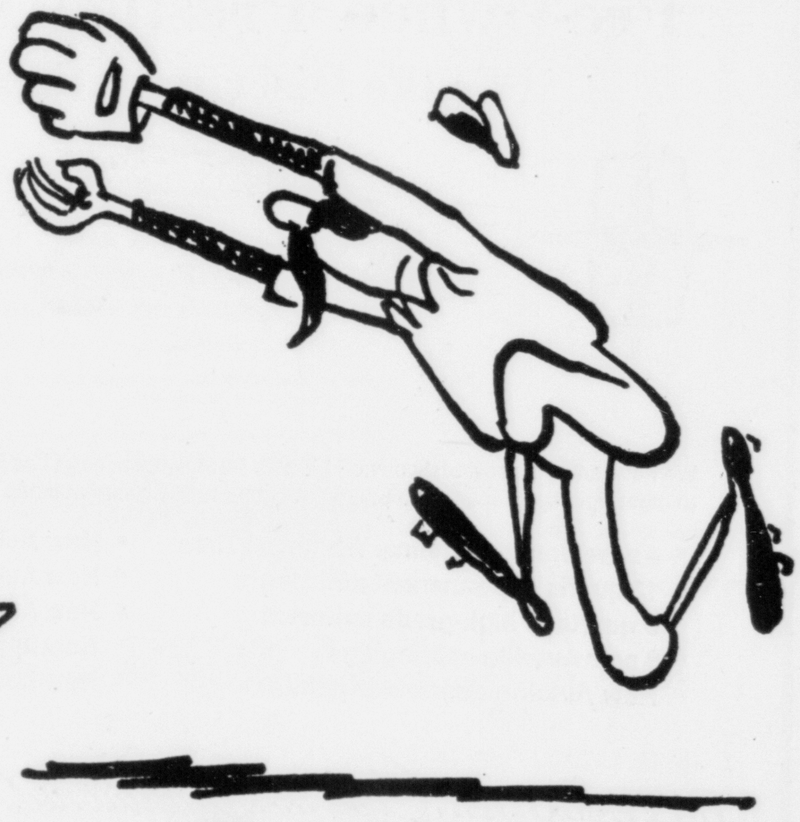

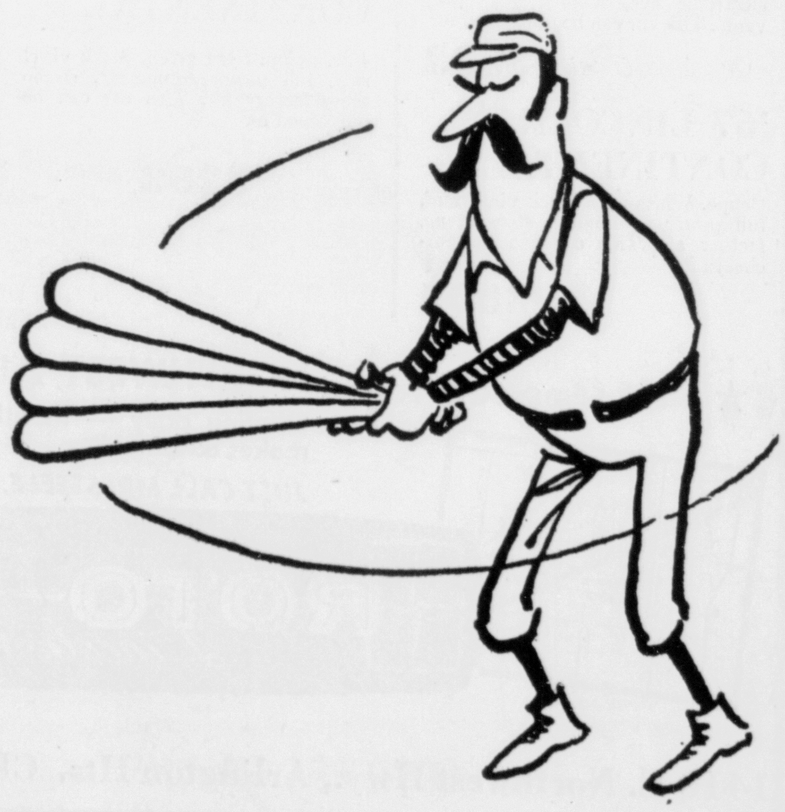

Semi-Pro Ball: From Homers To Strike-outs

A Return? Blumenthal: More Hitting, More Fans Hertel: 'Conditions Are Against It'

"There's all these kids who played in high school and aren't playing anymore. They must have just quit."

Beacon Finally Takes Top Alone In Wheeling Loop

After nine weeks of play in the Wheeling Industrial League, there is finally an undisputed leader.

Beacon Tap, playing a tough defensive game, took over the top spot all alone by stopping Jerry's Place, 5-2. In other action, Hackney's came from behind to dump Turf and Twig, 13-11; Craig's picked up a forfeit from Campanella but dropped an 8-7 decision to Yarnall Todd, Wheeling Bank fell all the way to ninth place with losses to Campanella and Turf and Twig; and Jerry's Place downed Hickory Farms, 7-2.

Bowling Leagues Have Openings

Openings for both men and women are available in the Northwest Suburban Manufacturers Association (NSMA) bowling leagues.

The 33-week 1969-70 NSMA season for the women's league begins the first week of September. The ladies will bowl at 5:30 each Wednesday at Town and Country Bowl, 141 W. North Ave., Northlake (two blocks west of Wolf Road).

Entrance fee is $5 per bowler, with a weekly cost of $3.25 to cover prize monies, trophies, and banquet.

The first meeting will be Aug. 20 at 7:30 p.m. at Town and Country Bowl in the East conference room.

Team openings are also available in the NSMA Men's league. The men bowl on Thursdays at 7 p.m. at Grand Bowl, Franklin Park. Anyone interested should call Steve Kopera at 451-1000.

Wheeling Wins Again; Day Stops New Trier

Wheeling's Wildcats are depending heavily on the arm of Scott Day, and it's paying off for them in the Illinois Summer Baseball League tournament.

Day hurled his second complete-game victory of the tourney Tuesday as the 'Cats advanced with a 6-2 victory over New Trier West. Day struck out ten and allowed just three hits.

Wheeling was to play last night (Thursday) against the winner of the Lane Tech-Niles West game at the Wheeling field. A win in that one would put them just two victories away from the state championship.

If the Wildcats won Thursday they will play again Saturday, and another win would send them to the championship game at Wrigley Field in Chicago next week.

Wheeling jumped to a quick lead in the first when Gary Schweitzer walked, advanced on an error, and scored on a groundout.

They expanded that margin to 3-0 in the second. Speedy Weisen and John Dyson singled and both advanced on a wild throw. Weisen scored on a wild pitch and Dyson crossed the plate on another miscue.

Two more Wildcat runs were marked up in the third to make the lead a safe 5-0. This time, the 'Cat hitters started ripping.

Day and Terry Lindquist started the outburst by singling and Dean Sheridan followed with a long drive off the wall for a double, as he missed a home run by inches.

After New Trier recorded their two markers in the fourth, Wheeling responded in the same frame for their final tally. Schweitzer again led off with a walk, stole second, and sped home on Dan Hull's single.

Both of New Trier's runs came on a home run by Glen Leuvenfeld. Day's control was excellent, as he issued just three walks.

River Trails Lead Retained

Park View remained undefeated and kept a comfortable lead last week in the River Trails Park District league.

Second-place Woodview Benders defeated last-place Euclid Lakers, 9-4, with the help of a home run by Kroll. Nosko also hit a round-tripper for the Lakers.

Park View romped over the Camelot Knights, 22-7, with Gibbon blasting one for the circuit. Leading hitters for Park View were Newman, Harris, and Hummerding.

The Forest River Fire Department thumped the Euclid Lakers, 23-9. The Fire Department team benefitted from home runs by Correll and Rodgers. In an exciting contest, the Rainbow Ridge River Rats edged out Riverhurst 15-12. Big bats were wielded by Capasso, Stottlemire, and Silicani (Rainbow Ridge River Rats) and Roper, Edwards, and Rudnick (Riverhurst).

The Woodview Benders eked out an exciting win over the Camelot Knights, 18-17. McLauglan blasted the game's only home run. In another close one Park View got by the Rainbow Ridge Cubs, 12-11. Leading hitters were Weinberg, Williams, Deegan (Cubs), and Brotheridge, Craglione, Gregory, (Park View).

Record Fight Crowd

NEW YORK UPI — The largest crowd to ever attend a boxing match in the United States was the turnout of 120,757 at the first bout between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney on Sept. 23, 1926, in Philadelphia.

At Waukegan Speedway Action-Packed Night

Bob Roper, who has been on a hot streak at the Waukegan Speedway, won again Sunday in the 30-lap feature. It was the fourth win for the Chicago driver in five starts during July at the Speedway.

Roper took the lead in the 16th lap after Rich Kelich had led the first half of the race. There was a restart in the 17th lap after Dennis Burgan of Old Mill Creek, who was the fastest qualifier, threw a front tire. Two laps after the green fell again, Ray Young of Chicago, in second place, broke a rocker arm in his engine. Roper breezed home the winner with Young managing to hold on for second money.

The race for third was the most hotly contested in the closing laps, as eight cars ran bumper-to-bumper, switching places often. Rich Sundling of Chicago took over third for good in the 20th lap. Al Gutche of Pleasant Prairie edged Kleich at the finish line for fourth.

The race had a little added glamour as Whitey Harris, 1967 modified stock car champion at Waukegan, took the wheel of Al Hagerty's car in the feature. Harris found the right combination late in the race and turned some fast laps, but still finished 12th overall.

Pro-Amateur Best Ball Set

The 12th annual Pro-Amateur Best Ball Championship of the Chicago District Golf Association will be held at Prestwick Country Club in Frankfort, Ill. today (Aug. 1) with the defending club on hand to test the 6,520 yards of the par 36-36-72 layout.

Crystal Lake Country Club, defending champions, were represented by Fred Cook, professional, and Fritz Franz, Mike Hidding and Rich Naughton. This year Mark Day will substitute for Hidding. They defeated Skokie Country Club in a playoff for the 1968 Championship.

Competition will be 18 holes, best ball at scratch, for the Charles N. Eckstein trophy. The professional must be a member of the Illinois PGA or head professional at a CDGA member club and his three amateur partners must be from his CDGA member club.

Fifty-two foursomes will play and tee entries will not be accepted. Competition will be supervised by a committee headed by Len Haldeman, president, and Alidor J. De Wolf, chairman of the event.

Pairings and starting times for entries from the Paddock Publications circulation area are as follows:

FIRST TEE:

9:50, Rolling Green CC, Bill Ventresca, professional.

TENTH TEE:

9:20, Inverness GC, George J. Capoun, professional; Jim Arendt, Carl Dilsaver, Ed Bruning.

3:05, Medinah CC, John D. Marschall, professional.

SEEING DOUBLE — Tennis twins Claire and Kay Schmoyer, 16, 445 S. Pine, Arlington Heights, caused top-ranked tennis pro Butch Buchholz to do a double-take when he encountered the twins at the recent U.S. Lawn Tennis Association 16 and Under Girl's Championship at the Bath and Tennis Club, Lake Bluff. He was in town promoting Chicago's first pro tennis tournament, the $25,000 Planters Chicago Pro Tennis Championships which will take place Sept. 8-11, 7:15 p.m. nightly at Northwestern University — McGaw Hall, Evanston. Buchholz and 15 other international tennis pros will compete.

Arlington Hts. Stars Win, 7-4

The Arlington Heights All-Stars opened their 1969 season with a 7-4 win over Palatine. The All-Star team is comprised of girls from seventh grade to 15 years of age and sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District.

Spurred by the superb defensive play of Kathleen Nicol and Mary Beth DiMuzio, the All-Stars were successful in their opening bid for an undefeated season.

Leslie Ferguson led the team in hitting, belting a triple and a double.

The team, coached by Sharon Walton, consists of Mary Beth DiMuzio, Kathleen Nicol, Mary Baines, Jean Condon, Carol Burlingame, Roberta Geiger and Leslie Ferguson.

Others include: Marilyn Rateike, Val Tempc, Julie Sorgatz, Dawn Alhman, Nancy Condon, Pam Moritz and Carol Hoffenagle.

Park View Clinches Title In River Trails Softball

An undefeated Park View nine has clinched the title in the River Trails Park District's men's softball league as the season nears its conclusion.

The Park Viewers have won ten games without a loss, while their nearest pursuers, the Woodview Benders, are boasting a 6-2 record.

In one of several slugfests last week, Riverhurst rolled over the Rainbow Ridge River Rats 25-16. Big bats for Riverhurst were wielded by Knauber, Gordon, and Meier, while Weiland, Dettman, and Witte led the River Rats' offense.

Forest River Fire Department rallied in the first and third innings to edge the Euclid Lakers, 13-11. Blasting home runs were Lucas for the Fire Department and Nosko and Bartel for the Lakers.

The Euclid-Lakers bounced back to win a thriller in one of the season's longest games, 24-23 over the River Rats. Home runs came off the bats of Berner of the River Rats and Rubino of the Lakers.

An 18-11 victory by Park View over Riverhurst clinched the championship for the front-runners. Hitting for the circuit were Hummerding and Harris for Park View and Edwards, Belpidio, and Roper for Riverhurst.

Branigar Organization Honors Hinz

A surprise party was held recently for Al Hinz, who has just completed 40 years of uninterrupted service as a supervising greenskeeper with the golf course division of the Branigar land development corporation.

Harvey Branigar Jr., president of The Branigar Organization, hosted the party for 35 guests, including Al's wife Martha, his children Nancy, Ralph and Joyce, and his closest friends, including three vice-presidents, Les Harber, Bob Farr, and James Reed, and Vernon Kelly, Ray Pratt, Charley Santorio, and Ed Partyke, his long-time assistant.

The cake was a replica of a golf green and flag, surrounded by sand traps.

Hinz joined the Branigar organization in 1929 during the construction of the White Pines Golf Club in Bensenville.

A lifelong resident of Bensenville, he became greens superintendent of White Pines and Mohawk Golf Club — another Branigar-operated golf course, also in the western suburb.

More recently, in 1964, Hinz provided valuable assistance to the construction of all 39 greens, two 18-hole courses, two greens for practice putting and one for pitching — at Indian Lakes in Bloomingdale.

"There's no way of overestimating what Al has contributed to the company," says Les Harber. "During World War II, when the only thing scarcer than good help was usable equipment, Al managed to keep things together — usually with nothing more than guts and determination. The fact is, regardless of conditions or resources, Al has maintained the best greens in the Midwest."

Beacon Tap Holds Lead

The Wheeling Industrial Softball league stretched out as make up games were played off. Beacon Tap held on to first place with wins over Buffalo Grove Jaycees and Craig's Barber Shop.

Turf and Twig moved into second with a 17 to 8 win over Campenella and Jerry's Place won two close ones beating Resinite and Yarnall Todd to remain in third place. Hickory came from behind to beat Wheeling Bank 10 to 9 and then handed Craig's its third loss 16 to 8.

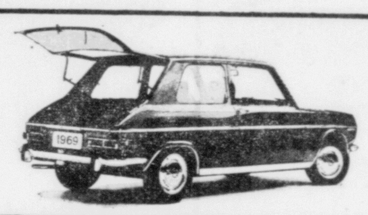

Hackneys remained in the running with a 7 to 2 win over Wheeling Bank while Campenella kept Resinite winless routing them 23 to 8.

1st Anniversary

Franklin-Weber Pontiac

From the desk of
JOHN G. MATHIAS
PRESIDENT

Dear Friends;

During the entire month of August, we at FRANKLIN-WEBER PONTIAC will be celebrating our First Anniversary at our new home at 100 West Golf Road, (Route 58 & Roselle Road), Schaumburg, Illinois.

As President, it is my wish to extend to you, the fine residents of this area, the heartfelt thanks of our entire staff for making our first year far better than we had anticipated. We feel, due to the fact that the great majority of our employees are local residents, that their concern for a job well done reflects in customer satisfaction and contributed greatly to our first year's growth.

Our first year's success is due to just one basic rule — every person who comes through our doors is a potential customer and; therefore, our most important asset.

In our first year, we have increased our staff by twenty-five percent to more adequately service all of our customers.

Our Anniversary Sale, which will run the entire month of August, will offer tremendous savings on all new and used cars in stock. I would like to personally invite everyone to stop in and take advantage of the savings.

J. G. Mathias Pres.

PONY LEAGUE

Yankees 10-9-4
Redlegs 5-8-8

Highlights — Jim Peterson got the victory over John Lange of the Redlegs. Catching for Peterson and the Yankees was Stewart and for the Redlegs it was Dixon.

Cardinals ..... 200 180 x—11-6-4

Highlights — Buddy Kruegar pitched his first game of the year and went the distance on a seven-hitter as the Cards topped the Braves, 11-1. The Cards got only ifve hits but drew nine walks and had two hit batsmen. It was a tight pitchers duel until the fifth when the Cards scored eight runs on just two hits. Tom Claes started things rolling with a double and was doubled home one out later by Mike Zmuda. Zmuda then scored as Stewart grounded out to short. Despite being 0-3, Stewart drove in three runs. The game was close until the fifth when the Cards scored eight runs. The big blow being a two-run triple by Tonly Sepa. The defensive play of the day came in the sixth when Steve Pritz playing center field cut down Dowple at the plate on Tom Dewitt's single. Dowple took the loss.

Orioles ..... 210 000 0— 3- 3-3

Highlights — Jim Emslie struck out nine, walked eight and scattered three hits to help put the Angels back into contention. The Angels bunched hits in the fifth and seventh to come from behind. Nardiello took the loss with Giovanni in relief. Mike Millner and Gary Adams and Scott Scholten doubled for the Angels and Nick Admas homered.

MAJOR LEAGUE

Warrenville ..... 000 011—2-2
Major All-Stars ..... 101 11x—4-5

Highlights — John Fleming got the win allowing just one hit and struck out seven as he pitched the stars to their second victory in the Thillens State-wide Tournament. With two outs in the first, Mike Brandt tripled and scored on a single by Dave Millner. In the second inning, Fleming singled, went to second and third on wild pitches and scored on a sacrifice by Glen Stromberg. Millner smacked a homer in the fourth. In the fifth Fleming walked, Stromberg doubled and Mike Brandt walked to lead the bases. Mark Vormitag walked to drive in a run.

Today at 9 p.m. the All-Stars go against the winner of the Lombard-New Pope game.

Pirates ..... 000 000—0-3
Cardinals ..... 012 00x—3-4

Highlights — Dave Millner fanned 10 and gave up just three hits. Phillips took the loss.

Redlegs ..... 102 110—4-8-1
Yankees ..... 010 020—3-5-1

Highlights — Bobby Stangel, top pitcher of the Reds, had his finest night of his three pitching starts last week. Stangel, who usually plays second base, made his manager look like a genius. He yielded only five hits and fanned eight. Doug Antonik, the other half of the battery, scored the first run of the game after doubling with two out. The big inning for the Reds came when two hits and a walk scored two runs in the third inning. Carman got the loss. Hackmack and Hennesey hammered doubles for the losers.

Giants ..... 020 76x—15-16-0

Highlights — Brandt got the win over Prichard of the Twins. Mike Brandt went four-for-four including two homers. Mike Blandford had a pair of triples and Doug Roden doubled.

Giants ..... 502 26x—15-18-0

Highlights — Randy Romano tossed a three-hitter to gain the win over Millner of the Cards. Doug Roden homered and doubled with Mike Blandford hammering two triples, Randy Romano socking a homer and a pair of doubles and Steve Pritchard having a double during a four-for-four day. Glen Stromberg socked a double and a triple for the Cards.

CLASS A LEAGUE

Giants ..... 200 302—7
Tigers ..... 321 000—6

Highlights — Glen Knapick outdueled two Tiger hurlers — David Henken and Jim Maier to win 7-6. Gary Vogt got a double for the winning Giants and Jeff Rauer homered in a losing effort.

Tigers ..... 404 224—16-10-1
Twins ..... 200 000— 2- 4-4

Highlights — Led by the hitting of Jim Maier and David Nenken the Tigers romped to a 16-2 victory over the Twins. Maier with three hits and four R.B.I.s led the assault on Twin hurler Hones. Henken chipped in with two safties driving in a like number of runs and he also scored three times. Dave Henken got the victory with relief help from Tony Kees.

Giants ..... 000 01— 1- 1-3

Highlights — Dave Champa went the distance and gave up only one hit and the only run was unearned. Mark Helm backed up Champa with an outstanding defensive game at shortstop. Dave Champa and Bill Schafer each had three hits including doubles. Mike Vienckowski also got a double for the Braves with Mike Durkin and Rich Franklin chipping in with triples. Dennis Hall took the loss for the Giants with Jim McCormack and Jim Stanley finishing out for Hall.

Pirates ..... 100 15x—7-12-0

Highlights — Jeff Basik socked back-to-back homers and drove in three of the seven runs for the Pirates to aid Don Mahoney get the win. Mahoney fanned 10 to best R. McLean. Kevin McCloughan had a pair of doubles and Glen Galloway had one.

Braves ..... 000 112 0— 4- 6-3

Highlights — In their drive to regain first place, the Pirates won a playoff of a previously tied game from the Braves. A seven run final inning and a pair of double plays clinched the game for the Pirates. Glen Balloway got the victory and Mike Durkin took the loss. Galloway and Jeff Basik got doubles for the Pirates.

Dodgers ..... 080 20x—10- 4-2

Highlights — Jim Hauser pitched his sixth victory as the Dodgers defeated the Senators. The win gives the Dodgers a tie for first place with the Pirates in the National League. The Dodgers scored eight runs in the second inning on five walks, two errors, a single and a triple by George Kengott and another single by Brian Van Dyke. Daev Holste got the defeat with Peter Gennuso relieivng. Scott Drake tripled for the Senators.

Tigers ..... 004 541—14-13-1
Senators ..... 001 000— 1- 7-4

Highlights — Phil Janos' pitching and Jeff Raver's four-for-four day at the plate led the Tigers to an easy victory. Randy Hansen, Jim Maier and Phil Janos had two hits each for the winners, while Holste, Gennuso and Drake had two hits each for the Senators. Drake took the setback.

Cubs ..... 000 000—0-1-1

Highlights — In a sparkling pitching performance by both pitchers, the Tigers edged the Cubs, 1-0. Robb Durning of the Cubs had the only Cub hit, a one out hit in the first. Randy Hanesn, Phil Janos and Joe Cimino had the only singles for the Tigers. Jeff Raver fanned 11 Cubs and walked none while Dan Streich of the Cubs fanned eight Tigers while walking four

CLASS A NATIONAL LEAGUE PLAYOFF GAME

Dodgers ..... 211 111— 7-12-7

Highlights — The Pirates defeated the Dodgers 13-7 in a playoff game for the National League pennant. Pirate pitcher, Kevin McCloughan struck out nine and aided his own cause with four hits. Ron Gore had three hits including a double and Don Mohoney had two triples. Dodgers Mark Zettek was four-for-four including a triple and Soctt McGillis had three hits and two walks. Jim Hauser took the setback. The Pirates will now face the Yankees in the best of three series on Friday, Saturday, and if a third game is needed — Sunday at Lions Park.

Hoffman Estates All-Stars ..... 300 000 0—3-5-2
Class 'A' All-Stars ..... 000 051 x—6-8-2

Highlights — Greg Hietz got on with an error, followed by a single by Wally Kinser, then Ken Williams hit a homer to get the Hoffman Estates team on the scoreboard first. However, the Elk Grove pitching corps settled down after that and blanked their opponents the rest of the way tallying five in the fifth and one in the sixth to win, 6-3. Mark Smith walked, Kevin McCloughan singled, Tony Kees tripled them in and the Kees scored on a passed ball. Dennis Van Dyke walked to keep the fifth alive and George Kengott singled and Louis Altobelli tripled them both across. The sixth frame saw the final run score when Peter Gennuso singled, Mark Smith got on with an error and Tony Kees came through again with a single. Pitching two innings each for the Class 'A' were Jeff Raver, Dan Streich and Joe Woelfel with Jim Bernadini finishing up in the seventh. For the Estates team Pat Flahive tossed the opening frames, Bob Totten hurled the third, Stephenson handled the fourth and the fifth and Wales tossed the seventh.

CLASS B LEAGUE

Tigers ..... 021 200— 5- 9-3

Highlights — Dale Stenoien led the Yanks offense with four extra base hits and six R.B.I.s, while Jeff Crites had good control not walking a batter. Wellman of the Tigers made the catch of the game in left field chasing back and to his right on a sure double by Crites. Tourzick took the mound loss. Hawood doubled, Patterson tripled, Honstmann doubled and Tourzick hit a two-bagger, too, for the Tigers. Jay Carman doubled and Dale Stenoin had a pair of triples to lead the Yanks in extra base hits.

Pirates ..... 121 055—14-15-9

Highlights — Prochl got the win outlasting Lopez in an exciting scoring contest. Prochl helped his own cause with a pair of triples. Lopez tagged Prochl for a homer and his teammates — Johnson and Mack — cracked a triple and double respectively off the winner.

Orioles ..... 010 002—3-6-4
Yanks ..... 311 40x—9-6-3

Highlights — Wayne Topp fanned 16 to give him a total of 58 strike outs in just 24 and a third innings of work this season, an amazing output for a major leaguer and even more astounding for a little leaguer. He allowed just six hits as did his opponent, Schwellenbach.

Pirates ..... 510 25x—13-8-0

Highlights — Reddinger pitched for the Pirates gaining the win on 10 strikeouts and eight walks. Backed up by a fine team effort, he only allowed three hits. Kwiathowski took the setback. Roach, Romano and Cole slugged doubles for the Pirates.

CURIOUS?

You probably aren't as inquisitive as the fellow above, but did you ever wonder just how many classified ads are placed every year in Paddock Publications?

Last year the total was 200,000! That's a lot of votes of confidence in the pulling power of Paddock Want Ads. They range from help wanted to business services . . . from lost and found notices to apartments for rent. Regardless of their categories, they were placed in Paddock Publications for one reason: people know that Paddock Want Ads bring results. If you're curious whether Want Ads can solve YOUR problem, just dial 394-2400. Paddock Publications.

THAT'S THE IDEA!

When Junior's almost old enough to be traded from the minor to the major leagues . . . it's time to trade in that cramped crib for a slugger-sized bed! And, instead of throwing out that still-good crib, sell it with a Paddock Publications Want Ad. It's as easy as dialing 394-2400!

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

EXAMINING MERCHANDISE at Underwriter Salvage Co.'s new headquarters building in Centex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village, are Lloyd W. McNally, president, and Harold H. Junge, vice president. Formerly located in Chicago, the company provides salvage service for goods damaged by insured peril.

Salvage Company Has New Quarters

Underwriters Salvage Co. of Chicago has moved into a new $1.5 million headquarters building on a nine-acre site in Centex Industrial Park in Elk Grove Village.

The building has 150,000 square feet of floor space on one level, nearly doubling the capacity of the former six-story building at 215 S. Saflin St. in central Chicago. Another 100,000 square feet of space is available at the new location for future expansion.

The new facility relocates the head office, retail store and auto department office under one roof, according to Lloyd W. McNally, president. It provides an office area of 10,000 square feet and 20,000 square feet for retail sales. The warehouse portion covers an area of 120,000 square feet.

Underwriters Salvage Co. of Chicago was founded by a group of leading insurance companies. It provides aa method of provifding salvage service for goods damaged by an insured peril. It meets insurance company needs to reduce losses and operating costs.

The one-floor operation at Elk Grove permits the use of forklift trucks for storage of merchandise in a 160,000 cubic foot area.

McNally said that any type of insured merchandise including food is likely to be found at Underwriters Salvage. All food items are disposed of through negotiated sales.

Negfdddotiated sales, sealed bids and public auctions held every six weeks are used to dispose of large salvage stocks placed in the huge warehouse.

In the retail store, the general public may buy merchandise from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Although the auto department office is housed in the new building, salvage autos will continue to be stored at the company's lot at 2340 S. Laflin St. in Chicago.

Underwriters Salvage Co. of Chicago operates in 13 midwestern states.

Plan Lake Zurich Community

Details on a $100 million planned development in Lake Zurich featuring middle-income residential housing were revealed recently during a press conference held at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel.

The new community, named Old Mill Grove, will be developed by 3H Building and Development Co., Rolling Meadows. The site consists of 1,000 acres and is located on both sides of Rand Road, just north of the Lake-Cook County lines.

The development is expected to take 10 years to complete, according to Ronald J. Benach, 3H president. Based on a total planning concept, it is to include a majority of single family homes, a regional shopping center and an industrial park.

Ground has already been broken for the model homes, ranging in price from $30,000-$35,000. The first unit will consist of 770 single family homes. Grand opening of Old Mill Grove has been scheduled for mid-September. Occupancy of the first homes is expected late this fall.

Several Chicagoland savings and loan associations will arrange financing featuring VA, FHA and conventional mortgages, including Home Federal, Clyde Savings, Talman Federal and Niles Savings. Benach said these institutions have provided financing for other 3H planned communities in the area.

Mayor Henry Paulus of Lake Zurich said that he and local government officials are enthusiastic about 3H's plan to create a total community development.

The 73-year-old community presently has a population of 3,900 people. It is anticipated that Old Mill Grove will almost triple Lake Zurich's population by 1979. Joining in the growth of the area the Kemper Insurance Co. recently announced its proposed headquarters complex in nearby Long Grove.

3H is a Chicago area developer which has built more than 3,000 homes during the past seven years.

NEW UTILITY COMPLEX at Universal Oil Products Co. corporate headquarters, Des Plaines, is under construction. The complex will permit an increase in steam generating, electrical and cooling tower water capacity. Steam plant completion is set for November of this year, with a completion date of February 1970, for the remaining construction. The complex is expected to cost approximately $1 million.

Builds Utility Complex

Construction has begun on a new utility complex at Universal Oil Products Company's corporate headquarters in Des Plaines, according to an announcement by John O. Logan, president.

The complex, consisting of three buildings, will permit an increase in steam generating capacity from 30 to 72 thousand pounds an hour, electrical capacity from 2,000 to 7,500-kva, and cooling tower water capacity from 2,600 to 7,500 gallons per minute.

Donald H. Belden, director of research administration, said increased capacities were necessary to serve a new Procon addition now nearing completion and a materials science laboratory under construction. Sufficient electrical capacity has been designed into the system to supply the new UOP international facilities scheduled for completion in 1970.

Steam plant completion is targeted for November, 1969, with a completion date of February, 1970, set for the remaining utility construction.

Procon Inc., UOP's engineering and construction subsidiary, is responsible for engineering and design of the approximately $1 million complex. Campbell, Laurie, and Lautermilch Corp., Chicago, is the structural contractor. Electrical and mechanical contracts have not yet been awarded.

Unusual Exchange

If you don't like your property in downtown Chicago, why not exchange it for an apartment complex in Arlington Heights?

Sheldon F. Good, president of Sheldon F. Good & Co. Realtors, Chicago, recently reported that a commercial property at 72 E. Randolph St., Chicago, was exchanged for Knob Hill Apartments, a 140-apartment complex at 51 Circle Hill Drive, Arlington Heights.

The Chicago property, just west of Michigan Ave., a five-story commercial building, contains approximately 30,000 square feet of leased space. Tenants in the building include Beck Shoes and Local Loan. The property had a gross annual rental in excess of $72,000 and was on a lot approximately 6,800 square feet.

The apartment building, with one, two and three bedroom units had a gross annual rental of approximately $350,000.

Formerly owned by LaSalle National Bank as trustee, the Arlington Heights apartments are now owned by Fixler Building Venture. Heitman Management Co. will manage the apartments. After the exchange, the Chicago property was sold to an undisclosed institutional buyer.

Bell Services Recognized

The year around community service efforts of Illinois Bell Telephone people were recognized recently with a special presentation by John Kadow, Lexington and Coach, Rt. 2, Long Grove, president of the Mental Health Association of Greater Chicago and partner of Arthur Andersen & Co.

Accepting the "Year A Roundy" award on behalf of members of the Central Council Telephone Pioneers of America were: Mrs. Marie Zambach, 440 W. Baldwin Road, Palatine and Mrs. Elmer Shattuck, 100 Cranbrook Road, Des Plaines.

TELEPHONE PIONEERS are active or retired employes of Illinois Bell with 21 or more years of service. They participatein many association volunteer activities throughout the year.

Included are Operation Snowball, a holiday gift program for mental patients in Chicago area state hospitals; Bell Ringer campaign, the association's annual fund raising event; and the Industrial Mental Health Committee which works with business and industry on employe mental health problems.

The Mental Health Association is a citizens' action group spearheading better treatment and care for mentally ill persons in the metropolitan Chicago area.

Publishing Job Goes To Kellogg

Patrick G. Kellogg

Patrick G. Kellogg, of Hoffman Estates, has been appointed assistant publisher of Modern Stores and Offices, a national publication.

Kellogg will continue as editor of Modern Stores and Offices, remain active in the development of circulation and now assume responsibility for the sale of advertising in a portion of the middle west.

He joined the company in 1963 with a background in sales, sales promotion, editorial, and advertising. He was appointed editor of Modern Stores And Offices in 1966. His extensive knowledge of the audience and the marketing of electrical, display, and architectural equipment to stores and offices should prove valuable to his new contacts.

A member of the Illuminating Engineering Society and the American Society of Business Press Editors, Kellogg has spoken to store and office market audiences several times. A graduate of the University of Wisconsin, he received a B.S. degre in journalism.

Build Mill Creek Models

A $20 million residential development of houses and apartments, to be called Mill creek, is being built in Buffalo Grove by Miller Builders, Inc.

Located on 125 acres southeast of the intersection of Dundee Road and Arlington Heights Road, it will be Miller's 20th subdivision.

Construction has begun on five model homes, the first of 377 planned for the area. Prices for the two-story, ranch and split-level homes will be in the lower 30's. Lots will average 8,500 square feet with a 63-foot to 68-foot frontage.

Later this summer the company plans to begin construction on the 540 apartment units valued at approximately $10 million. The multiple family housing area is immediately to the west of the Mill Creek homes.

The first phase of apartment construction will consist of 326 one and two-bedroom units to be built on 18½ acres. Rentals will range from $180 for one-bedroom apartments and $230 and up for two-bedroom units.

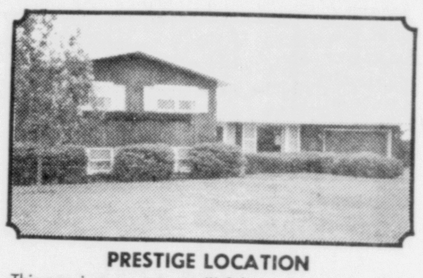

The Mill Creek development borders Northgate, a Miller subdivision of single-family homes in neighboring Arlington Heights. The other Miller subdivisions currently under construction are: The Willows in West Glenview; Surrey Ridge West in Arlington Heights; Reseda West in Palatine; and Wil O Way in Naperville.

The Miller firm is currently building apartments in three other developments: 156 Greenbrier Apartments in Arlington Heights; 1,772 Yorktown Apartments in Lombard; and 540 Lake Louise Apartments in Palatine.

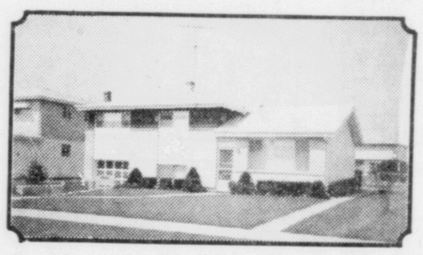

The entrance to the models will be located on Dundee Road, one-quarter mile east of Arlington Heights Road in Buffalo Grove.

Elk Grove Estates townhomes, Elk Grove Village, were recently opened by the Centex Corp.

In Elk Grove Estates, lawn mowing, other outside maintenance and snow removal is taken care of by professionals.

Centered around a 35-acre spring-fed lake, five furnished models are presented in Elk Grove Village Estates, in the $30,400 to $42,500 price range. They feature two, three or four bedrooms, one and one-half to three baths, private front and back yards, garages with Genie automatic garage door openers. All units are centrally airconditioned.

The three-bedroom, two and one-half bath Bordeaux model, a walkway leads through an entry court to the porch and front door, also directly accessible through the two-car garage. Family size breakfast area and, at the opposite end of the home, formal dining room adjoins the U-shaped kitchen featuring built-in gas or electric double oven with Perma-Kkeen catalytic soil removing oven liners, dishwasher, exhaust fan and hood, disposal, Merillat kitchen cabinets and easy-to-clean Textolite countertops, stainless steel sink, vinyl asbestos floor filing.

Insulated safety glass sliding doors open from the living room to the terrace.

A few steps down lead to the basement, with utility and laundry areas and space for a future recreation room.

Upstairs, the quiet level has a master bedroom with wall-to-wall closets, vanity dressing area and private shower bath. The other two bedrooms share another full vanity bath.

The Bordeaux offers 1640 square feet of living space plus two-car garage, storage and basement for $36,100.

"In spite of the abnormally rainy weather which greatly delayed construction, we can offer occupancy by this fall," pointed out Robert C. Winkle, Centex sales director for Elk Grove Village. "We also accept orders for delivery later."

Elk Grove Estates townhomes models, on Arlington Heights Road are open six days a week from ten to eight, Saturdays from ten to six.

Headquarters for Cinch

Ground has been broken for a new 42,500 square foot headquarters building for Cinch Manufacturing Co. on an 18-acre site at 1500 Morse Avenue, Elk Grove Village.

Construction plans have been revealed by Richard Sostek, vice-president and general manager. "Expansions of both product and manufacturing engineering departments over the past few years was a major factor in the decision to erect the facility," Sostek stated. "It will also consolidate our executive, marketing, purchasing, engineering and accounting departments which are currently in several different locations," he added. The new building is scheduled for completion in mid-December 1969.

It is located directly across the street from a 90,000 square foot Cinch plant, completed less than three years ago. With the completion of this new building, Cinch Manufacturing Co. will have built three new plants within the last three years. In addition to Chicago area plants, the company has installations in Pocahantas, Ark., Shelbyville, Ind. and St. Louis, Mo.

Architects for the building are Thelander, Nelson and Associates, Chicago. The contractor is D. J. Velo Co., Chicago, also contractor for the previous Cinch installation in Elk Grove Village.

Cinch Manufacturing Co. is a manufacturer of electronic interconnection devices for the computer, military, aerospace and entertainment industries. Cinch Manufacturing is part of the Cinch Electronics Group, including various electronic divisions of United-Carr Inc., a subsidiary of TRW, Inc.

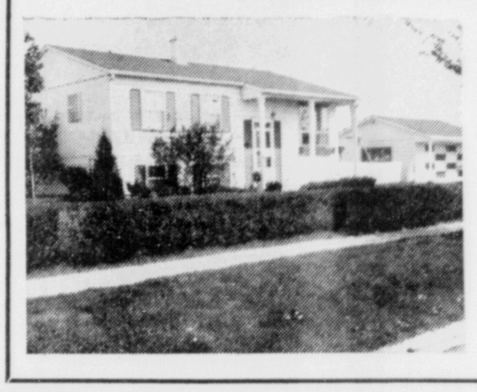

Fedders Products Appoints L. Bogut

ACCORDING TO J. Harris Ward, chairman, Commonwealth Edison Co., the demand of 2½ million customers exceeded the 9 million kilowatt mark for the first time in the company's history, reaching a peak load of 9,250,000 kilowatts. He attributed the high demand to the heavy use of air conditioning and refrigeration, as well as the high level of business and industrial activity in the area.

* * *

WESTERN ELECTRIC marked the celebration of its centennial year with an exhibit at Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, last weekend. Hostesses distributed brochures and balloons. Displays included the history of the telephone, a machine's solid state switching circuit playing tic-tac-toe against the viewer, the workings of both ends of the telephone handset and innovations in manufacturing technology.

Bell Surveys New Building

The number of apartment units and single family homes for which permits were issued in the six-county Chicago metropolitan area in June is slightly lower than totals for the same month in 1968, according to statistics recently disclosed by the Bell Federal Savings Survey of New Building.

Totals for the first six months of this year, however, continue to exceed those reported for the same period last year.

According to the survey, permits were issued for 1,979 single family homes and 3,382 apartment units in June of this year, a total of 5,361 housing units.

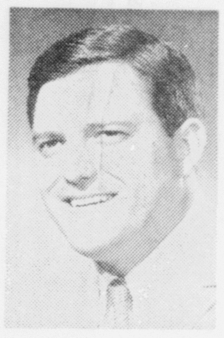

In June, 1968, however, permits were issued for 2,232 homes, and 3,418 apartment units, a total of 5,650 housing units, exceeding the 1969 figure by nearly 300 units.

Although the number of housing units for which permits were issued this month is slightly lower than last year's figures, the total for the first six months of 1969 is 28,698, exceeding the 26,002 reported for the same period last year by 2,696.

The number of apartment units for which permits were issued to date this month period totalled 18,757, an increase of 4,624 over the 1968 total of 14,133.

The number of single family homes for which permits were issued to datt this year, however, is only 9,941 compared to last year's six-month figure of 11,869, according to the survey.

Reserve Insurance Co. has announced the appointment of William Kipp of Rolling Meadows, as employment manager. He will be responsible for all professional and clerical recruiting for the Chicago-based operations, and for assistance in the development of employment programs throughout the company.

Kipp has a substantial background in personnel and recruiting work in the insurance field. Prior to joining Reserve, he was with the Safeco Insurance Group. He is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma.

O'Neil Congratulated By DePaul President

Arthur O'Neil, 218 Brookdale Lane, Palatine, recently received congratulations from the Rev. John R. Cortelyou, C.M., president of DePaul University, for his service in the university's 1969 corporate support drive.

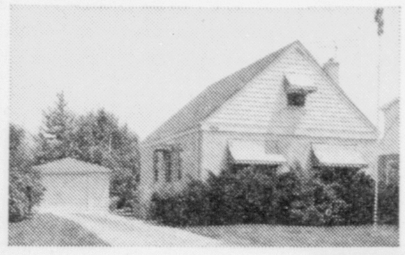

The campaign ended June 30 with a total of $426,245 contributed from Chicago area businesses — 107 per cent of the drive's goal and a significant step toward fulfillment of the university's 10-year "Program of Greatness."

Bell Surveys New Building

The number of apartment units and single family homes for which permits were issued in the six-county Chicago metropolitan area in June is slightly lower than totals for the same month in 1968, according to statistics recently disclosed by the Bell Federal Savings Survey of New Building.

Totals for the first six months of this year, however, continue to exceed those reported for the same period last year.

According to the survey, permits were issued for 1,979 single family homes and 3,382 apartment units in June of this year, a total of 5,361 housing units.

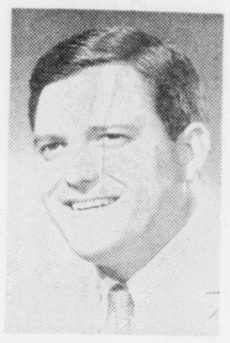

In June, 1968, however, permits were issued for 2,232 homes, and 3,418 apartment units, a total of 5,650 housing units, exceeding the 1969 figure by nearly 300 units.

Although the number of housing units for which permits were issued this month is slightly lower than last year's figures, the total for the first six months of 1969 is 28,698, exceeding the 26,002 reported for the same period last year by 2,696.

The number of apartment units for which permits were issued to date this month period totalled 18,757, an increase of 4,624 over the 1968 total of 14,133.

The number of single family homes for which permits were issued to datt this year, however, is only 9,941 compared to last year's six-month figure of 11,869, according to the survey.

Club For People on the Go

Rocketing jets and sprawling suburbs have created a new kind of private club for business and professional people who hardly touch ground in the course of their work week.

The first of an international network of luxury "offices away from the home office" is now in operation in Chicago by Envoy International Town Clubs, Inc. In addition to deluxe offices, the new town clubs will provide members with a full range of business services, personal conveniences and entertainment facilities.

The new clubs are the concept of three men. Board chairman of the new enterprise is Thomas A. Perine, founder of U. S. Land, Inc., which today — as Boise Cascade Properties, a subsidiary of Boise Cascade Corp. — has become America's largest developer of resort properties. Professional golf champion Jack Nicklaus and Boston attorney F. Lee Bailey, also general counsel of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, serve as vice chairmen of the board.

The Envoy International Town Clubs will provide business and professional men and women, who enroll as members, such necessities as private offices with telephones; secretarial and stenographic services; meeting rooms; a message center for receiving and relaying mail, wire, and telephone communications; hourly stock market reports plus the Dow-Jones broad tape; and a complete reservation and ticket service for airlines, theaters, restaurants and hotels.

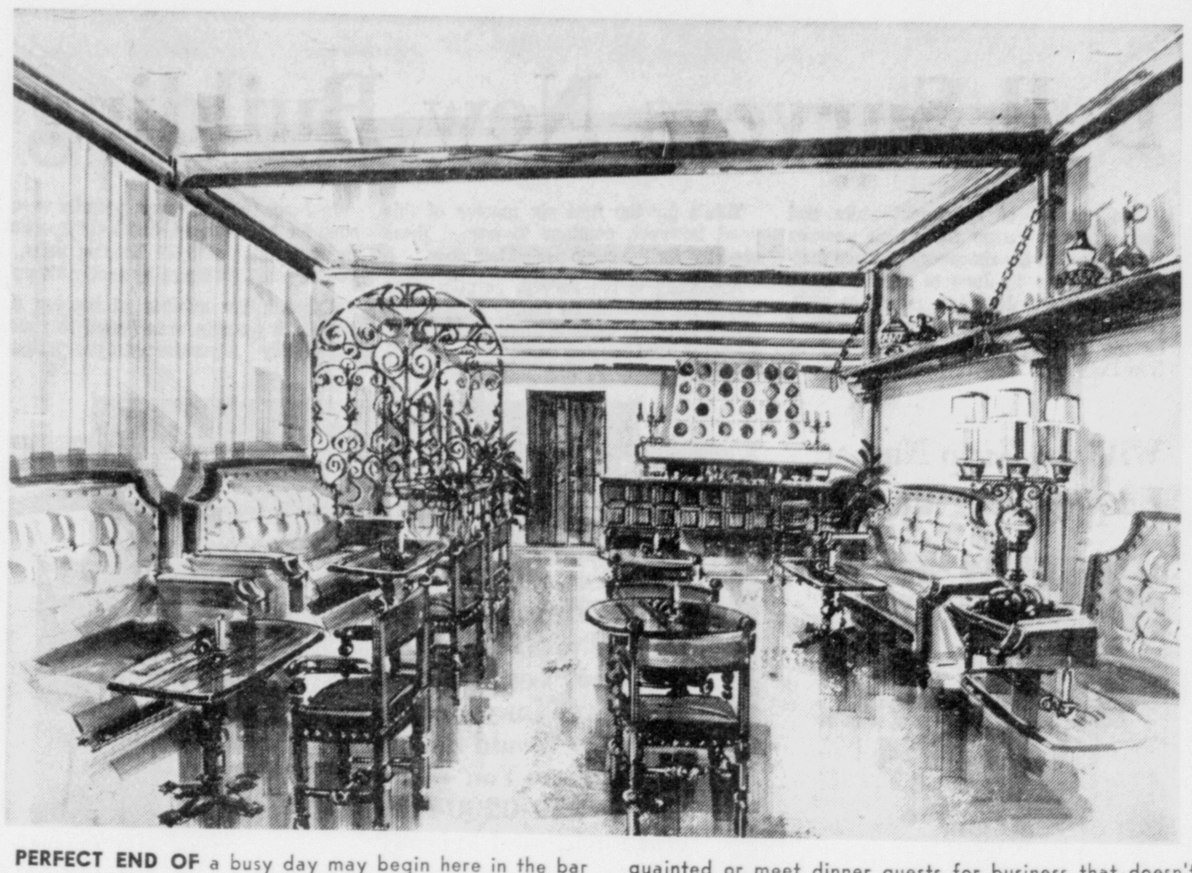

Personal conveniences of the full-service clubs will include a complete spa, with showers, lockers, exercise equipment, sunlamps and sauna bath; a bar with buffet food service; the Oleg Cassini Boutique for personal needs, including a private barber shop; and lounges.

The cost for all this? An annual membership fee of $100 ($15 extra for spouse), good throughout the international network, plus charges for services used.

In preparation for creating the Envoy International Town Clubs, Perine's organization devoted two years to surveying 30,000 business people to determine their actual needs away from home base.

"Our surveys determined that the business person's greatest hang-up in the jet age is 'loss of office'," Perine said. "Dropped off in a strange city or foreign country, he doesn't know where to turn for essential support services. As a result, he wastes more time than he can afford on securing needed assistance, whether he needs a letter typed or foreign correspondence translated."

By the end of this year Envoy International Town Clubs will be open in Chicago, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Washington, D. C., New York, London, Frankfurt and Montreal. Corporate headquarters are at 333 North Michigan Ave., Chicago. Eventually, Town Clubs will be located in at least 35 major cities of the U. S., Canada, Mexico and Europe.

PERFECT END OF a busy day may begin here in the bar and cocktail lounge of the Envoy International Town Club, a national network of "offices away from the home office" headquartered in Chicago. Members can get acquainted or meet dinner guests for business that doesn't end at the office. Business and professional men and women will be provided with offices, business services, persona conveniences and entertainment facilities.

Attends Building Industry Course

Richard E. Poole, vice president, Palatine Savings & Loan Assn., Palatine, recently attended the 16th Short Course in Residential Construction for Mortgage Lenders held July 14 through 19 on the Urbana campus of the University of Illinois.

Co-sponsored by the University of Illinois Small Homes Council-Building Research Council and the Division of University Extension, the course is a part of the continuing service of the university to the building industry.

The course included factors which give a residential structure its permanent value including location, design, planning and construction.

The Small Homes Council-Building Research Council is a non-profit research unit of the University of Illinois. The council provides service to members of the housing industry and consumer information to the general public.

Local Inns Expanding

by LEA TONKIN

The Inn crowd is mushrooming in the O'Hare Airport environs, not only adding to the number of hotels and motels to choose from, but also bringing in a significant amount of convention business.

Jumbo jets, carrying several hundred passengers, are scheduled to be introduced at O'Hare, already the world's busiest airport, over the next three to four years. The rapid population expansion in the Northwest suburban area and the network of highways linking the area with major transportation systems also account for the growing need for accommodations.

ALREADY ATTRACTING a steady stream of convention-goers, Arlington Park Towers, a 13-story hotel and convention center, opened this spring adjacent to Arlington Park race track, Arlington Heights. The only hotel in the world with its own golf course, race track and railroad station, it also features a ballroom with enough room for 600 people; the Round Table, with a seating capacity of 1,500, which may be divided into two or three smaller rooms; and a lower level, also with a capacity of 1,500. The hotel is close to Interstate 90, the Northwest Tollway, is serviced by the Chicago & North Western Railway, and has limousine service to O'Hare.

Another mammoth addition to the area is the O'Hareport Hotel, a $12 million, 18-story hotel and business meeting complex, scheduled for completion late this year. Its convention hall area is designed for meetings of up to 300 people, and includes 20,000 square feet of exhibit area, 40 conference rooms, a 1,000 seat banquet facility and two floors of executive offices.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE gained the new Holiday Inn Centex, opened in September, 1968. Serving Centex Industrial Park, it is a 10-minute drive from O'Hare. A banquet room, restaurant and 157 motel units are in the new motel.

Construction may begin in the near future on a hotel for the traveling public, included in the master plan for O'Hare Airport since 1959. A proposed lease of airport property for the new hotel is now being checked and must be voted on by the Chicago City Council. If approved, the hotel would include between 650-700 rooms, with accommodations for business meetings. The height of the building will be regulated by the Federal Aviation Administration control tower requirements, so that the structure will not block the sight line of air traffic controllers.

Additions to large motels and hotels in the area also reflect the mobility and expansion of the Northwest suburban area. Operating at almost capacity since its opening in December, 1967, the Chicago Marriott Motor Hotel has 500 rooms on the Kennedy Expressway near O'Hare Airport. A major expansion including 240 more guest rooms and a complete recreation center is now under construction, and according to general manager Robert Barries, will allow the hotel to accommodate more hotel guests as well as larger convention groups. The expansion will duplicate the low-level structures now surrounding the Hotel's 12-story tower.

QUALITY COURT Flying Carpet Motor Inn on Mannheim Road, Rosemont, is adding 180 more guest rooms to its present 200 rooms, as well as convention facilities for 500 people. Dining and recreation facilities are also being enlarged. Also in Rosemont, the Sheraton-O'Hare has added 200 rooms, bringing its total to 500 rooms.

Whether a traveler flies in to O'Hare Airport or is a resident of the metropolitan area taking a quickie vacation, the booming motel and hotel business gives him a variety of accommodations to choose from.

Gnapp Heads Auditors Group

Robert V. Gnapp, as president, heads a new slate of officers elected by the Chicago Chapter of the Institute of Internal Auditors. Gnapp, an assistant vice president with the First National Bank of Chicago, lives at 490 South Street, Elmhurst.

Other officers who eill serve with Gnapp until July, 1970 are: James K. Faget, 126 Illinois Blvd., Hoffman Estates, manager of internal auditing for Amsted Industries, Inc., who will serve as vice president of operations; Robert Sechter, 517 W. North St., Itasca, auditor of Chicago Title and Trust Co., was elected vice president; Richard I. Polanek, 10400 S. Seeley, Chicago, director of internal auditing for Interlake Steel Corp., will serve as treasurer; and Harold J. Mintern, 1021 Whitmore Lane, Lombard, audit manager of Sunbeam Corp., was elected secretary.

The Chicago Chapter, with over 350 members, is one of the largest in the Institute, a professional organization encouraging educational. informational and social activities.

Crisis Created by Mortgage Market

Congress was urged recently by the National Association of Real Estate Boards to take long-range steps to solve the recurring problem of the mortgage market, including authorizing the Federal National Mortgage Assn. to deal in conventional loans to help make these nationally marketable commodities as is now the case with FHA and VA loans.

Don E. Dixon, Lincoln, Neb., chairman of the Realtors' Washington Committee of the 89,000-member organization, declared in testimony to the House Housing Subcommittee that "the existing state of the mortgage market has created a crisis in the housing and real estate industries which is almost without precedent."

In discussing housing legislation, he attributed the current situation of high interest rates, consumer resistance, and slowing down of housing construction and turnover to "too-long neglect of long-range and more fundamental approaches to the problem."

At present, FNMA is a government-sponsored, privately-owned corporation which buys and sells residential mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans Administration in order to provide liquidity and stability in the home mortgage market.

Realtor Dixon told the subcommittee that considerable progress has already been made in the development of a strong secondary market for residential mortgages by authorizing FNMA to tap new capital sources by issuing long-term obligations backed by pools of mortgages held in its portfolio.

"But FNMA should have an impact on the entire mortgage market, not just that part consisting of FHA and VA mortgages," he stated.

"Still higher interest rates would aggravate rather than ease this problem," Dixon stated, and explained that, in NAREB's opinion, "the most decisive step that Congress could take to relieve this situation is to complete Congressional action on the House-passed bill extending the tax surcharge and repealing the investment credit."

In discussing specific points of the Administration's housing proposals, Dixon explained NAREB's request for an amendment to Section 235 (the home ownership interest rate subsidy program) to permit existing housing units to be eligibile without limitation, and the association's opposition to increasing the mortgage limits under the program in order to insure that the program would remain one primarily for low-income families.

He called also for extension of the rent supplement program to make existing units eligible and for an experimental program under which tenants under the rent supplement program could select their own standard rental units in the private market. This would be accomplished by paying monthly housing allowances to the tenants in the amount of the difference between 25 per cent of the tenant's monthly income and the maximum fair market rental in the community as set by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

Dixon voiced the association's call for greater emphasis on the program under which public housing rental units are converted into units for ownership by the tenants and for the Section 23 leased housing program under which existing dwellings are utilized to provide adequate shelter for low-income families with part of their rents subsidized.

He concluded by calling for passage of a measure already introduced which would create a mass transit trust fund for use in the development of urban mass transit systems.

Michels Moves To Marketing Position

F. Thomas Michels

F. Thomas Michels, of Bartlett, Ill., has been appointed manager of distributor marketing at Ekco Products, Inc., and will be based at the company headquarters in Wheeling. He will be responsible for the development and management of sales programs for Ekco distributors, sales training programs for Ekco salesmen and authorized distributor salesmen.

Michels joined Ekco in February 1966, and has been continuously active in distributor sales and direct accounts. He attended the University of Illinois, and is a member of the American Management Association and the Society of Bakery Engineers.

Food Film Promotes Arlington Resident

The x-ray unit will be located near the Mill-Pond at the shopping center. Golf-Mill is located at the intersection of Golf Road and Milwaukee Ave., Niles.

The free chest x-ray unit is provided as a public service by the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District with the cooperation of the Golf-Mill Merchants Association.

Turelli Retires

Richard Turelli of Highland Park, was recently honored with a watch and a luncheon, given by the company executives and fellow employes upon his retirement from Ekco Products, Inc.

Turelli was employed as a gate guard for 11 years and will be warmly remembered by all who entered the Plant as "Mr. Congeniality." Beyond his various duties in giving helpful assistance, direction and instructions, he was best known for his smile which preceded his enthusiastic "Welcome to Ekco."

Prior to his service with Ekco, he worked a mile route for the Bowman Dairy Co. (Highland Park Division) for 33 years.
